Junta Boots Bosch

Dominican President Deported

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — Former president Juan Bosch, deposed in Wednesday's military coup, was secretly carried into exile Saturday night by a Domincan navy frigate.

With the silver-haired intellectual were his wife, Carmen, and his longtime friend and former political associate, Gen. Antonia Imbert Barrera, leader of the military junta that threw him out of office.

Bosch was whisked from the national palace in a car while a public curfew was in effect, then placed aboard the 103-foot diesel-powered frigate Mella.

No destination was announced, but a high-ranking officer said the frigate would go on a "slow, leisurely ocean voyage." This indicated Bosch might be taken to Europe.

The Armed Forces junta ended Bosch's administration Wednesday after seven months in office.

Imbert Berrera's daughter, who remained behind, said Bosch refused to leave his detention quarters in the palace unless an ambassador or Imbert Berrera accompanied him.

Meanwhile, the United States emphasized its displeasure at the overthrow of Bosch's government by announcing the return to Washington of the U.S. Ambassador and the heads of foreign aid and military aid missions to the Dominican Republic.

The U.S. government had announced a few hours after last Wednesday's military coup the suspension of diplomatic relations and of economic aid to the Dominican Republic.

Saturday's action was announced in Santo Domingo, the capital of the Dominican Republic by Ambassador John Bartlow Martin, apparently to press home the word to the Dominican people that the United States does not like to see the country's first elected president in more than 30 years driven out of office by the military.

State Dept. officials said Martin had been called home for consultation, and that no decision has been reached whether he will return to his post.

Diplomatic circles speculated that even if the United States resumes normal relations with the new regime in Santo Domingo — as is expected after a lapse of a few weeks — Martin eventually might be replaced because of his close personal and official friendship with the deposed President Juan Bosch.

The abrupt withdrawal of a diplomat in the midst of a crisis normally means a kind of protest. U.S. officials have expressed their regret at the overthrow of the Bosch government, blamed by his critics in that country on a policy of non-action against Communists.

There was a report the U.S. government has warned the new regime it would view with the gravest concern if any physical harm should come to Bosch, reported held a prisoner in the presidential palace.

Workers Plus Machines Produce More—Jobs Drop

Washington (UPI)—A new Labor Dept. study indicated Saturday that productivity is rising faster than output in manufacturing industries and threatens to sharply increase unemployment among factory workers.

This was one of the major findings in a survey of productivity changes by Leon Greenberg, assistant commissioner of labor statistics and one of the government's top experts on the subject.

Productivity, or output per man-hour, rose abour 4% in private industry in 1962, Greenberg said. He called this a "relatively large increase" above the average annual gain of 3% for the period after World War II and far above the average increase of 2.4 per cent for 1909-62.

Labor leaders were sure to use the study to back up their claim for a 35-hour week to cushion the job losses caused by automation.

President Kennedy, speaking Saturday in Whiskeytown, Calif., on his current western tour, forecast a reduction in the basic 40-hour week.

"As machines take more and more jobs from men," Kennedy said, "we are going to seek the work week reduced." He has previously opposed organized labor's drive for a shorter week on grounds it would increase costs and deprive the nation of full production at a critical time in world affairs.

The Labor Dept. study said total output—the amount of goods and services produced—has risen faster than the increase in productivity but that the gap is narrowing.

But, Greenberg noted, this has not been true in the critical manufacturing sector and the number of factory workers has been reduced sharply.

The average increase in productivity for production workers in manufacturing during the past five years was 4.1%, the government study showed, while output rose 3.6%.

"In the past five years . . . output went up less than the productivity rate for production worker man-hours and production-worker employment declined," Greenberg said.

He said the figures indicate that manufacturing concerns are introducing labor-saving machinery or technological changes at a faster rate and this "points up the problem of job opportunities for blue-collar workers."

His study, submitted to the Senate manpower subcommittee this week, was cautiously worded. But it was understood that his findings were considered highly significant in showing the stepped-up pace of worker - displacement by machines and the relative slowdown in economic growth to take up the slack.

Greenberg said that, over the long run, rising productivity in this country has been closely related to increased output, employment, income and leisure time.

Over the short run, however, it means many workers have to find new jobs. This is easily done in a full-employment economy, he said, but then he issued this warning:

"If output is not increasing fast enough if workers lack necessary education or skills, if discriminatory bars exist, if there are impediments to mobility, then long-term and high-level ratios of unemployment may arise."

Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz and other manpower experts have contended the conditions listed by Greenberg already plague the United States. Unemployment now is close to 4 million and averages 5.6 per cent of the labor force.

Madness in Moscow

'Hate China' Push Takes New Twist

Moscow (UPI) — The Soviet Union's campaign to turn public opinion against Communist China has been so successful that Japanese citizens in Moscow complain they are being abused by Russians mistaking them for Chinese.

Kremlin propagandists aggravated man-on-the-street anger with the Peking regime in the Sino-Soviet ideological dispute and made it clear that they view the split as permanent. Violent anti-Peking letters in the press showed they were succeeding.

They rewrote the entry for Communist China in the yearbook of the Soviet Grand Encyclopedia and buried a brief dispatch about the arrival of a Red Chinese "Friendship" delegation in Moscow on the back page of Pravda in fine print.

Japanese sources reported that their embassy here is considering a proposal to require Japanese nationals to wear rising sun emblems so that they will not be taken as Chinese.

"The possibility is not excluded," an embassy spokesman said, "that such identification would become standard for Japanese in the U.S.S.R."

One Japanese newspaperman told United Press International that he was molested by two Russians in Moscow's Gorki Park.

"Are you a Chinese?" the newsman quoted the Russians as asking him. He said he insisted that he was Japanese, but the Russians did not believe him. "I had to restrain them from attacking me," he said.

Another Japanese citizen reported that he was asked by a group of Russians on the street, "Why don't you go back to China?"

Favorable Decision Seen on Wheat Deal

Quick OK of Soviet Sale Forecast

Washington (UPI)—Congressional sources said they expect a quick decision on a possible multi-million-dollar wheat sale to Russia after President Kennedy returns from his western tour Monday.

The chances are it will be favorable, they said.

This feeling was expressed by lawmakers who attended a closed-door briefing by Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman and Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges Thursday.

They said they could "sense" what was coming even though the Administration had made it clear no final decision has been made.

One congressman said he didn't anticipate a concrete Russian offer until the United States indicated in some way that it would be receptive

Another Meeting

Freeman, Hodges and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball will hold a similar closed door session Monday with members of the Senate Foreign Relations and Agriculture committees.

Kennedy has already started to sound out Congress on the issue and has found it runs both hot and cold, depending on the legislator and what part of the country he comes from. Everybody seems cautious, however.

Congress would favor the United States getting rid of some of its huge wheat surplus for dollars or gold, thus helping to reduce both stockpiles and the balance of payments deficit. But none wants to be pinned with a "soft on Communism" label or be accused of providing substantial help to the Soviet System.

"At least they won't be shooting it (the wheat) back at us," said Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N. J., a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and one of those favoring the wheat sale.

Propaganda Value

Gallagher said the transaction also would be of great propaganda value to the West by pointing up the superiority of agriculture operating in a free economy.

"If we have to feed Communist Russia," he said, "it shows the world ours is the better system."

Rep. Charles M. Teague, R-Calif., a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said he was not sure what the United States should do. He said there are arguments against the move.

"It is probably that (Soviet Premier Nikita) Khrushchev will sell or give part of the grain to Cuba's Castro," he said, "and much of it will be used to increase the rations of Russian soldiers."

Get Wheat

At the same time, Teague said, if the United States doesn't do it, "the Soviets will get the wheat anyway from some of our allies, such as Canada and Australia."

He said the sale would "represent a boon to American agriculture and also contribute to improvement of our unhealthy balance of payments situation."

"If we send them wheat," Teague said, "it should be for cash on the barrelhead. Although, even then, I am not sure we should do so."

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman personally gave U.S. grain dealers his permission to enter talks with a Soviet delegation on possible sale of wheat to Russia, a Minneapolis television station said Saturday night in a copyrighted story.

WCCO-TV said it had learned from Thomas R. Hughes, executive assistant to Freeman, that the secretary gave the dealers the green light two weeks ago, when Canada's sale of wheat to Russia was announced.

Since that time, the story said, members of the Agriculture Dept. have been in constant touch with negotiators in Ottawa. Hughes was quoted as saying Freeman did not consult with President Kennedy before the talks began.

Kennedy's 11-State Tour Ends

Seeks World Conservation

Las Vegas, Nev. (UPI) — President Kennedy concluded a 10,000 - mile conservation tour with a call for international cooperation in preserving natural and human resources as a means "to promote world order."

"In a broad sense," he said, "the test-ban treaty ratified by the Senate last week also was a triumph for conservation — for hopefully, it will reduce radioactive pollution of the one resource all men share, the atmosphere itself."

The president's prepared speech was the final one in a five-day, 11-state expedition billed as a "conservation tour," but ranging also into the political areas of taxes, economical revival and foreign policy.

His visit here was the first time an "in-office" President had visited Las Vegas since Franklin D. Roosevelt dedicated Hoover Dam in 1935.

Kennedy flew here from Whiskeytown, Calif., where he dedicated a new reservoir. He hailed his Administration's record in picking up the conservation trail he said Republicans blazed many years ago — but which he implied they strayed from during the Eisenhower administration.

From Las Vegas, where the temperature was near 100 degrees, Kennedy flew to an even more sweltering Palm Springs, Calif., for a weekend of rest before returning to Washington Monday morning.

He said his five days of viewing "places of scenic wonder and the wonders of modern science" had led him to believe that in the years ahead America's future "will depend more and more on the success of other peoples in dealing with their resources. Technology and science are compelling us to do international conservation planning," Kennedy said.

Gophers See Red In Stands, Too

By LEO SCHERER

Minneapolis, Minn. — There were some 65,000 football fans watching Nebraska edge by Minnesota Saturday, but 6,000 Nebraska followers took the spotlight

Nebraska fans, the majority sitting on the south side, could easily be recognized by the red and white colors and also their loud cheering.

One of the Nebraska cheerleaders said the Nebraska contingent was the most enthusiastic for a road game in many years.

Minnesota had a large rooter club sitting on the north side of the field and all members were dressed in white shirts

However, the noise from the undermanned Nebraska cheering section at times could be heard in many sections of the massive Memorial Stadium.

Husker fans seemed to cheer louder the second half when the Huskers scored their second touchdown and the Golden Gophers tried desperately to overcome the seven point margin.

The overcast skies and sprinkles of rain didn't seem to bother the Nebraska fans.

James Pittenger, University of Nebraska ticket manager, said about 5,000 tickets were sold to Nebraska fans for the ball game.

However, an estimated 1,000 other Nebraska fans who lived in Minneapolis or Minnesota also attended the game and purchased tickets from the University of Minnesota.

One Surviving Sextuplet Found

Mendon, Mo. (AP) — The sole survivor of one of the two sets of sextuplets in U.S. medical history, now 27, is in good health and lives near this north-central Missouri town.

Miss Marjorie Louise Speichinger is living with her parents, Philip and Adeline Speichinger, on their farm four miles southeast of here. She was born Aug. 9, 1936, but the other five were stillborn.

The recent birth of the Fischer quintuplets in Aberdeen, S.D. sent the U.S. Public Health Service looking for the one survivor of two sextuplet births. A check through newspaper files showed it was Miss Speichinger. Over the years the event had been forgotten.

Oil-Filled Barge Explodes; 1 Dies, Mississippi Blocked

Muscatine, Ia., (UPI)—Towboat traffic on the Mississippi River remained blocked here as smoke and flames continued to pour from a runaway barge loaded with oil.

One man was killed when an explosion ripped the barge as it was being guided into locks.

The barge was immediately separated from three others in the tow and it drifted into the channel and burned furiously.

The Coast Guard said the barge would be pushed out of the channel as soon as the flames subside enough to permit towboats to approach it. One end had settled to the river bottom.

Flames from burning oil block the Mississippi River near Muscatine, Ia., after a barge loaded with oil exploded. One man was killed.

Towboat Capt. Bill Pickett, Greenville, Miss., said the explosion occurred about 50 feet into the river channel. Pickett and lock officials said the barge did not touch the locks.

Debris from the barge was blown onto the lock area. Oil seeping from the flaming barge drifted down the river, some of it catching fire, blocking river traffic.

Assistant lockmaster Alvey Engerson suffered a slight burn on his arm from the blast. He was aboard the tow, guiding it toward the lock.

Robert Clevenstine, chief of the Army Corps of Engineers operations division at Rock Island, Ill., said the flaming barge remained about stationary in mid-river, held there by a slight wind.

Clevenstine said he believed the blast was caused when sparks were produced as the barge scraped against a concrete guide wall of the locks, but witnesses said the barge did not touch the locks.

The oil barges were en route to storage tanks in Minnesota.

ACLU Petitions Supreme Court

Washington (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) petitioned the Supreme Court for a ruling on whether police can hold arrested persons for a long time without arraignment.

The question arose in the ACLU's petition for a review of the conviction of John J. Holt on drunk driving charges at Richmond, Va., May 10, 1962. Holt said he was held nearly nine hours before arraignment although a justice of the peace was nearby.

More Die On Roads In August

Chicago (AP) — More persons were killed in traffic accidents in August than in any other recorded month, the National Safety Council reports.

The toll was 4,270 or 6% higher than the 4,030 who died in August, 1952. It was 1% above the count of 4,217 in December, 1936, the former record high month.

In the last 22 months there were 20 months that showed increases from the corresponding months of the preceding year.

Through Aug. 31 the death toll amounted to 27,200 for 1963, 5% more than the previous eight-month high of 25,900 recorded last year.

The council said this indicates a toll for all of 1963 of 43,000 as against 40,900 in 1962.

Along with the increase in deaths, the volume of travel rose in the eight months. Under these two factors the death rate was 5.2 persons for every 100 million miles traveled. Last year at this time the rate was 5.1 persons, 2% lower.

U.S., Common Market Facing Another Rift

Wheat, Grain 'War' Shaping Up

By EDWIN DARBY
Chicago Sun-Times Special

Chicago—The Chicken War between the United States and the European Common Market is just chicken feed, one might say, when compared with the wheat and grain feed war that's shaping up.

In terms of hard cash, the west European decision to maintain high tariff barriers against U.S. poultry may mean a trade loss of more than $45 million. But trade in wheat and feed grains amounting to some $400 million is endangered by the policies now being pushed by the Common Market countries.

Washington is all set to retaliate and it might be guessed that, in this case, there's little tendency to be soft. In response to the tariff schedule on U.S. poultry, the State Department has already told Common Market representatives that Washington will boost duties on a list of industrial products. The volume of trade likely to be lost by west Europe totals an estimated $61 million annually.

According to Philip H. Trezise, deputy assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, Common Market officials have protested bitterly at the size of the dollar figure, claiming it represents at least twice what the United States would lose through the tariff on poultry.

Talking Point

The U.S. is willing to negotiate, apparently, but the talking point is really what Europe is ready to do in the future on the much larger grain question.

The United States, as a practical matter, can't boost duties on goods coming from the Common Market countries alone. But it can, and will, pick products that are normally imported only from European Markets. The list includes such things as brandy (France), film (Germany), and small trucks and busses of the type manufactured by Volkswagen and Renault (Germany and France).

Furthermore, the U.S. has told Common Market representatives that we can't go through with the heralded list of tariff reductions on industrial products unless a reasonable arrangement can be made on agriculture products. "We've been almost as blunt as that," Trezise says.

But it is a sticky problem to say the least. As Trezise says, "everyone of the six Common Market countries has a domestic agriculture problem, with France, Germany and Italy having a political problem of the first order."

Support Prices

France and Germany particularly want to see support prices inside the Common Market at a rate high enough to encourage European production of feed grains to bring the selling price up to the Common Market support price. Meanwhile, in two, three or five years, high prices could encourage enough production on the continent to make imports unnecessary.

"Europe could conceivably generate a wheat surplus in five years," Trezise says, pointing out that Midwest farmers then would be knocked out of the wheat market and lose feed grain markets to surplus European wheat.

That's the long-term outlook and it isn't good unless some tough bargaining is done.

Fischer Quints 2 Weeks Old; 3 Bottle Fed

Aberdeen, S.D. (UPI)—The Fisher quintuplets, two weeks old, may celebrate the occasion with another trip to the scales, their doctor said.

Dr. James Berbos, who delivered the four girls and a boy Sept. 14, said he anticipates the scales will show that each of the quints has gained weight.

"They are very active and filling out nicely," he said.

Three of the quints, James Andrew, Mary Catherine and Mary Margaret, are getting their meals out of bottles while their sisters, Mary Magdalene and Mary Ann, get theirs by means of nose tubes.

10,000 At Red Rally In India

Calcutta, India (UPI) — Leaders of the pro-Peking faction of the Indian Communist Party told a cheering rally of 10,000 persons the time has come for "mass action" to force the release of political prisoners and to seize food for the hungry.

While it was always known that there was a large pro-Peking element in Calcutta, the strength of the rally was an alarming eye-opener to the government of Prime Minister Jawahalal Nehru, which jailed many Chinese during the border war with Peking.

A. K. Gopalan, member of the Communist group in the Indian Parliament and principal speaker at the mammoth rally, issued what he called a "strong warning" to the government on the issues of food shortage and political prisoners.

It was the first such big open meeting of the pro-Peking elements and was held in defiance of the Indian Communist Party directive to all leaders, including Gopalan, to shun all association with the convention. It was boycotted by pro-Moscow elements.

Kindy Guide To Glasses For Students

Kindy has over 50 years of experience in improving students' eyesight and helping them choose glasses to see better and look better, too

In order to read, concentrate and study comfortably, a student needs keen, clear vision. Signs that a student's vision is not adequate may be:

- Frowning
- Eye rubbing
- Headaches
- Blinking
- Poor grades
- Tilting the head

The student with inadequate vision may become easily irritable when doing close work. Or he may show a lack of interest in distant objects which he cannot distinguish, such as the writing on a blackboard. Outdoor games may become too difficult.

The student may complain of headaches or tiredness after using his eyes. He may even recognize that things look blurred and complain about it. Or he may not complain at all.

Every student's eyesight should be examined by a registered optometrist now—

GLASSES FOR BOYS

Boys' glasses must be masculine and rugged. Younger boys need extra sturdy glasses for the highly active life they lead.

In one example, the popular "Rebel" frame, Kindy provides a special steel reinforcing embedded across the bridge of shock-proof plastic. All Kindy glasses are available with hardened lenses. Boyish styling brings out the charm in young faces.

Older boys in the higher grades and college have their features quite well developed. Appearance is of extreme importance to them. They need masculine frames with an up-to-date flavor. Choosing from Kindy's wide selection of young men's frames for general wear or sports helps them see better and still feel comfortable and well groomed.

GLASSES FOR GIRLS

Girls' glasses must be feminine and fashionable. Getting the best appearance means matching the characteristics of the frame to the facial features.

Young girls have a childish delicacy that requires a light and airy frame. That's how Kindy's new "Kewpie Doll" frames can look so pretty.

They are one of many styles designed to enhance a youngster's appearance.

Girls in high school and college lean toward modern, sophisticated eyewear. Styling that highlights their best features makes them feel more at home in class and at social events. Kindy's people are especially trained to show and explain the elements of styling in eyewear and how they can be used for the best effect.

CONTACT LENSES

Often invisible contact lenses are especially suitable to the student. The popular and attractive young girl may find them to be just what she wants. The same may be true for the boy who participates in active sports (even professional football players wear them). Registered optometrists at Kindy Optical Company will be happy to give you complete information to help you make the wisest decision in regard to contact lenses.

Bring in your child for a student eyesight examination now.

Britain's Labor Party Mounts Effort to Oust Conservatives

Scarborough, England (AP)—Harold Wilson's Labor Party is mounting a final effort to drive Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservatives from office.

Two thousand delegates are assembling here for Labor's 62nd annual conference, confident that power is in their grasp after 12 years in the wilderness. The conference opens Monday.

They have been infected by the optimism of the 47-year-old Wilson himself.

The Conservative government lately has been hit black and blue. Britain has been barred from joining Europe's Common Market by De Gaulle. The Commonwealth is divided. Successive espionage disclosures have shocked the nation. The sensational sex-security scandal surrounding ex-war minister John Profumo, who shared the favors of Christine Keeler with a Russian diplomat, has tainted the whole regime. Foreign competitors are squeezing British traders out of some world markets.

Wilson has promised a steady, sustained, purposeful expansion of the economy; greater productivity and efficiency to pull prices down and push exports up; an alliance between science and industry to turn the country into "the pilot plant of the world;" new ideas, designs, managers and methods in a shakeup of industry; more scientists, universities, schools, research; incentives for those who "earn" money, sanctions against those who "make" it; state-run "growth points" for new enterprises made possible by scientific discoveries; a rundown of Britain's costly nuclear role; disengagement of East-West forces in Europe; more trade with Communist countries; more business-like relations with the United States.

Almost every opinion poll since 1961 has told a tale of spreading disenchantment with Conservative rule.

Gallup Poll

60% Favor Kennedy's Tax Cut

Copyright, 1963, American Institute of Public Opinion

By GEORGE GALLUP

Princeton, N.J. — Passage of the bill reducing income taxes by the House of Representatives came at a time when a majority of voters of the nation, who have followed this issue, had been won to the Administration's viewpoint.

In the latest Gallup survey, completed prior to the House vote, those voters who had followed the pros and cons voted in favor of the tax cut by a ratio of two to one.

Persons interviewed in this survey were put through a series of questions.

They were first asked:

"Have you heard or read about the Kennedy proposal to reduce income taxes?"

Those who answered "yes" to this question were then asked the following two questions:

"What is Kennedy's chief argument in favor of such a cut at this time?" and "What is the chief argument of Senator Byrd and others against a cut at this time?"

Those persons well enough informed to answer these two questions and who, therefore, were in a position to weigh the pros and cons, were asked this final question:

"How do you, yourself feel? Do you favor or oppose a cut in income taxes now?"

Here is the verdict of those who were familiar with the arguments on both sides:

Favor a tax cut	60%
Oppose	29
No opinion	11

Of all the persons interviewed, approximately one-half had given the tax bill issue enough thought to have arrived at a definite opinion.

The argument that a cut in taxes will give a boost to business is cited as the chief argument in favor of such a cut, along with such responses as "it will decrease unemployment." These were accepted as proof of the public's awareness of the reasons for a cut.

On the other hand, the reason for not cutting taxes at this time cited most often is that such action would increase the deficit of the country, and that government spending is already too high.

Greece Names Jurist to Head Government

Athens, Greece (AP) — The president of the supreme court has been named by King Paul to head a caretaker government until Greece's parliamentary elections Nov. 3.

Stylianos Mavromichalis, a 61-year-old jurist, has been out of politics since joining the tribunal in 1946.

The appointment of a judge rather than a parliamentary deputy as premier was regarded as a major concession to opposition parties, which had demanded a non-political caretaker regime.

Off Again

Trying Times in Great Britain

With the Denning report now a best seller in Great Britain, most observers have concluded that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is politically dead. It now only remains to find a formula that will permit Macmillan to retire without appearing to have been forced out by the report.

• • •

Jurist Lord Denning's report was based on an exhaustive, three-month investigation into the security aspects of the Profumo-Keeler-Ivanov scandal. The report had been asked by Macmillan following the resignation of War Minister John Profumo.

• • •

The Macmillan government was absolved of any security failings. The most damaging section of the Denning report, from Macmillan's point of view, was its finding that the prime minister and his cabinet colleagues had not succeeded in fulfilling their responsibilities because they had failed to detect that Profumo was lying when he denied he was having an affair with Miss Keeler.

Despite Macmillan's statement that he will not resign, it seems most likely he will bow to the increasing clamor for his retirement and that a new man will lead the Tory party into the next general election scheduled for 1964. It will be impossible for the British people to forget the Profumo affair while Macmillan remains as prime minister.

It has been tragic to see a proud nation and a distinguished prime minister brought low by a sex scandal which had overtones of international intrigue. Unavoidable was the world impression that Great Britain was suffering from moral decay from the top down.

• • •

Beneficiary of the affair will be the Labor party. Polls show that if elections were held now it would hold a safe lead over the Conservatives. Many members of Macmillan's Conservative party believe that this can only be changed if a new leader is given a chance to pick up the pieces.

It appears that in the interest of his party, and perhaps his country as well, Macmillan will have little choice but to resign.

University Transport Problems

A university which is adding the equivalent of a fair-sized Nebraska town every year is bound to have problems — human problems involving the care, feeding and movement of human beings.

• • •

Certainly the University of Nebraska has these problems. Completely non-academic matters like parking automobiles and getting from the downtown campus to the Ag College require a continuing burst of attention and ingenuity.

• • •

By clearing several plots of land on the fringes of the campus, University officials have provided about 550 more parking stalls this year. This relieves a persistent problem but is not likely to do much more than accommodate this year's automobile expansion.

The transport problem between downtown and the Ag campus seems to be eased quite well by addition of an hourly shuttle bus service between the two points. This not only offers convenience for students but helps keep private cars from jamming the streets between the campuses.

Now the question arises: might this apparently succesful shuttle service be implemented to help solve the parking problems that are sure to become increasingly severe in coming years?

This seems particularly pertinent in view of the location of the State Fairgrounds about midway between the campuses. At the Fairgrounds are large parking areas which are totally unused during the regular University terms.

Why couldn't the shuttle bus swing into the Fairgrounds, pick up students and faculty members parking there, and transport them to either campus?

• • •

WILLIAM S. WHITE'S Views

The Status of Puerto Rico

Washington — The new shadows of disorder falling over Latin America in the overthrow of the Dominican Republic's elected government have moved a piece of unfinished congressional business from the category of the desirable to the category of the essential.

White

This unfinished business is a resolution recently approved by the House Insular Affairs Commitee to set up a bipartisan commission to make a ways-and-means inquiry leading to a vote by the people of Puerto Rico to determine for all time the future status of that green and hopeful outpost of American democracy.

• • •

For Clarification

Puerto Rico is not a state but rather a free American commonwealth with its own constitution, elected officials and court system. The ultimate choices open to its people would be three: to remain in commonwealth status, with the economic advantages inherent in that system because of present favorable tax treatment. To opt, instead, for statehood, as state No. 51. Or — and this is most unlikely in any event — to become a separate nation.

• • •

The principal practical reason for holding such a plebescite is simply that Castro communism has long been howling the falsehood that free Puerto Rico is in fact a stoogepoint for "American colonialism.' Academically, at least, it has long been obvious that a clarification of Puerto Rico's status, making clear beyond chemical trace of doubt that it is entirely and unarguably a free area, would make sense.

• • •

Fellow Citizens

As to the measure for the Puerto Rican commission, the issue was long befogged in Congress by internal Puerto Rican politics. One side feared some hidden political advantage to the other; and so on. The bill as finally approved by the Insular Affairs Committee, however, seems to have been drawn with care to reach an even-handed result.

• • •

All that now menaces it is simply the heavy work load before Congress. Still, if the House Rules Committee — which normally controls the flow of legislation to the floor— will clear this measure its ultimate approval by House and Senate will likely follow. So the Rules Committee, assuming it is satisfied that every faction and interest in Puerto Rico is adequately protected, could do a much worse hour's work than to bring this bill out to the House floor.

• • •

No doubt it is true that no matter what is done or not done the Communists will go on screaming "colonialism." All the same, it is possible to reduce their credibility among the credulous. And all the same, too, we are not dealing here with some alien state or people. We are dealing with our fellow citizens; and self-determination from our beginning has been our historic doctrine.

RALPH McGILL'S Views

Goldwater Is a Puzzle

Washington — Sen. Goldwater talk, pro and con, is almost everywhere. This does not please all Republicans, including, it is reliably reported, former President Eisenhower and others high in the party councils.

The flood of Goldwater talk, said one GOP senator here in Washington, indicates the poverty of the party. They talk him because there isn't, for the time being, anyone else. But after the Congress ends and the new year comes, there may be changes in public opinion.

McGill

Meanwhile, Sen. Goldwater continues to confuse and diffuse. He seemingly is trying to shift from some of his former positions, but wants to keep this as invisible as possible. The person trying to comprehend Goldwater is driven to the conclusion that the gentleman from Arizona does not really want to be understood. And yet, one wonders.

• • •

In Birmingham, many of the screaming, cursing teen-agers who paraded about the city in a school boycott had automobile bumper stickers reading, "Goldwater in 1964." Adults who head up the various hate organizations are practically unanimous for Goldwater.

• • •

The senator once made a contribution to NAACP. He says that in his state, where Mexican-Americans are the problem, he is for integration. The senator says he is not a segregationist. Yet, he sees nothing contradictory in saying that he believes in leaving the problem to "the states". This means, of course, leaving it to the Wallaces, the Barnetts, and all other politicians of like mind. The senator, by being so vague, has given aid and comfort to the nation's extremists.

• • •

The friends of the senator insist he is a good man, a kindly man, and one who would do no harm to any individual. No one wishes to dispute this. But one cannot avoid being puzzled by the clamor of support for him that comes from the White Citizens Councils and other extremist organizations.

The senator could clear all this up if he would. Since he has not done so, one is forced to the reluctant conclusion that the senator thinks there is political mileage in maintaining confusion. His friends say he may thereby be able to carry the South. Maybe he can. And, again, maybe not. But one thing is sure — the political health of the country would be improved by a clear-cut Goldwater commitment.

The Power of Faith

By Wendi Ishmael

DANIEL

(This is the fourth in a series on the greater prophets.)

Daniel, the last of the four greater prophets, did not write the book which bears his name. It was written 600 years later when Jerusalem was under the persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes. The heroic stories of Daniel's faith in God during his captivity in Babylon gave courage and comfort to the faithful of the later age and all ages since.

The stories are well known to all of us and are meant to encourage religious peoples to maintain their faith in time of trial.

Fear of the future was great for the Jews in the time of Antiochus Epiphanes, as it was in Daniel's time and as it is in ours. Daniel proved that God is greater than human rulers, and that through faith and patience, living each day nobly, man can find his purpose in life.

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL

Twenty-five years have passed since British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain signed the Munich Pact with German Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

• • •

Remember Munich

Both men now are dead but they stand as symbols of twin evils — the one of appeasement, the other of aggression. These are ugly words, but do they alert people to the possible recurrence of a Munich?

Anthony Eden, a former British prime minister, remembers the humiliating lesson of Munich and warns against Munich-like temptations of today that beckon alluringly but falsely to an easy peace.

Writing for the Associated Press, a quarter of a century after that fateful day, Eden says:

"Unfortunately it was peace in our time that its authors sought to defend.

"A neutral disposition, to be fair to the point of being blind, had its inevitable consequence, that the British government approached the crisis as an honest broker instead of an honest facer of truths. This stemmed from a failure to read the character and intentions of the dictatorships of Hitler and Mussolini . . ."

Then Eden looks beyond Munich and says, "There have been some modern applications of appeasement and, as always, they are catching. From the Middle East with Nasser they spread to the Far East with Sukarno, and then across to the Caribbean where Castro, encouraged by the success of his predecessors in seizing foreign national or international property with impunity, laid hands on many million dollars' worth of American commercial enterprises in Cuba."

• • •

He then pointed his finger directly at Indonesia and the time President Sukarno whetted his appetite by gobbling up Western New Guinea, then looked gluttonously at Borneo and Sarawak. When these two small countries became a part of the new state of Malaysia, Indonesia turned its attacks against the new nation.

• • •

Eden says, "It is to be hoped that the lesson of Munich will be in the minds of those with whom the responsibility lies to give guidance and to say 'no' . . . Some nations now behind the Iron Curtain might have been saved their fate if the West had been united and alert to the danger in time."

The lesson will be remembered but the ability to translate today's events is more difficult. The signers of the Munich Pact could have found some lessons had they examined the history preceding World War I.

• • •

When men put too high a premium on peace, aggressors are on the prowl and become bolder with success. Anthony Eden says, "The message of September 1938 stands clear for everyone to read. Never try to satisfy greedy appetites by concessions that are in themselves unjust."

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

When the League of Nebraska Municipalities held its fall conference, it had reason to be pleased with its legislative batting average. Of the 23 bills in which the League had an interest in the recent session, the Legislature passed 18.

However, the Fremont Guide and Tribune feels the League could serve its members better by concentrating on the whole body of municipal law. It pointed out, "When it (the League) goes to the Legislature, it is pushing a bill prompted by a current situation in a town or group of towns. The measure may or may not mesh with statutes already on the books, but often the Legislature obligingly passes it . . . A good place for the League to start a revitalized program would be to recodify municipal statutes eliminating all unnecessary law. Promoting new law could become secondary."

Tardy

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman is now scheduled to speak at the annual meeting of the State Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service in Grand Island, Oct. 8-9. Recalling Freeman's failure to "show" at a previously-scheduled appearance in Grand Island, Editor Harold Hartley of the Grand Island Independent suggests, "Maybe, we should send him a telegram: 'Orville, that was the 1962 national corn picking contest.' "

• • •

Scarlet and Cream

Nebraska's season opener against South Dakota State offered proof, if anybody needed it, of the loyalty of Husker football fans. As Editor John Sanders put it in the Auburn Press-Tribune, "The Cornhuskers can boast of new status when more than 30,000 will sit in the rain for two and a half hours to watch their favorites. Result of the drizzle was a number of literally 'dyed in the wool' fans."

• • •

Bigger and Better

Chadron State College got a pat on the back from the Chadron Record as it welcomed its 1,000th student to enroll this semester. "This increase of more than 300% in 12 years surely can be taken as a solid acceptance of Chadron State College as an outstanding institution of higher learning, as a school which turns out graduates well qualified for the positions for which they are trained and educated."

• • •

Hot News

The Kearney Daily Hub claimed its news to be just a little hotter than usual when "a sulphur blaze developed in the pipe leading from a metal furnace in the basement of the Hub building, to the nearby chimney of the building . . . but was quickly brought under control by Kearney volunteer firemen . . . There was no damage."

Fraud

Lincoln — Three distinct groups of hypocrites are attempting to sell a fraud.

The most important group is the manufacturing and business interests in this country. This faction would like to see the Negro better off, but their reasons are completely mercenary.

These powerful people know that the Negro represents a new, almost untapped, source of uneducated money that can be more easily induced to leave the pockets of its possessor. The hypocrisy is that these people preach justice for the Negro when they seek only to cheat him.

The second gang of hypocrites is the people who have been elected, one way or another, into public office. These people have joined the integration crusade because they always are for sale to the first group, or because of fear that the Negro vote allows them to stay in office.

The third group is perhaps the most pathetic. The preachers and religious fanatics who always welcome an opportunity to climb on their soapboxes are too dense to realize that the first two factions use them and their misplaced zeal.

They are too blind to see that they are tools and that the Negro isn't getting his rights at all, but that the rights of every person are being sacrificed on the altar of power, greed and commercialism.

Let's put an end to all this hypocrisy and start calling a spade a spade, and allow the good, regardless of color to advance on his own merits and the bad to wallow where they lie now.

J. RICHARD VINCENT

Lincoln's Shame

Lincoln — Our city fathers have not investigated how elderly citizens are crowded into rest homes, most of them helpless and very expensive. There are heartbreaking situations.

Laborers hired by some state institutions are offered a salary of below $250 a month.

Now the 1963 Legislature has set up a system to "withhold" a percentage of their salary.

Our city fathers have spent thousands of dollars for unnecessary funds.

Yet none is set aside for the state's trainable retarded children. We have some eager workers with our legislators who have given heart and soul and sacrificed much time and energy to find a workable plan to help districts with the education of these growing youngsters.

Now all has been hushhushed.

Personal Views Of The News

Unemployment as a result of automation is an association common to the thinking of most people. In the same maner, unemployment and education, or the lack of it, are frequently placed in the same basket. But not everyone puts together unemployment and the educational system, as has been done by Joseph P. Lyford in testimony before the Senate Subcommittee on Employment and Manpower.

• • •

Associated with the Fund For The Republic, Mr. Lyford labors in behalf of answers to problems that become chronic with society. It is not strange, therefore, that he develop a keen, even if not expert, interest in the matter of unemployment. By now the nation's unemployment rate has taken on far too definite signs of permanency and represents a human and economic loss the nation cannot afford.

• • •

Mr. Lyford has bolstered his case with reference to a comment by Thomas Watson, chairman of the board of International Business Machine, to this effect: "If present trends continue, by 1970 the United States will have in its cities more than a million and a half young people untrained, unemployed and frustrated to the point of danger. This fact constitutes an indictment of our society — we have somehow failed in our educational responsibilities."

Included in Mr. Lyford's testimony was this suggestion:

"I submit that we must put more and more emphasis on guidance work in education, especially at the junior high and high school levels. Guidance would be aimed at developing greater incentive and motivation among the teenagers so that they would continue their education at least to the end of high school.

"Guidance work should also attempt to give a clearer understanding of the importance of education and a better idea about the special paths the individual student should be traveling. It also suggests that more emphasis be laid on providing the pupil with information about specific career opportunities and where and how he could obtain financial support for post-high school education to prepare himself for these careers."

The essence of these words by two men knowledgable in their fields is that it is not enough for us just to determine that a lack of adequate education is a cause of unemployment. We must go further than this and find out why it is that we have so many young people who do lack the required level of attainment in their education.

It is suggested by Mr. Lyford that we have not properly motivated our young people, that we have not given them a firm understanding of the importance of schooling and the opportunities that are open to them if they will only pursue them. He even suggests a government program to direct young people into careers that are currently crying for manpower.

• • •

The only question we have is whether Mr. Lyford and others who subscribe to his theory have gone far enough. Perhaps they have succeeded only in pinpointing the problem — a valuable service but not to be confused with an answer. There is something deeper and more fundamental in our social system than guidance in schools that must be analyzed before we can discover why there is the lack of education. Guidance may well be a very good start toward a solution but it alone will not do the job.

Brevity may be the soul of wit, but that fact hardly justifies some of the sights to be seen in the more or less good old summertime on the streets and at the pools and beaches. — Memphis Commercial Appeal.

NEA Says Teach Kids About Reds

Communism As Subject

Washington (UPI) — Children should be taught about Communism in elementary school to clear up a "hodgepodge" of ideas they might have on the subject, the National Education Association (NEA) said.

The association said a simplified but "objective" teaching program would eliminate many of the "questions and fears" the youngsters may have about Communism.

"The young child is no stranger to such words as 'Communist,' 'Red,' 'Khrushchev' and 'Sputnik'," the NEA said in a new publication which lists teaching recommendations for U.S. school in the 1960's.

"He has his own ideas about Communism — ideas picked up from a hodgepodge of juvenile and adult conversation, comic strips, radio programs, television shows, newspapers and magazines. He has questions and fears generated by what he has seen and heard," it said.

Answer Questions

The NEA said an elementary teacher "who understands basic facts about Communism" could "answer some questions, verify some conclusions and clarify some inaccurate ideas" the children have.

The association was firm on two points concerning the proposal:

—That such teaching programs be intended to educate children about the ideology rather than to indoctrinate them against it.

—That the programs be initiated by local school boards or by individual schools or classrooms rather than by state law.

"The study of Communism and other ideologies should do more than simply indoctrinate students on the good of democracy and the evils of Communism," the NEA said. "A black-and-white approach, by denying the very essence of the democratic way, defeats itself."

State Laws

James E. Russell, secretary of the NEA's educational policies commission, said the association has attempted to introduce education about communism into U.S. classrooms for the past 12 years—but frowns on the passage of state laws to do it.

Russell said Florida is the only state which requires schools to teach a course in Communism. The course is at the secondary level and is goverened by a written syllabus included in the state law.

Russell said the Florida law does not prescribe an objective course in the subject, but simply a course — leaving the teacher free to be objective or not. The NEA official said the law is evidence that state legislatures are "ill-equipped to prescribe curriculum."

He added that while Communist courses were "a real hot subject" when the Florida law was passed a few years ago, they are looked upon now by educators as a quiet inevitability.

The courses will come about at the local level, he said, led by teachers equipped with teaching aids such as those published by the American Bar Association, the American Legion and the NEA itself.

"As someone once said," Russell added, "curriculum's what happens after the teacher closes the door."

Stocks Have a Setback

New York (UPI) — The stock market last week suffered its first setback in nine weeks but not before rising to a new record high on Tuesday.

Unfortunately, this was about the only gain of the week. Profit takers, eager to take advantage of the previous eight weeks of higher prices, chipped 5.62 away from the Dow-Jones industrials and left it at 737.98 at Friday's close.

Even House passage of the tax cut legislation couldn't pull the market out of its slide. Speculation that directors of American Telephone, the nation's most widely held stock, might boost the dividend from $3.60 to $4.00 and also split the common stock sparked a brief market spurt on Tuesday when Telephone itself closed up 3⅞ to a new 1963 high of 128¼.

However, the rally was short-lived when on Wednesday a combination of bad news out of the auto industry and profit taking stopped the advance in its tracks.

Ford and General Motors reported sales for the middle third of September were off 12.5 and 13.7%, respectively. Total industry sales for the same period were off 7.8% — only the second time this year that sales for this mid-month period have been below the comparable 1962 days.

Apparently Wall Street was not prepared for this kind of news as Chrysler had just reported sharply higher sales for this same mid-month period.

Dr. Wallace

Income Study Is Planned

A thorough study of the distribution of personal and business income in Nebraska is one of the first goals of Dr. E. S. Wallace, the University of Nebraska's new director of the Bureau of Business Research.

The native Oklahoman replaces Dr. Edward B. Schmidt, professor of economics, who held the directorship on an acting basis since the retirement of Dr. Edgar Z. Palmer in February, 1963.

Dr. Wallace, who will also take over the editorship of "Business in Nebraska," a monthly publication distributed by the bureau, said a long-term, accurate study of income broken down by area, business and profession, is one of the most important tools needed now to improve the analysis of Nebraska's economy.

Dr. Wallace said the bureau would also take a very active part in the work of the newly formed Nebraska Council on Economic Education.

Dr. Wallace said he believes the Bureau has a real challenge in helping to increase the number of high schools offering economics in their curriculum.

"There are some very fine high schools in Nebraska and the nation that do offer such courses, but they comprise less than 10% of all high schools and only 5% of their students take advantage of the offerings," he said.

"This is one of the real failings of education today, and as much to blame as anyone have been the colleges and universities and the lack of foresight of economists themselves.

"I couldn't agree more that the average young person in the nation has a poor understanding of our system of free enterprise," he said. "I also know that pupils are capable of learning the fundamentals when they are still in the lower grades."

Dr. Wallace said experiments show that second graders can be taught some of the fundamentals of economics.

"We've got a long way to go in Nebraska along these lines and we must begin by cooperating with the high school teachers and administrators in the state," he said.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of the School District of Lincoln, Nebraska until 2:00 P.M. October 2, 1963 for furnishing labor and materials required to re-wire Clinton Elementary School, 1520 North 29th Street, Lincoln, Nebraska in accordance with plans and specifications as prepared by Robert F. L. Woest, Consulting Engineer, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Plans may be inspected at the office of the Board of Education, 720 South 22nd Street, Lincoln, Nebraska; at the Lincoln Builder's Bureau, 1734 R Street, Lincoln, Nebraska; F. W. Dodge Corporation and Omaha Builders Exchange Omaha, Nebraska.

Contractors who wish to bid on the work may obtain a set of plans and specifications for their individual use by applying to the Consulting Engineer.

Each sucessful contractor will be required to furnish a corporate surety performance bond in a sum equal to 100% of the contract price.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty days after the scheduled time for the receipt of the bids.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified check, drawn on a solvent bank, for 5% of the amount of the bid, or the bidder may submit a bid bond, with an A-1 surety company, payable to the School District of Lincoln, Nebraska as liquidated damages in case that person or company to whom the Board of Education awards the contract fails or refuses to enter into the contract and furnish a satisfactory performance bond within ten days of the notice of such award. If a certified check or a bid bond as herein set forth is not received with a proposals, the proposal will be considered.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informalities in any proposal.

Proposals will be received until 2:00 P.M., October 2, 1963, at the Business Affairs Office, Room #101, 720 South 22nd Street, Lincoln, Nebraska at which time they will be publicly opened and read aloud.

"Savings and Success Are Twin Brothers"

Dear Folks:

Even though I didn't say this first, it's just as true now as when it was said quite a while ago.

Tomorrow all the folks who save wtih us at UNION LOAN & SAVINGS will get a sample of the savings success they've had by investing their money with us. They will be paid, or have credited to their accounts, 1963 third quarter earnings. You can join them in getting 1963 full fourth quarter dividend by saving on or before October 15.

That way your new savings will earn from October 1 toward the December 31 quarterly dividend day. And it will earn a hearty, current 4%, with protection to $10,000 by an agency of the U.S. government.

Like the man said, "Savings and success are twin brothers."

Remember, you have a friend at Union Loan & Savings.

MR. GREEN THUMB

Cattle Remain in Doldrums

Omaha (UPI) — Omaha's slaughter cattle market remained in the doldrums last week, thanks mainly to a depressed dressed meat trade.

Fat steers were fully 25 to 50c lower, topping at $24.35. There were 13 loads of 970 to 1,250 pound steers selling at $21.10 to $24.25.

Fat heifers dropped 75 cents to a full dollar and topped at $23.50. Several loads were purchased for $23.10 to $23.25 and there was an occasional early sale at $23.40.

The USDA figured the average steer price for the week at $22.99.

Cows Down 25-50

Cows dipped a quarter to a half-dollar. The best price was $16.75, paid early in the week for a few offerings.

Stockers and feeders held steady to strong with a rather good showing of country buyers on hand in the early trade.

Two loads of choice 507 to 561 pound yearling stock steers went back out at $27.50 and a couple loads weighing 550 to 650 pounds sold at $27.

Heifers weighing 525 to 650 pounds, in large supply, earned $24 to $25.

Hogs Down

Butcher hogs ended the week steady to 75c lower, mostly down a half-dollar. Barrows and gilts closed $15.25 to $15.75. The top was paid only sparingly.

The sow market was uneven with weights under 400 pounds at the full decline.

Fat lambs dipped 50 cents. Wooled lambs sold from $17.75 to $19, while shorn went out at $18 to $18.50, a few early at $19.

Grains Take Tumble

Chicago (UPI) — Grain futures took a tumble in a thrashing marekt last week on the Chicago Board of Trade on uncertainty over the current U.S.-Russian wheat trade talks.

The grain market was at the mercy of reports and rumors on the wheat negotiations between U.S. and Russian trade groups in Canada. Government reactions also figured into the picture.

Doubts developed into hope Tuesday on reports that Russia was planning to apply with the administration for permission to buy U.S. wheat and feed grains.

Buying and short covering strengthened all grains at midweek. By Thursday, many bulls felt the good news had run its course and pulled out of the market to await more definite news on the wheat talks.

New crop wheat lost more than 5c and nearby deliveries more than a cent as the wheat deal picture became clouded near the week's end.

Shorts covered in corn early in the week on belief that a Russian deal would include 40 million bushel of corn.

The possibility of trade with Russia brought buying to soybeans but reports that Russia is not interested in beans spurred a selloff.

Rye lost over 10c on active export selling. Oats dropped a cent with corn.

Young Man on His Way Says, 'Learn Cattle Business from Ground Up'

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

"The best way to learn the cattle business is from the ground up, and if you start young you can grow into the business," says Gary Kuhlmann of North Platte, a Nebraska candidate for the American Farmer Degree at the 36th annual National FFA Convention in Kansas City Oct. 9-11.

Gary is a third generation Kuhlmann to learn the Polled Hereford business in this fashion. His father, Erwin, and grandfather, the late Henry Jr., all started with a few head and developed nationally known herds.

An uncle, Orvil Kuhlmann of North Platte, used the same principle in establishing his record winning herd of Polled Herefords.

For FFA projects Gary used breeding heifers that he has shown in county, state and Ak-Sar-Ben shows. His herd numbers 10 cows and six heifers.

"It takes too much money to start big," explains Gary. "That's why an FFA or 4-H program works so well for the farmer of tomorrow. A young man can grow into the business and at the same time learn the fundamental things that are the difference between success and failure."

A strong believer in the breeding heifer classes, Gary says:

"There is a future beyond the show that goes with the breeding heifer classes. The owner of a breeding heifer has an opportunity to study breeding practices and learns which cattle produce the best calves."

"And you have to have good breeding behind cattle before they have a chance in the show ring or the ability to do well for others."

Gary's home training includes helping his father with an annual Polled Hereford sale which is made each year in February from the family herd. Cattle from this herd have gone to all parts of the United States and Canada.

To get that start in farming a partnership with father or someone who wants a person to take over offers some of the best opportunities for the young fellow starting out, says Gary, a former state officer in his FFA chapter.

In 1963 breeding heifer classes at the Nebraska State Fair and the Ak-Sar-Ben shows were almost double in number of previous years, according to Dave Williams Jr., University of Nebraska extension member and livestock superintendent at both events.

Proponents of more beef cattle herds in Nebraska claim that the expanded breeding heifer classes in 4-H and FHA are already making a mark in the establishment of more top quality herds on Nebraska farms.

Williams points out that the increase in home-raised club projects is a direct result of more families raising their winning project calves than trying to buy a winner.

No Policy for Wheat On State School Lands

The State Board of Educational Lands and Funds does not have—and does not plan to adopt—a policy on what should be done about overseeded wheat on state school lands.

Chris Maas of Potter asked the board's position.

According to Harry Garber of Imperial, what a leassee does about staying in or out of the federal government's farm program on wheat is the concern of the individual only.

"All we want is the cash rental," Garber said. That rent is 6% of the land's board-determined valuation. It does not vary with the harvest of a good crop or a poor one.

It was noted overseeded wheat in 1964 is apt to reduce a farmer's production allotment base in 1966. Such a circumstance, it was pointed out, might tend to reduce the land's value to lease-seekers.

Nebraskans In Commerce 'Who's Who'

Chicago (UPI) — Thirty-two outstanding businessmen and businesswomen from Nebraska have been named in the 13th edition of the "World Who's Who in Commerce and Industry."

Nationally and internationally the edition has a total of 23,900 biographical sketches.

Negro Convicted Of Carrying Gun

Cleve Mcdowell Fined $100, 'Needed Pistol at Ole Miss'

Oxford, Miss. (UPI)—Negro Cleve McDowell was convicted of carrying a pistol to class at the University of Mississippi despite his pleas that he did so because he was unprotected and thought his life was in danger.

The 21-year-old youth contended he was in a "vulnerable" position as the only Negro at the school because all federal guards had been removed and Gov Ross Barnett had said publicly the state would not protect him.

McDowell called the removal of federal forces a "gross mistake" and said he regarded the gun as "a temporary safeguard until I could contact the proper authorities." The federal government sent 27,000 troops and 500 U.S. marshals to enforce the enrolment of the school's first Negro student—James H. Meredith.

McDowell was expelled from "Ole Miss" last Tuesday following his arrest on the concealed weapons charge His dismissal returned total segregation to Mississippi's public school system

Justice of the Peace W. J. Jones handed McDowell a relatively light sentence after finding him guilty. Jones limited the punishment to a $100 fine, although the maximum penalty for the crime is a $300 fine and three months in jail

Jack Young, McDowell's attorney, filed an immediate appeal of the conviction to the Lafayette County Circuit Court.

Young also revealed McDowell was appealing his expulsion to the state college board.

The university's powerful student judicial council, headed by Champ Terney, son-in-law of Sen. James O. Eastland, recommended McDowell's expulsion. School officials, in keeping with custom, went along with the recommendation.

At the hearing, McDowell told the court he had purchased the gun found in his possession, a 22 caliber pistol, primarily for protection while driving back and forth between Oxford and his hometown of Drew on the Mississippi Delta—a distance of about 100 miles

He said the last Monday morning, when he was arrested, he had driven to the school from Drew and stopped off on his way to personally deliver a letter he had written to U S District attorney H. M Ray.

McDowell said the substance of the letter was to urge the Justice Department to reappraise his case and provide him with protection. He said the letter called attention to his "vulnerable" position at the school.

The Negro youth said that after leaving Ray's office he saw another student hitchhiking toward "Ole Miss," so he stopped to pick him up.

Before doing so, McDowell said, he removed the gun from the seat and slipped it in his pocket, although he usually kept it in the glove compartment.

He said on this occasion he kept the gun in his possession when he got out of the car and hurried off to classes.

Sheriff Joe Ford, acting on a tip by McDowell's fellow students arrested the Negro youth a short time later. White students told Ford they saw the pistol drop from McDowell's pocket when he dropped his sunglasses and stopped to pick them up.

Ford testified concerning the arrest, and confirmed that white students had phoned him with the tip.

U.S. marshals were on campus until August, when Meredith was graduated, but none returned last week when McDowell registered for the fall semester.

The Justice Department told United Press International in Washington the marshals were here "only to support the court order" in the Meredith case.

McDowell testified that when he registered for the fall term last week he did so "under the impression I would have protection from the Justice Department or some specific protection."

Mme. Nhu Movement Protests

Critical Of Lodge's Rebuke

Saigon, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu's women's solidarity movement protested Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge's rebuke to Madame Nhu for her criticism of young American officers in South Viet Nam.

The organization said it had learned of his statement "with the greatest indignation" and protested that her statement the young American officers acting as advisers in the war against the Communist Viet Cong were "behaving irresponsibly and acting like little soldiers of fortune" had been badly translated Lodge called Madame Nhu's statement "cruel" and "shocking" and pointed out that many of the young officers had been killed in Viet Nam while fighting the Viet Cong alongside South Vietnamese soldiers.

The Times of Viet Nam, sometimes regarded as spokesman for the Ngo family, also said Madame Nhu's statement had been poorly translated and said she had written letters to the families of killed or wounded American servicemen to express gratitude for "the sacrifices of those noble and valiant men."

The Times published on its front page a letter from Madame Nhu. It said she had written it to a widow of a U.S. serviceman killed in action.

Vietnam press said in her statement made in Rome she had used the French term "soldats de fortune" and that the correct English translation should have been "improvised officers" and not "soldiers of fortune."

Air Force Orbits Secret Satellite

Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. (UPI) — A "secret satellite," believed to be a space-exploring discoverer, was launched toward a polar orbit by air force missilemen.

The Air Force would not say whether the satellite achieved orbit, in keeping with its policy of maintaining secrecy about such launchings from this Pacific missle range base.

The air force said only that a satellite employing a Ithor-Able-Star rocket booster combination, the same combination used for discoverer launches, was hurled aloft.

Normal Bd. Not Done Yet

May Again Come Under Budget Fire

The State Normal Board, already in dutch with the Legislature's Budget Committee for ignoring some committee recommendations, is expected to come under fire ultimately from the same source — but for another reason.

Historically, the Normal Board ignores student tuition and fee revenue at the four state teachers collegees when its tax appropriation is annually divided.

Funds Excluded

Colleges have been permitted to keep whatever non-tax income they receive.

The scientific formula adopted by the board during the summer as a method of equitably dividing tax appropriations does not include any consideration of non-tax dollars.

Board Chairman Henry Freed of Chadron last week acknowledged student tuition and fee income "probably shouldn't be overlooked."

In times past, Board Coordinator Freeman Decker said, members have talked about throwing all non-tax dollars into a common pot and redistributing them on a formula basis.

The system's bigger schools, Kearney and Wayne, have balked at this, Decker said. Kearney last year had total tuition income of $580,080, compared to Peru's $183,790.

At Chadron, Peru and Wayne, tuition received from out-of-state students has helped ease financial nightmares.

Where a non-resident student pays $150 semester tuition, it costs the college no more to educate him than it does the Nebraskan who pays only $100.

Edge to Chadron

Chadron in 1962-63 received $52,176 non-resident tuition, as against $194,456 from home staters. Wayne took in $48,192, compared to $369,460 resident tuition. Peru's figures are approximate—$47,200 non-resident, $136,500 resident.

But Kearney, which has very few out-of-state students, recorded only $6,329 in non-resident income, with $573,252 from residents.

Decker generally is opposed to banking on tuition estimates as a base in building budgets at the four colleges.

"Not until we can arrive at more basic cost figures on salary and other factors should it be tried," he said.

Tennessee Plan

He said, though, he could support an arrangement such as is found in Tennessee.

There, the Legislature determines uniform cost indices for state colleges, estimates tuition and then fully appropriates tax funds in order to make up the difference.

Within the Nebraska state college system, apprehension exists that the Legislature would recognize the differences among the four schools and make cost formula adjustments—let alone voting a full appropriation to make the formulas sound.

Albion Veteran To Get Medal Earned in War I

Additions Make Two Schools 'Too Big'

By DICK HERMAN

In deciding to expand the city's two largest grade schools, the Lincoln Board of Education last week veered from what professionals consider educationally good practices.

By almost all educational standards, the plants already are judged too big.

The board ordered a 14-room addition to Meadow Lane School in fast-growing east Lincoln plus an application to federal authorities asking six more classrooms at Gen. Arnold School.

Additions would give Meadow Lane a maximum of 40 classrooms and space for 1,300 children. Arnold would move up from 30 to 36 classrooms, and have a practical building capacity of 1,170.

Exclusively serving the 1,006-unit Lincoln Air Force Base housing area, Arnold teachers now count 1,144 boys and girls.

Meadow Lane, with its pair of annexes, has a slightly smaller total, but still above 1,000.

1,000 Maximum?

A check of elementary school experts in the State Education Dept. and the University of Nebraska Teachers College shows none believe a grade school should be called upon to accommodate more than 1,000 children.

Oswald W. Kopp, Teachers College elementary education chairman, sees the possibility of extenuating circumstances, however.

"In my opinion, a school with more than 1,000 children is too large," Kopp said.

He recounted the American educational philosophy the grade school is built along the neighborhood concept, of rather intimate child-school-parent contact in primary years.

"One of the elementary school's strong points is the personal relationship of the principal with what's going on in the classroom," Kopp declared.

But, says Associate Prof. William Pharis, when a grade school has beyond 500 youngsters, the principal must devote more time to administrative detail, less to improving learning situations.

Before becoming a college professor Pharis was principal of an elementary school outside Ft. Benning, Ga., a school much like Gen. Arnold, he said.

"There was a tremendous difference when the enrolment was 200 and when it got near 1,000," he recalled. It was then more of a "big machine" than a neighborhood school.

Common Problem

Pharis thinks 400-500 students is a "desirable" elementary school size. Still, he reported the pattern of organization formerly found in Lincoln—up to an 840 maximum—is fairly common in larger cities.

Sharing comparable views was Ray Huitt, state elementary consultant.

"Our recommendation is that grade schools be held to 500 to 600 pupils, with 800 the maximum," Huitt said.

Huitt noted State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller has reminded his staff there are upper limits to school size, as well as minimums.

Gen. Mills Head Dies

Bullis Was Hastings-Born

Minneapolis (AP)—Harry A. Bullis, 72, a Nebraskan who started his career as a mill hand and retired as chairman of the board of General Mills, Inc., died Saturday night in a Minneapolis hospital.

Bullis retired from General Mills in 1959, ending an association that dated from 1919. He was board chairman for 11 years and previously had been General Mills president for five years.

An associate had described Bullis as "about the last of the real American storybook types who told his parents he was going out into the world to make his fortune—and then did exactly that."

Bullis is survived by his widow, the former Countess Maria Smorczewska of Poland. They had no children.

A native of Hastings, Neb., Bullis moved with his family to Council Bluffs, Iowa, when he was 3. At age 16 he became a bookkeeper for the Citizens Gas and Electric Co., Council Bluffs. Bullis was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1917 with a major in economics.

He worked his way through the university by wholesaling sewing machines for three summers.

For 12 years he was an officer or director of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and for 17 years was an officer or director of the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

Cut Finger Delays Boy Scout Train

The special Burlington train for Saturday's Boy Scout jaunt to Minden was halted for a half hour on the return trip because of a cut finger.

Some 500 scouts from the Cornhusker Council were returning to Lincoln from a day-long tour of Pioneer Village when the injury occurred.

Shortly after the eight-car train passed through Harvard eight-year-old Leigh Caldwell, son of LAFB Capt. Bruce Caldwell, caught the index finger of his right hand between a train door and the frame.

The train stopped for a half-hour at Sutton where Dr. E. V. Nuff treated the cut, according to R. W. Palme, Burlington general agent.

The train, which had left Lincoln at 8 a.m. carrying cub scouts, boy scouts, explorers, leaders and parents, returned to Lincoln at 5:10 p.m.

Legislative Act Repeals Laws On Storage of Grain

Error Can Be Corrected

By ELLIS RALL

The 1963 Legislature—in adopting the complex Uniform Commercial Code bill—apparently inadvertently repealed statutes for licensing and regulation of Nebraska's public grain warehouses.

Nebraska's grain warehousing law is considered a model one. This is the only state in the nation whose grain inspection and regulation is accepted by the Commodity Credit Corp.

Since LB49, the Uniform Code, does not go into effect until Sept. 1, 1965, the oversight can be corrected in the 1965 session before the Code becomes law.

However, had the situation not been noted, it could have resulted in an upheaval in rural areas where grain warehousing is big business.

Easy Reinstatement

One spokesman said there was no intention to bother warehousing licensing and regulation sections and speculated that in drafting of the bill, these sections were inadvertently included in the sections to be repealed.

Grain warehousing is administered by the Nebraska Railway Commission through its warehousing department which is self-supporting from fees collected from inspections.

As of July 1, 1963, the department had issued about 900 licenses covering some 2,504 grain warehousing facilities.

These facilities are licensed for 378,232,053 bushels of capacity and the commission has $136,795,250 in bonds from warehousemen on file to cover the storage.

Although LB49 was perhaps the largest bill in the history of the Unicameral — 252 printed pages ironically it probably was the one most joked about and least read by senators.

Its final reading required somewhat over four hours.

Burbach Concerned

Sen William Brandt of Unadilla, chief introducer of the measure, could not be reached for comment on the bill, but Sen J. W. Burbach of Crofton, who operates a grain warehouse and is on the board of the state Grain and Feed Dealers Assn., was concerned.

He wondered why Nebraska's law was bothered in the first place.

Noting that there is ample time to correct the bill yet in the 1965 session, Burbach said he still plans to confer with Gov. Frank Morrison on the matter.

LB49 repealed all of Chapter 88, Articles 1, 2 and 3, the warehousing law, and contained new matter dealing only with warehouse receipts. No mention in the bill is made of licensing and regulation of warehouses

The omission apparently was uncovered only a week or so ago.

3rd Omaha Hospital Tells Building Plan

Bishop Clarkson Memorial Announces $5.5 Million Project

By BESS JENKINS

The number of Omaha hospitals planning major building programs reached three this weekend as Bishop Clarkson Memorial Hospital's board of trustees announced a $5.5 million expansion and development project

Earlier this year the Nebraska Methodist Hospital disclosed plans for a $15,445,600 replacement and Lutheran Medical Center put a $4,750,000 price tag on its replacement facility.

All three Omaha projects, totaling $25,695,600, are seeking federal Hill-Burton hospital building funds in applications now on file with the State Health Dept.'s hospital division.

At least three other multi-million dollar hospital development projects are seeking federal Hill-Burton money. They include Lincoln General Hospital's new $6 million facility, Norfolk Lutheran Hospital's $1.3 million replacement, and Scottsbluff's new $2.5 million Western Nebraska General Hospital and School of Nursing.

Bishop Clarkson's program differs from the other two in Omaha in that it is not a replacement but will add 168 beds to the present 269 capacity.

The expansion plans provide for still another 144 beds to be added later when need is shown. This would bring Clarkson's capacity to 580 beds.

Robert H. Storz, chairman of Clarkson board of trustees, observed this means Clarkson is the first Omaha hospital in recent years to announce a significant addition of hospital beds to the Omaha community total.

"Seven floors of an eventual 10-story and basement addition will be started when financing can be completed," Omaha business and civic leader Storz said

The new wing will be built north of the existing building.

The existing Clarkson Hospital on Dewey St. faces the University of Nebraska College of Medicine campus.

Completed in late 1955, it won the National Award of Modern Hospital of the Year.

Storz, in listing Clarkson's need for expansion, cited the hospital's responsibility to grow with the NU medical center.

This growth also was indicated in the Omaha Area Hos-

Park Trade Discussed For Omaha

Omaha (AP) — A trade of Jefferson Square park for a combination public park and underground parking lot on the site of the old post office will be discussed Monday.

Officials of city, state and federal government will meet in Lincoln to discuss use of the old post office which will be abandoned by the government Jan. 1. The General Services Administration has given the city until Tuesday to decide what to do with the site. Mayor James Dworak has asked an extension.

Jefferson Square is scheduled to be taken as right-of-way for the Interstate Highway.

Under one proposal the Federal Bureau of Public Roads would acquire the post office site, raze the building and hand over the land to the city in exchange for Jefferson Square.

Another solution would be for the State Highway Department to buy Jefferson Square from the city and apply the cost applied to purchase of the post office site The city could get the site for halfprice if it is turned into park use.

The meeting Monday will be in the governor's office in Lincoln.

Beatrice Gets New Parking

VFW Meet Draws 350

Columbus (AP)—The annual two-day fall conference of the Nebraska Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary opened Saturday here

Some 350 VFW and Auxiliary members were registered

Curtis M Jewell of Mission, Kan., director of community activities for Veterans of Foreign Wars, spoke at the evening banquet.

The delegates were divided into a number of workshop sessions Saturday. Among the speakers were members of the Veterans Administration regional office in Lincoln headed by director A. H. Duxbury. Others included Leo Beck of Lincoln, director of the Dept. of Veterans Affairs, and Harry Leth of Lincoln, loan guarantee officer of the Dept. of Veterans Affairs.

Mrs. Mary Stomquist of Lyons, president, was in charge of the auxiliary activities.

The conference was to end today.

School Land Lease Bonus at $2 Million

Windfall for School Districts Will Exceed Early Estimates

Bonuses paid by Nebraskans bidding for 12-year state school land leases this year are now expected to total nearly $2 million.

This cash will provide a windfall for public school districts, annual beneficiaries of school land rentals and bonus payments.

Originally, the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds staff estimated the 1963 lease auctions would produce something like $1.7 million in bonuses.

However, early sales saw relatively little competition. In many instances, the present leaseholder was alone in submitting a bid.

That causes bonus estimates to shrink substantially.

Of the first 1,195 leases up for sale this year, there was competition for only 255

However the bonus income resulting from that competition mounted to $919,943, according to Board Chairman J. J. Delay, Norfolk

Another 1,100

Another 1,100 leases remained to be sold at the time Delay furnished the bonus data.

Apprixmately half of the state's 1.6 million acres is in the process of being leased this year.

Twelve years ago, when the same real estate was auctioned, cash bonuses hit $4.5 million.

The bonus-bidding technique has been a highly flammable subject with some Nebraskans.

When there is auction competition, leaseholders are compelled to offer greater cash bonuses to maintain their tenancy.

Spite Charged

Frequently heard have been charges of spite bidding — instances where individuals with no serious desire for a lease continue to bid in order to drive upward the winning bonus offer.

In Cheyenne County, bonus bids on school land lease sales several weeks ago totalled more than $200,000.

Appraisal Rule Same

Johnson: No Change Seen

State Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson reported there will be no substantial changes made in his proposed rules and regulations governmandatory county property reappraisals as a result of informal meetings several days ago.

Johnson explained the proposed regulations to county assessors, representatives of commercial appraisal firms and his own field staff.

Mainly, Johnson said, the sessions produced suggested language modifications.

A state law effective Oct. 19 will compel all counties to reappraise tangible property on a maximum 16-year cycle, starting in 1966.

Counties must abide by tax commissioner regulations in conducting their reappraisals.

Tentatively, Johnson has scheduled the required public hearing on the reappraisal rules Oct. 21. They must afterward be approved by the governor and attorney general.

Johnson does not anticipate any public hearing opposition.

He also predicted a number of counties not scheduled for their reappraisals for several years will contract for work rather quickly.

Grain Coop Merger Is Planned

Three-State Assn. Eyed

Omaha (AP) — Presidents of three regional grain cooperatives with total assets of more than $35 million announced consolidation plans Saturday.

The newly formed Farmers Union Cooperative Marketing Assn will serve farmers in Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas and Missouri.

Meeting here were Presidents Ed Johnson of the present Farmers Union Cooperative Marketing Assn. of Kansas City, William J. Kerksick of Farmers Union Terminal Elevator Inc., of Denver and Clarence Kinzler of Farmers Union Cooperative Elevator Federation, Omaha

They said consolidated operation of the three businesses would enable them to expand further into grain marketing and processing.

The next step will be to present the proposal to the stockholders of the three cooperatives.

In Lincoln, Elton Berck, president of the Farmers Union of Nebraska, said "this is something they have needed for a long time."

"If ratified it will provide farmers with a much more powerful voice in the market," said Berck.

Stronger Bargaining

He added that it will strengthen the farmers bargaining position as far as grain is concerned and will "enable the farmer to share in the profits after the grain leaves the farm."

Berck said that the merging of cooperatives was becoming more and more the "pattern of the times."

W. L. Purdy, of Omaha, general manager of the Nebraska federation, said the Nebraska farmer's position will be quite improved because the "merger gives wider scope in selling the product, will have better service for members and will have a wider sales force.

Purdy said the Nebraska federation is made up of 209 associations across the state. The federation has a storage capacity of some 3,400,000 bushels.

Purdy said the Kansas cooperative was about the same size as Nebraska's and the Denver concern was made up of about 75 associations.

Owns Barges

The Kansas City cooperative has terminal elevators in Kansas City, Kan., Topeka, Kan., and St. Joseph. It owns and operates 15 barges on the Missouri River and other waterways.

Bill Crom farms for them.

Hence, his team of big whites and the proud-shouting "gees" and "haws" that turn them through in-town corn patches. The 82-year-oldster resolved nearly two decades ago that leaving the farm wouldn't mean leaving behind his first love—horses.

"Been with 'em all my life, from these gentles to some so ornery and stubborn you could pull the hide right off them," recalled the wiry city farmer. "Once I broke two mean outlaws — how they could kick and bite and strike — to be the finest sparkin' team you ever saw."

It was the Ida of his "sparkin'," incidentally, who has been Mrs. Crom 56 years now — and as much the farmer as her husband. They share their eight homey acres of northwest Beatrice with Mary the Guernsey, a butcher calf and "even a pig or so once in awhile."

"We name everything but the chickens," beamed the still-vibrant housewife. "It's the horses that keep us here, though. Dad doesn't care half as much for the farming as for his Trix and Daisy."

Log-cabin-born near Tobias, the ever-busy Bill made eight to 10 plantings around town when first moving from the Pickrell farm 17 years ago. Too many harvests have since slowed him, however, to a favorite three patches that total but 15 acres.

"She's practically all in corn, and I'll soon be in there shucking again," grinned the longtime Gage Countian. "I'm down to about 40 bushels a day now, but can still pitch and stack my own hay."

The Croms' farm-reared son and daughter both bear Lincoln addresses now — though in different states. Kenneth lives in the Nebraska Capital city, while daughter Mrs. Ethel Meyer is in Lincoln, Mo.

Any look-ahead longings by Bill to trade that team for a tractor?

"Learned to drive one three or four years ago," he reflected with dash and daring. "No good for mud, though — and who ever heard of talking to a tractor?"

Martin Hits JFK

'Double Talk On Tax Bill'

North Platte (AP) — Rep. David Martin, R-Neb., Saturday night accused President Kennedy of double talk on the tax cut bill.

"The president is advocating new spending programs to the tune of over $5 billion on his political tour of the west," said Martin. "Yet he told the Congress this week that if we would pass his reduction bill that he would hold down spending."

Speaking at a $10 a plate "Dave Martin Appreciation Dinner," Martin said he still hasn't heard of the President "sending us a message asking us not to pass the Area Redevelopment bill, the public works program, the youth conservation corps bill, the federal aid to education programs. Until he does this I cannot believe he is sincere in his statements about cutbacks on spending."

"Actual and forecasted increases in expenditure under Kennedy's first term in office total $20 billion. Increases in the national debt during his his first four years in office will amount to $35 billion," Martin said in prepared remarks.

Five Audubon Films Planned

Five Audubon wildlife films will be shown at the University of Nebraska Love Library auditorium during the 1963-64 school year. The first is scheduled for 4 p.m. Monday and again at 8 p.m.

The series begins with "Teton Trails," narrated by Charles T. Hotchkiss, a naturalist who has studied the unusual birds and animals of the Teton Mountains.

Other films scheduled:

—Nov. 7, "Awake to Nature," a photographic story of a small creek in the north woods.

—Dec. 11, "Nature's Plans and Puzzles," photographed in Canada and narrated by Chester Lyons, a naturalist in British Columbia.

—Jan. 10, "Manitoba Memories," by Roy E. Coy, a conservationist of St. Joseph, Mo., a fishing trip into Manitoba.

—Feb. 17, "Village Beneath the Sea," by Harry Pederson of McAllen, Tex., a film of a small, isolated coral formation, inhabited by some of the strangest sea creatures known to naturalists.

Boys Town May Get Two Lads

Omaha (AP) — The court-appointed attorney for two Oregon boys whose mother packed them off to Omaha hoping they would be accepted at Boys Town said Saturday he tends to believe that's where they should go.

Pending a hearing in juvenile court, the boys are staying in the home of an Episcopal clergyman.

Clarkson Viewed as Regional Center

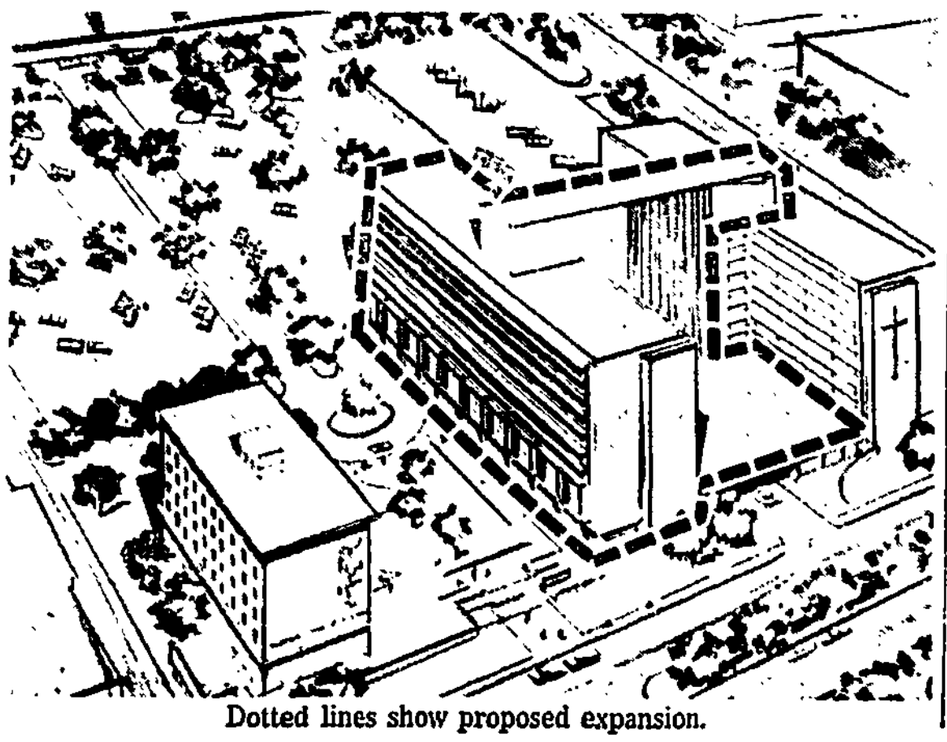
pital Council survey by James A. Hamilton Associates of Minneapolis which recommended Clarkson's role should be one as as a regional center hospital.

Storz said Clarkson has had to use hall beds for some patients recently. The Clarkson medical staff numbers 271 doctors.

The Clarkson board anticipates the hospital's expansion will increase its output of professional and other health career personnel. Its school of nursing, established in 1888, moved into a new home, Kiewit Hall, in 1960.

The addition will have drive-in patient registration, since most patients come by car.

Bishop Clarkson Memorial Hospital, one of the oldest in Nebraska, is described by Storz as a lineal descendant of the Good Samaritan Hospital which was established in 1869 in a cottage.



Dotted lines show proposed expansion.

STATEHOUSE LETTER

In the basement of the Capitol imbedded in the thick concrete is a clear set of footprints.

Those prints have been there 34 years, since the time when the structure was nearing completion.

If you told most state employes or officials that they belonged to Mr. Kahler, the response would be, "Who?"

But if you said they belonged to Manuel, everyone knows who he is.

Manuel left his permanent mark in the Capitol some 34 years ago when he accidently stepped off a plank into the soft concrete.

But this isn't the only mark he left. Outside his work lives on in the trees, in the shrubs, many of which he planted, and the grass which he nurtured through disease, insects and dry spells, and more important through all the administrative changes from the 1930s.

Manuel was foreman of the Statehouse and Mansion grounds. Friday he died at the age of 66.

Unfinished Tasks

With the special session drawing nearer and nearer, employes in the legislative clerk's office are still scurrying to catch up on the work left over from the past record encounter.

The voluminous debate which was recorded is still being transcribed. Other employes are concentrating on getting the Session Laws and Daily Journal publications completed.

Candidates, Successors

Observers feel that the Legislative reapportionment bill and the four-year term bills were well thought out measures and advantageous to senators from odd-numbered districts.

Previously it was noted that these senators could run for governor in 1966 and each succeeding four years without having to resign unless they were elected governor.

Another facet is that if they are elected governor, they could appoint their own successor in the Legislature; the Legislature meets two days before the inauguration and the governor-elect could be sworn in as a senator, resign inauguration day, then pick his own successor.

$961,000 Daily

Total state warrants written during the fiscal year ending June 30 amounted to $240.4 million according to records in the auditor's office.

Of this amount, $40.1 million was from the general fund.

Figuring about 250 working days in the year, this would average about $961,000 warrants a day written on all funds and about $160,000 a day from the general fund.

tually demonstrating average academic achievement, in high school, tends to decline after a school has reached a certain size. One such study of Nebraska schools suggested an optimum high school size between 400 to 800.

There is, however, no immediate research reflecting large-size relationship on academic achievement among elementary pupils.

"I feel strongly that bigness has diminishing returns, that the educational value to the individual student decreases, that the losses are tangible," Huitt declared.

He mentioned crowding of common-use facilities, such as libraries, cafeterias, multipurpose rooms, auditoriums and playgrounds.

These are also cited publications on the subject of elementary school building.

In 1958, the National Council on Schoolhouse Construction lined up with the Elementary School Principals Assn. in limiting a grade school to 500 students.

An even smaller total is suggested by other sources.

Unique Situations

Both Gen. Arnold and Meadow Lane fall in the middle of unique situations.

The federal government owns Gen. Arnold School. Specifications of its 25-year lease agreement with the Lincoln School District insist that only children from the LAFB housing area may attend.

While the number of individual dwellings in that housing area is static, the size of families aren't, says Principal Corwin Enevoldsen.

Not until overcrowding is physically evidenced—as is the case now—will federal officials consider a money grant for additional school construction.

In Meadow Lane, school officials believe they properly located the school in the center of its geographically natural neighborhood region.

The trouble is that many of the new homes on standard developmental lots contain three or four bedrooms. That points toward a tide of more children than normally flows from one and two bedroom dwellings.

For more than two years, while new houses continued to be put up, school officials tried to settle on a new school site east of Meadow Lane.

Injuries Slight In 4-Car Crash

A Lincoln mother and three of her children were treated by a physician but not hospitalized after a four-car collision on 66th between X and Bethany Park Dr., according to police.

Officers said the woman is Marilyn J. Fisher, 29, of 4802 Adams. The youngsters are Gloria Jane, Lucretia June and Valerie Jean Stanley. Valerie is 10, her sisters 13.

Police said a car being driven south on 66th by Mrs. Fisher collided with the rear of a stopped auto driven by Evelyn G. Smith, 37, of 3941 No. 68th.

The Smith car went forward into an auto driven by Stanley D. Terrell, 23, of 2151 So. 57th and the Terrell car collided with the rear of a vehicle driven by Paul H. Watts, 40, of 6516 Havelock.

Total damage was estimated at $900.

Factory Site Finders Wooed By Consumers

Columbus—Consumers Public Power District (CPPD) has stepped up contacts with factory locating organizations throughout the country, says Wayne E. Barber, executive director of the district.

Barber, recently appointed to his $18,000 per year post, said CPPD's community development department has "made many contacts with industries throughout the country" in its three years.

Historical Society Meets

Museum Director Named

Dr. Roger T. Grange, Jr., was appointed museum director of the Nebraska State Historical Society effective Oct. 1, by the executive board.

Grange, who has served on the staff since 1955, will fill the position left vacant by the appointment of Marvin F Kivett as Society director.

A native of Illinois, Grange received his doctorate from the University of Arizona with a special study on archeological materials of the Pawnee Indians of Nebraska.

He has also served on the staff of the Arizona State Museum and the Chicago Natural History Museum.

The board also elected the following officers for one-year terms

Wood President

Gen. Warren Wood of Gering, president of the board and the Society: Charles Osborne of Hastings, first vice president, Dr James C Olson of the University of Nebraska history department, second vice president: A. R. Owens of Loup City, treasurer; and Society Director Marvin Kivett of Lincoln, secretary.

Upon Kivett's recommendation, the board approved the appointment of John W. Garrett of Lincoln as curator of anthropology on the museum staff

Kivett said the creation of the new position was necessitated by the increased number of archeological excavations carried on by the Society in recent years.

Garrett, who has headed excavations at the Society in 1960 and 1961, will supervise archeological and anthropological studies

In 1952 Garret was appointed to the position of highway salvage archeologist He has supervised excavations at Fort Atkinson

Tour Building

Following the board meeting members attending the 85th annual meeting of the Society toured the building and heard a report on the excavations at the Logan Creek site

A banquet concluded the day-long meeting with introduction of Grange and 1964 officers

About 230 persons heard the featured speaker, University of Colorado history professor Robert G. Athearn, relate the story of railroad rivalry in the Rockies in the 1860's.

Athearn, a historian and author, told the story of how the Rio Grande railway tried but failed to construct a competitive Omaha-Denver route.

Athearn, who has published several books and articles, recently learned that his book, "High Country Empire," was put on President Kennedy's White House Library list.

Board Elected

At the morning business meeting, the Society elected Past President Frank Latenser of Omaha, Arthur C Carmody of Trenton, Willard D. Hosford, Jr., of Omaha and Joseph Vosoba of Wilber as members of the board

Society members attended a noon luncheon hosted by the Native Sons and Daughters of Nebraska, who held their 38th annual meeting Saturday

Dr. Grange . . . director

Roscoe Pound, one of Nebraska's most distinguished natives, was honored in absentia at the luncheon. Dr. Pound was to receive the Distinguished Service Award from the Sons and Daughters, but was unable to make the trip due to an illness.

The 92-year-old scholar, lecturer, author served for more than 20 years as dean of the Harvard Law School and remains an honorary faculty member

NU Graduate

Dr. Pound also was dean of the University of Nebraska Law College from 1903 to 1907 He was born in Lincoln, and received his Ph D from the University.

At the luncheon meeting, Richard Smith spoke on the life and accomplishments of Dr. Pound, and Max Meyer made the plaque presentation.

The Distinguished Service Award is presented each year to a native of the state in recognition of outstanding leadership.

Clarence Davis, Lincoln attorny, delivered the speech at the noon luncheon. Davis spoke on the experiences of his pioneer ancestors who were homesteaders in the Schuyler-Fremont area

The Winner

The number 13 doesn't have much of a reputation for being lucky, but it sure was Saturday It's wearer, Miss Marlene Finke, 17, of Walton, won the Miss Teenage of Lincoln contest at Gateway Center. Marlene will represent Lincoln in the Miss Teenage of America competition Nov. 1 in Dallas She's the daughter of Melvin Finke.

Krejci 'Body' Work Uncovered At Gem and Mineral Show Here

By JUDI LEE

When Frank Krejci returns home from a long day at his local auto body shop, he exchanges his sanders and power jacks for the precision tools of a jeweler and artist

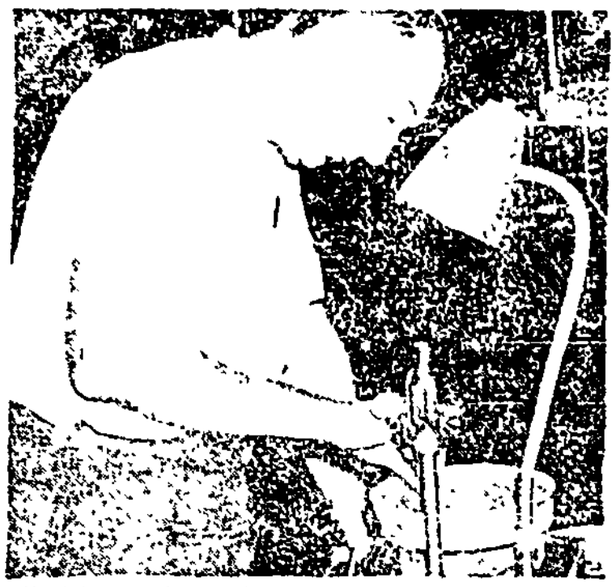
A priceless group of homespun, gemstone vases, delicately fashioned by Krejci's talented hands are a featured attraction at the fifth annual Lincoln Gem and Mineral Club Show at the National Guard Armory, 1776 No 10th.

Krejci, who has been hiding his masterful skill for "about 25 years" has unveiled his unusual lapidary shop of home-made items for the first time.

Krejci's vases are made from such materials as green onyx, brown onyx, pink rhodocrosite and green malachite

His malachite vases caused one observer to recollect the exotic urns and decor in Maximilian's palace in Mexico

The vases are made on a turning lathe in Krejci's home and each takes about two weeks of Krejci's spare time to complete



Krejci at work . . . faceting machine polishes gems.

With his hand-made faceting machine, he smoothes and shapes a variety of expensive mineral gems.

Patrol Nets $50,702.50

State Patrol arrests and the resulting convictions of 2,425 people who were charged with various offenses brought fines of $50,702 50 in August.

According to the Patrol's activity summary the lion's share of penalties, $24,747, came from speeders, 1,584 of them.

Liquor was involved in five violation categories, the fines for which totalled $16,886. The money was paid by 68 drunk drivers, 63 minors in possession of liquor, 10 adults who procured liquor for youngsters, 23 people who were drinking on the highway and 68 persons who were intoxicated.

The activity summary compared with August, 1962:

	August 1963	August 1962
Miles traveled	637,111	568,954
Hours patrolling	39,692.5	40,501.5

Accidents, Fatalities Down, but Injuries Up

Traffic accidents and fatalities were down for the first seven months of 1963, but more people were injured than during the first seven months of 1962.

A Nebraska Accident Record Bureau report states that there were 176 fatalities, 7,479 injuries and 14,834 accidents during the first seven months of 1963 compared to 188 fatalities, 7,284 injuries and 16,612 accidents during the same period of 1962.

The report revealed that there were contributing circumstances 14,618 times during the first seven months of this year.

Failure to yield the right of way, following too closely, and excessive speed contributed to 7,131 accidents.

Three to six p.m. proved to be the most dangerous time, with 3,601 of the accidents occurring during this period. Over 9,500 of the accidents happened during daylight.

Maybe the woman driver isn't as bad as the men say she is. Men were driving 19,160 vehicles involved in accidents, compared to 4,730 women.

Omaha Engineer Course Reprieved

For at least the first semester of the 1963-64 academic year, the University of Nebraska intends to continue its graduate engineering program in Omaha.

What happens after that is uncertain.

Dr. Merk Hobson, Engineering College dean, said a review and faculty decision on the advisability of running the four-course operation nightly in College of Medicine classrooms is planned.

The program was started one year ago at the request of engineers in the Omaha area wishing to work for a masters degree. There was industrial backing, too.

Where last fall's enrolment in three courses was 43 students, the second semester saw 68 students involved in four courses.

Hobson said the program must be self-supporting in order to justify, economically, its continuance.

Faculty members feel strongly, Hobson reported, the mere presence of the program in Omaha might help attract new industry to Nebraska."

The program came under some legislative fire when it was discussed by the Budget Committee earlier this year.

Several senators asserted the University had no authority to expand operations without first gaining legislative clearance.

No mention was specifically made about the program—either its continuance or elimination—in the 10-page letter dispatched by the Budget Committee to the University administration.

However publicity about first semester operations was broadcast well in advance of legislative funding decisions and NU administrators felt a moral obligation to offer the courses this semester.

Classes are to start Tuesday and Wednesday at the College of Medicine.

United Appeal Aids Donors, Community Services

Your doorbell would ring 27 more times per year—every other week on the average—if it weren't for Lincoln's Community Chest-Red Cross United Appeal.

Either that or else, says United Appeal Chairman Harry Seward, this might happen:

Many children would be financially unable to participate in many recreation and character-building activities because higher membership fees would have to be charged.

Some community services would get more than their fair share of campaign dollars, some less

Some needed services might not be able to make it through a separate campaign, because independent campaigns often cost as much as 15% of the funds raised.

Some needed services might have to "close up shop." Perhaps there would be nowhere for the indigent and homeless to go, except to our back doorsteps. Troubled families and children might have difficulty finding a place to go for help and counseling.

Or perhaps we would support these services through taxation, if it weren't for Lincoln's United Appeal.

Luckily, Seward continued, Lincoln has not faced these problems, because there is one annual United Appeal for 27 different services. Budgets of the agencies are carefully reviewed and audited so that the least amount of money helps the most, and citizens are asked to contribute only once per year.

Why do we have one united campaign, asks Seward. His answer: Because Lincolnites asked for it.

Lincoln's Community Chest was founded in the early 1920's—not by the agencies, but by the givers, who decided it would help the entire community for a single organization to raise funds for the support of private welfare work in one annual drive.

Since that time, the Lincoln Community Chest has been administered by Lincoln laymen who served without pay, and the one annual fund-raising drive is conducted by some 2,000 volunteer workers.

Red Cross

The Red Cross was originally a member of the Community Chest, but withdrew in 1941 in accordance with national policy. It became a fulltime partner in 1953. Like the Chest, the local Red Cross chapter is administered by laymen, and its needs are carefully budgeted by a volunteer committee.

Lincoln citizens started the united giving idea, and it is citizens who continue to support it. Of over 2,000 such united campaigns in cities across the nation, only one, Winston-Salem, N.C., can boast a record as successful as Lincoln's.

Lincolnites have given over-the-goal support for 26 consecutive years, and cooperation has come from both employer and employe, Seward recalled.

"Employes have found their firms cooperative and helpful in arranging for payroll deduction plans to help the average person carry his share," Seward said.

No Complacency

"We mustn't get complacent just because of our record," Seward said. "Everyone — employers, employes, volunteers — everyone must do his fair share to support these community services."

The latest word from Waterbury, Conn., Lincoln's campaign challenger, is that their 2,000 volunteers are at the starting line for the cross-country "race."

"They still have some silly notion that they can beat us," Seward said.

Scientists Meet Here

First Time In Plains State

More than 80 scientists will attend a convention of the American Council of Independent Laboratories at the Hotel Cornhusker Tuesday through Friday.

This 26th annual convention is the first to be held in the Plains State. The scientists attending will represent research, development and testing laboratories in Canada, Central America and Puerto Rico as well as the U.S.

Among those attending will be Dr. Foster D. Snell of New York, whose laboratory projects include agricultural research for the state of Nebraska.

NU Briefing Set at Omaha

A team of 29 University of Nebraska faculty members will meet with Omaha area high school students and their parents Thursday evening to answer questions about college planning and scholastic opportunities at the University.

The meeting will be held at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine beginning at 7:30 p.m. A repeat session will begin at 8:20 p.m.

Medicare Push Seen

Hruska: 'First Of the Year'

Omaha (AP) — U.S. Senator Roman Hruska predicted Saturday that the Kennedy Administration's medicare bill will get "another big push right after the first of the year."

He said he objects to the plan because "it would downgrade the quality of medical care across the board and its cost would be virtually prohibitive, ultimately if not in the beginning."

Speaking before the Nebraska Association of Health Underwriters, Hruska objected to another bill as "only a beginning of federal control" in many areas of health insurance.

The proposal, introduced by Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., would permit the federal government to license foreign insurance companies doing business in the United States.

"This would reverse the policy, which is deeply rooted in insurance laws, that the federal government will stay out as long as the states regulate. I believe the states have been and are regulating," Hruska said.

Lincoln Dentists To Attend Meet

Four Lincoln residents will attend the 104th annual meeting of the American Dental Ass'n., Oct. 14-17 in Atlantic City, N.J.

Dr. Leland D. Arnot is a member of the house of delegates, the association's legislative body and Dr. Donald T. Wangener is on alternate delegate.

Mrs. Judy McAdams and Mrs. Irene Wesierski of the University of Nebraska, both members of the American Dental Assistants Ass'n., will participate in the scientific program.

Clean Air Ordinance Hangs Fire

To Be Written 'When Time'

By LEO SCHERER

The city still doesn't have an air pollution ordinance.

One was prepared and held for further study last year but indefinitely postponed when the new form of city government came into operation.

City Atty. Ralph Nelson has said that a new ordinance covering air pollution and related items will be drawn as soon as his department gets time.

Such an ordinance has been favored by some Council members and health officials, but opposed in parts by business interests.

Around City Hall

Liquor Action Soon

Watch for the City Council soon to take some action on beer and liquor policies.

Several hearings on the issue already have been held by the Council and Mayor Dean Petersen has urged that something be done.

One of the unsettled questions in the minds of the Council is whether or not the city can limit the number of bottle club and non-profit licenses.

A former Council member reportedly has privately talked with the Council about getting an off-sale license outside the foot-patrol area.

Graven on Paper

Following are the ten commandments for driving which recently appeared in the Nebraska League of Municipalities magazine:

First—Thou shalt hold nothing but thy steering wheel—neither a babe on thy lap nor a babe in thine arms.

Fourth—Remember the driver behind, to help him pass thee.

Fifth—Honor thy father and thy mother—and all thine other passengers.

Sixth—Thou shalt not kill—not even a pedestrian.

200 Claimsmen To Attend Clinic

The Lincoln Claimsmen Assn. expects to host 200 delegates at its 11th annual claim clinic Friday at the Cornhusker Hotel.

Following an address by president Wing Wachtel, delegates will hear attorney Joe Cashan of Omaha discuss new legislation and old problems of workmen's compensation.

Lincoln attorney Kenneth Webb, will speak on the "Expert Witness in the Court Room."

House of The Week — Large Living in Small Package

By Associated Press

A portico with tall columns and a grand colonial front door attract immediate attention in this handsome home and suggest it must be something far more extravagant than an economical bi-level.

This is not to say the imposing facade is deceptive; on the contrary, there are enough luxury features on the inside to more than justify a stately exterior.

Architect Herman H. York designed the house specifically to provide economical living for a family of six or seven.

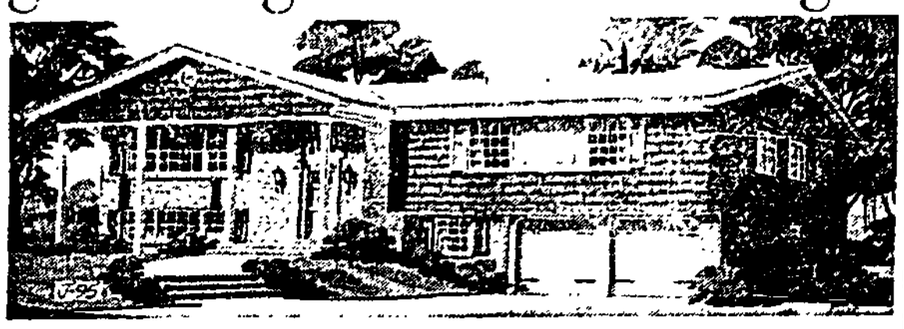
He selected bi-level design because of the large amount of living area this type construction provides within limited dimensions. And in York's view "There's no reason why a modest size home can't be nice looking and fun to live in as well as economical."

The house contains up to four bedrooms, 2½ baths, living room, dining room, kitchen, recreation room, laundry, hobby room, two car garage and plenty of storage space—all within a tidy perimeter of 52' wide by 29'5" deep.

The main level contains 1,396 square feet of living area. But the basement is raised out of the ground sufficiently so that what normally would be gloomy cellar space becomes bright, airy and liveable, providing what amounts to a bonus of 765 additional square feet of living area.

One of the most attractive features of the house is a large dining balcony (about 137 square feet) adjoining the kitchen. Because the main level is raised, most bi-levels fail to provide for outdoor living where it's needed most. The dining deck solves this problem.

The mid-entry foyer of this house also is unusual. The main stair, a full five-feet wide, is divided at right angles, with an open railing at the living room. The closed feeling typical of so many split-entry foyers is eliminated; instead there is a sense of spaciousness.



Modest elegance . . . stately portico minimizes difference in grade levels.

Your Nurseryman Speaks

Relaxed Thinking Brings Ideas

On the outskirts of this city are 7½ acres. It's lazy land. It doesn't work making money for its owner. It doesn't even work at being beautiful. It's just there.

It's known as the Land of No-Gotta because its owner wants the relaxed feeling of "not gotta do anything" when he's there.

Three weeks ago today, he sat in the shade of a peach tree — all day. His only work was moving from the west side of the tree in the morning to the east side of the tree in the afternoon.

As often happens when one sits quietly and lets the world come to him, he got an idea — a small one. We have all heard of the "haves" and the "have nots," but how about the "attractives" and "unattractives"?

One young lady has a cute turned-up nose. She marries the boss and ends up with three fine children in a 6-room house. Another young lady has the same general equipment except that her nose turns up — and then down and then up. She ends up with 16 children in a three room house.

The difference between the "attractives" and the "unattractives" is not necessarily traditional beauty. Two equally solemn, sincere, open-faced young men start out in life together. One becomes a respected public relation man. The other ends up a minor, edge-of-law, con man. The difference between the two? A nervous twitch of the left eyelid.

Do you doubt the attractive-unattractive theory? Visit the Humane Society and watch the young puppies. They all crave life and love. They all want to be owned. Yet, some will not achieve their modest life time aim. Others will. The difference? Some are attractive. Others are not.

The same differentation holds in the plant world. A missionary in an Asian country planted sunflower seeds in her back yard. When they bloomed, natives came from miles to admire them.

This was jungle country and to get to the missionary's home, the natives trampled and cut their way through—wild orchids!

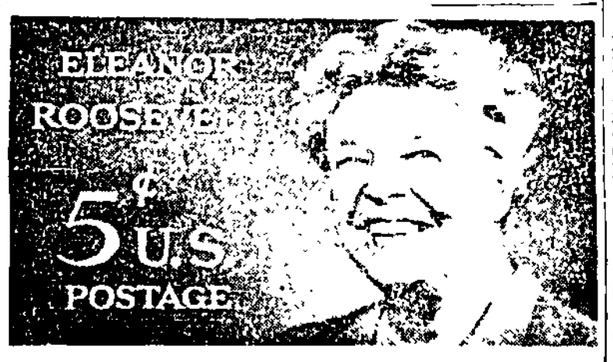
As No-Gotta's owner sat in the shade of that peach tree pondering attractives and unattractives, he was sad, almost morose. At that moment this was a cruel, senseless world.

Then as day gave way to twilight; as the setting sun showered the clouds with color, another thought came.

God made the world and the infinite beauty therein. Unfortunately, man made the rules by which we judge this beauty. Beauty is only in the seer's eye.

As No-Gotta's owner folded his chair and left the peach tree, he made a firm resolve. He would see anew.

Yes, God made all men equals and he made all animals and plants equal. In quality is little more than centuries of man's thoughtless thinking — and righting this wrong is every man's business.



Mrs. Roosevelt Picked Photo Used on Stamp

The late Eleanor Roosevelt once said she hated all pictures of herself, that she didn't look good in any of them.

"But" she told a son, "if you have to have a picture, that's the best one."

The son, Rep. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., told the story at the ceremony unveiling the U.S. postage stamp bearing the likeness of the picture Mrs. Roosevelt chose.

The widow of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt died last Nov. 7. The stamp will be issued in Washington, D.C. Oct. 11 on the 79th anniversary of her birth.

Twenty nations, in addition to the United States, are planning to issue stamps in a worldwide tribute to Mrs. Roosevelt.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, with payment for the stamps, to the Postmaster, Washington, D.C., 20013. The outer envelope should be marked "First Day Covers, Roosevelt stamp", and be postmarked by Oct. 11.

Post Card Error

The international reply-paid postal cards issued in New York on Aug. 30 have been discovered printed on one side only. Some of them, printed properly on the message side but blank on the reply side, probably have reached first-day-cover collectors.

The Printing Office, which produces the cards, is not a security press, and routine mistakes are likely to run as high as for commercial work, with a large percentage of the errors getting by the quick visual inspection. Such printing errors generally are in sufficient quantity to satisfy the limited number of postal stationery collectors who really want them, and have attracted little attention.

Garden Gossip

Fall Best For Peony Planting

Depth Is Key To Blooming

By EMERY W. NELSON
County Extension Agent

Peonies are one of the finest flowers in the garden. They are well suited to our climate and are rarely injured by severe winters.

In addition, they are among the showiest of the blooming plants and have decorative foliage.

Good Drainage

Fall is the best time to plant peonies. Planted properly, they need only a little care to keep them blooming every year. The following planting suggestions will help insure vigorous plants.

Peonies thrive best in a well drained soil which is not too heavy. They also like a rich soil.

To provide these conditions, the planting site should be well dug and enriched with compost or well rotted manure. In cases where the soil is particularly clayey, sand and black soil may be added to help provide drainage.

Winter Protection

The buds or "eyes" of the peony must be planted at a shallow depth or the plant may not bloom. In most cases, if the buds are just one inch below the surface good results can be expected.

Soil should be mounded over the plant for winter protection but the mound needs to be removed early the following spring before the plant starts growth.

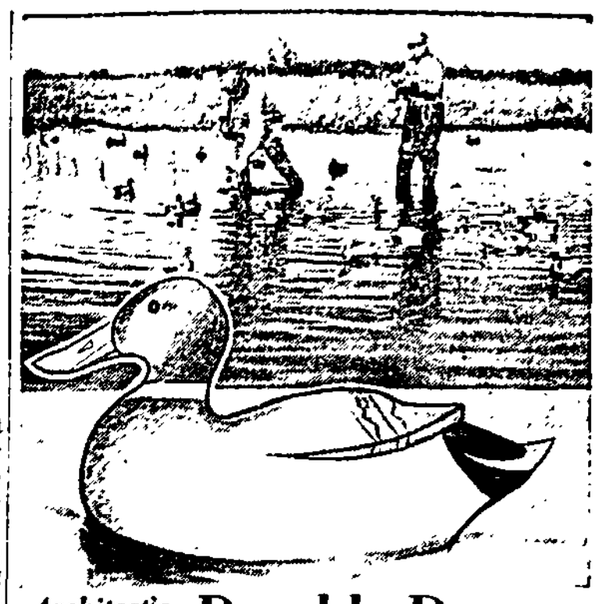
State Flower Show Opens

Fremont — The Federated Garden Clubs of Nebraska are holding their State Flower Show and 29th annual convention here today through Tuesday.

Principal speakers will be Mrs. W. H. Barton, of East Lansing, Mich., national corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frank B. Morrison; and John D. Schatz, assistant professor of agriculture at Southwest Missouri State College.

Wood Loved

Children love wood, a prominent psychiatrist says, because psychologically it creates an atmosphere in which children feel more at ease, more receptive to learn.



Architect's Sketchbook — Durable Decoys

Good, durable decoys can be expensive, as any waterfowl hunter knows. However, this Sketchbook decoy can be made for a small investment in wood and paint—and a little patience that should be second nature to any hunter.

The decoy is designed for construction with standard ¾" pine lumber. The center is hollow to make it float better. The Sketchbook plan shows full-size patterns of all parts for accurate cutting. By stacking each cut-out section horizontally on dowels, shaping the duck's body is not a difficult job. When the decoy is shaped, the plan shows color details to paint your decoy so that even the smartest duck around will be fooled.

Duck decoys are useful, decorative items around the house as well. A doorstop, for instance, or a lamp base. Or just on top of the fireplace mantle, the decoy is attractive.

Pope's Firmness Signalled By Plan to Reform Curia

Vatican City (AP) — The second phase of Roman Catholicism's greatest ecumenical council begins today.

The 2,500 council fathers called together in St. Peter's Basilica already have a foretaste of Pope Paul VI's determination to press forward Pope John XXII's program of church renewal and Christian unity.

"De ecclesia" (concerning the church) a controversial topic that ran out of time but not arguments when the first session recessed last December, comes up again.

In a decisive address a week ago, Pope Paul alerted the Vatican Curia, heart of Roman Catholic Church government, that Curia reforms are on the way.

Pope Paul VI

New Look

Reform and internationalization of the Vatican-based Curia runs throughout a five-chapter schema (topic) concerning the church. It will have the council fathers consider a new look at the church's composition as a series of communities within the overall community that is the Catholic Church organization, with dioceses no longer isolated units possessing limited decision-making powers.

The revised scheme, once a stiff and academic document of 11 chapters, is one of 16 rewritten schemata that were boiled down from 69 and infused over the past nine months with a modern pastoral outlook under Pope John's orders.

New Topic

It is expected to be the most important of all the schemata, along with an entirely new topic known in Vatican anterooms as "schema No. 17" — the role of the church in the modern world.

Schema 17 includes subjects that have long embroiled the Catholic Church in controversy with other faiths: Tolerance and man's freedom of conscience, marriage and childbearing in a crowded world population, Christianity's place of influence on modern culture.

"De ecclesia" will probably take most of the council's time from now to December, however.

The present council, 21st in the history of Catholicism and the first in almost a century, was conceived by Pope John to bring his church up to date and, in the process attract Christian leaders in quest of unity.

In No Rush

Pope Paul, 66, appears to have settled in for a long reign and the council itself is not expected to be rushed toward any prefixed termination.

This second session will run until Dec. 4, to be followed by at least one more session and possibly three. They could come next spring and fall, with much of 1965 also likely to be occupied with council work.

Pope Paul has not neglected the Christian unity aims of Pope John. Within a day of his election last June he gave the Vatican secretariat for promoting Christian unity a green light to proceed with its work.

That secretariat has invited more non-Catholic observers than the 50 who attended the initial session last fall. It has got back 60 favorable answers.

Thirteen Protestant and Anglican bodies and six Orthodox and other Eastern churches sent observers for the earlier sessions.

'Football New Folk Religion'

By United Press International

With tongue planted firmly in cheek, the highly respected magazine the Christian Century, suggests that professional football has eclipsed baseball as the "folk religion" of Americans.

"All the earmarks of high religion are here," says the non-denominational weekly.

Some Earmarks

"It has universalistic pretensions. Every metropolis wants a team. It has missionary zeal. Television spreads its saving word. With the annual extension of pre-and post-season activites, it will soon have a full church year.

"It has tragic heroes like Big Daddy Lipscomb, sages like Y. A. Tittle, betrayers like Paul Hornung, patriarchs like George Halas and priests like Byron (Whizzer) White—the U.S. Supreme Court justice who was once an All-American football player at Colorado.)

Sacrificial Sufferers

The sport does not lack its following of "votaries or sacrificial sufferers," said Christian Century, pointing to fans who spend Sunday afternoon in front of the TV set or a bitterly cold December day in the snow-swept stands of a pro football stadium.

The magazine said baseball can blame the New York Yankees, "secure on Olympus," for much of its loss of the surprise and suspense that once attracted droves of worshipers.

"And today's pitchers, on whom the game's pace depends, tend to dilly-dally the day away," it said.

Pilgrimage Chapel

Perhaps the surest sign of pro football's emergence was the recent dedication of a $600,000 Football Hall of Fame at Canton, O.

It is, the magazine said, "a pilgrimage chapel for those who wish to pay homage to pro football's Pantheon."

Ground Breaking Is Today

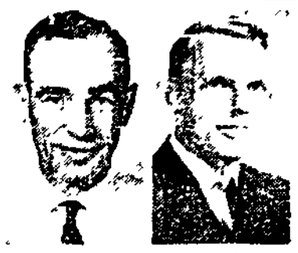
New Church For Havelock

Havelock Christian Church will break ground today for its new church at 66th and Colfax.

The program will begin at the present church, 6029 Ballard, at 3 p.m.

Floyd Bracken will serve as master of ceremonies and John Alber, a former denominational officer, will speak.

Completion of a $75,000 educational unit, to be equipped for worship services, is expected by July 1964. A sanctuary unit will be built later.



Holton Arnold

Convention Here Of Missionaries All Week Long

Miss Little

Services are at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. today. 7:30 p.m. weekday, 7:30 10 and 7 again next Sunday.

Guest speakers are the Revs. William H. Holton, Nyack, N.Y.; David W. Arnold, Wheaton, Ill.; and Miss Betty Little, Vermillion, Alberta, Canada.

Taped greetings have been prepared by the Rev. and Mrs. Royce Rexhus from Viet Nam, the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Maxwell from Ecuador and the Rev. and Mrs. Norman Mydske from Lima, Peru.

The Rev. Mr. Holton began missionary work in southern China in 1937. He now works with Chinese groups in Viet Nam and Cambodia.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold direct a French primary school in the African Republic of the Ivory Coast.

Crippled Child Clinic Planned

Falls City (UPI) — A clinic for crippled children in southeast Nebraska will be held here Dec. 7.

Although the clinic is primarily for children with orthopedic or bone problems, its services also will be available to children with other handicaps.

The clinic is sponsored by the Nebraska Services for Crippled Children and the local Elks Lodge.

Land of Contradictions

U.S. Huge, Little, Empty, Full

By ARTHUR EDSON

Washington (AP) — What an incredible, what a splendid, what a contradictory country this is!

How big, how small, how crowded, how empty, how jumpy, how tranquil!

These observations are made not as a poet waxing poetic, but as a student dredging statistics.

For the latest edition of the "Statistical Abstract of The United States" has just come out, and although only a certified public accountant would love its 1,263 tables, anyone who struggles through the fine print will once again be impressed by the endless variety of the nation and its people.

Take aspirin, which seems to be what most of us are doing.

Collectively, we are one enormous headache. In the past 15 years we have doubled our aspirin intake, from 10 million pounds a year to 20 million.

While we have tried to slow down with aspirin, we also have attempted to get more zippo with vitamins. Our vitamin-swallowing rate has soared from 3 million pounds a year to 12 million.

Everyone knows that Los Angeles sprawls all over the lot. Geographically, it's our large city with 454.8 square miles. But unless you're aware of what has been going on in the Southwest recently, you could be fooled on the second and third largest cities in area. They're Houston and Oklahoma City.

Although this is what the book shows, apparently even the statisticians can't keep up with the rapid changes. Oklahoma City reports it now has 631.48 square miles within its city limits.

New York, with by far the most population, is in fourth place, with 315.1 square miles. Incidentally, our older, established cities are no longer growing. New York, Chicago and Philadelphia have all lost population in the past 10 years. Hail to thee, blythe suburbs!

On the average, the winds swirl across those Oklahoma plains at 14 miles an hour. That's far ahead of much maligned Chicago with 10.1.

If it's a tan you crave, move to Phoenix: 86 per cent sunshine. If you're more the shady type, try Juneau, Alaska, where the sun shines only 30 per cent of the time.

The winter wonderland capital is Buffalo, N.Y., with 106.8 inches of snow, or 106.7 more inches than fall on New Orleans.

Crazy for variety. Try Bismarck, N.D. Temperatures have been recorded there all the way from 109 degrees down to a minus 44. In San Juan, Puerto Rico, it has never been hotter than 96 or colder than 62.

In Colorado the mean altitude is 6,800 feet, and the lowest spot is still 3,350 feet high. The highest point in Delaware is 60 feet, at Ebright Road, wherever that may be.

If conversation lags at a cocktail party, say brightly (and rightly): "Illinois leads the nation in the production of red clover seed."

Should this be met with startled stares, press your advantage with:

"Yes, it's true that Texas is tops in the production of sorghum grain, but don't forget that in sorghum forage you can't beat Kansas."

The United States has 51 persons for each square mile, compared with the 897 crammed into each square mile of The Netherlands. But Rhode Islanders, with 812 for each square mile, are almost as crowded as the Dutch.

Alaska is the least populated, with .4 of a person per square mile. At that, Alaska is twice as crowded as it was 10 years ago.

The District of Columbia, with scarcely any open spaces left, has 12,524 inhabitants per square mile. Many of these are lawyers.

South Carolina has 1,264 people for every lawyer. Here in Washington, D.C., we have one lawyer for every 61 persons. This is a reminder that you can't run a government without lawyers; maybe you can't run one with them, either, but that's another story.

Did you know that there are 3,967 auctioneers in this country? And that 85 of these professional babblers are women?

Possibly everyone knows that California has far more automobiles than any other state with 8,500,000. But it may surprise you to know it also is far in front with motorcycles, with 106,300.

The statisticians think of everything. Take Chart No. 61. It tells you how long you will live.

Let's say you're white, male and 50. Okay, you should make it to 73.1 years of age. Pepped up with vitamins, the aches eased by aspirin, it could be a breeze.

Jews Have Festival

Thanksgiving Forerunner

The Biblical forerunner of the American Thanksgiving will be celebrated by Jews around the world beginning at sundown Wednesday.

One of the most colorful and light-hearted of the Jewish holidays, the festival will come five days on the heels of Yom Kippur—Day of Atonement—which concluded the most sacred ten-day period of repentance in the Jewish calendar.

Sukkoth, named after the Hebrew word "suka" for booths, will see booths installed in homes and synagogues. These booths symbolize the temporary dwellings used by the Israelites in their desert wanderings.

These booths will be the site of the Simchas Torah, or Rejoicing in the Torah, celebration that begins on the eve of the final day.

Every member of the synagogue or temple will be included in the processionals winding around the building.

Bible Study Starts Today

Three Lincoln Evangelical United Brethren parishes will inaugurate a Bible study and prayer program today through Friday.

Calvary, First and Southminster EUB members will convene one hour each night with host families to discuss five Bible study series, taken from the Pauline Epistles of the New Testament.

The program will launch a national EUB emphasis on spiritual renewal.

Catholic Men Extend 165,000 Invitations

Over 8,000 Catholic men will visit some 165,000 southern Nebraska households today.

Their two-pointed program is to deliver invitations to the Diocese of Lincoln's open house program next Sunday and to take a census of diocesan Catholics.

All Catholic churches in the diocese will hold open house from 2-5 p.m. next Sunday.

"The purpose of our open house," one Catholic spokesman said, "is to promote better understanding among the people of our community and . . . even greater friendship."

Tours will include an explanation of Catholic baptism, confession and the mass.

Lincolnites Go To Men's Meet

Five Lincoln residents will participate in the quadrennial Evangelical United Brethren men's congress this week at Fort Wayne, Ind.

The congress opened Friday and will continue through next Sunday.

The Rev. Vernon Schroeder, pastor of Calvary EUB Church, said he and Mrs. Schroeder would attend Monday and Tuesday.

Other delegates he named are Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Wagner and the Rev. Donald Miller, pastor of the new Southgate parish.

Dr. Wagner, a member of several denominational boards, is immediate past vice-president of the men's group.

Leonard Moves

The Rev. Jonathan R. Leonard, associate minister of the Cozad Methodist Church has been appointed by Bishop Kenneth W. Copeland to the Cairo-Boelus charge. The Rev. Mr. Leonard is the son of Mrs. Theodore H. Leonard of Lincoln and the late Rev. Mr. Leonard, who was pastor of Trinity Methodist Church from 1948 to 1953.

Beaver Crossing Church Marks 75th Birthday

Beaver Crossing — Methodist Church here will celebrate its 75th anniversary today. Speaker at the morning service will be the Rev. Arthur W. Johnson, Columbus District superintendent.

A basket dinner at noon will be followed by a 2 p.m. program with the Rev. Clarence J. Forsberg, pastor of St. Paul Methodist Church in Lincoln, as speaker.

First-Plymouth Program Today

A program of organ and string music will be presented at 4 p.m. today in First-Plymouth Congregational Church.

Morris Collier and Ruth Johnson, violinists and Carol Work, cellist, will join Ernest Bedell, organist, in trios by Mozart and Corelli. Bedell will play several works for organ, including the First Sonata for Organ by Paul Hindemith, and the Homage to Perotin of Myron Roberts. The public is invited.

Church Plans Homecoming

Weeping Water — The First Congregational Church here will observe its annual Homecoming next Sunday.

The homecoming will include a communion service at 11 a.m. followed by a covered dish dinner at 12:30 p.m.

Russillo Speaks

State Sen. Mike Russillo of Omaha will address the Lincoln Unitarian Church Laymen's League at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 8. A question and answer period will follow his talk.

To Convention

The Rev. and Mrs. W. O. Haney will represent First Christian Church at the International Convention Oct. 11-17 at Miami Beach, Fla.

Aid to Churches

The Hague, Netherlands (AP) — The Netherlands government has offered to pay 25% of the cost of new church construction in order to help churches meet the triple problem of war-damaged structures, increasing population and steeper building costs.

Fr. Karampelas Leaving for Michigan Post

After serving in the Hellenic Greek Orthodox Church in Lincoln four years, the Very Rev. Napoleon Karampelas has accepted an appointment as the Greek Orthodox archpriest in the Upper Peninsula with headquarters in Marquette, Mich.

Father Karampelas came to Lincoln Karampelas from Pocatello, Idaho, in 1959 with his family.

A native of Peloponessos, Greece, he was ordained in 1931 following graduation from the Theological College of Korinthos. He came to the United States in 1938 and studied theology at St. Thomas Aquinas College in Grand Rapids, Mich. He has served congregations in California, Michigan, Wyoming, Idaho and Kansas as well as in Nebraska.

Elderly Housing Being Planned

The proposal passed 227-20 at Verdigre; and by a 282-12 vote at Newman Grove.

The issue was whether to apply for federal funds to build the projects. A site will be selected at both communities.

Film Scheduled

A film, "Mr. 'Texas," will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Youth Center, 15th and O.

Overseas Work Told

Nebraska Gideons were told to "except God to work miracles" in the work of placing Gideon Bibles in "the barred countries of the world."

John E. Smitter, representative of the International Cabinet of the Gideon Society, reported on the Society's work abroad to 200 members attending the Nebraska Gideon Society's 20th annual convention.

Smitter and his wife recently returned from an assignment in 17 Caribbean islands, in 13 of which the Gideon Society is active.

"We must depend on time, work and miracles to get the Bibles to as many people as possible," Smitter said.

He said that many factors are necessary before introducing Gideon activities in some countries. These include a government that will welcome the Gideons, a hospitable atmosphere among the citizens and a degree of literacy.

Smitter said that in Japan, one million bi-lingual Gideon Bibles have been distributed within the last ten years.

Smitter and Spanish Bible

To date, 62 countries have organized Gideon activities, he said. In Nebraska, 18,015 Testaments and Bibles have been shipped to hotels, hospitals, military bases, youth organizations and public and private institutions.

Child Care Group Meets

"Looking at Ourselves" is the theme for some 130 members of the Nebraska Assn. of Child Care Institutions conference in Omaha Monday.

The two-day session at the Blackstone Hotel features a keynote address by Dr. Maurice J. Rosenthal, consultant at the Illinois Institute for Juvenile Research and the Illinois Childrens' Home. He will discuss "Dynamics of Separation," the problems involved when a child is separated from his parents.

Other speakers include Dr. Matilda S. McIntire, assistant research professor in neurology and psychology at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, and Dr. Edward T. Beitenman of the University's psychiatric institute in Omaha.

Whipple Speaks

The Rev. Don Whipple, new director of Lincoln Youth for Christ, will speak at 7 tonight at First Assembly of God Church, 320 No. 56th.

Storybook Characters In Parade

A special Christmas parade will be held in downtown Lincoln at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 2.

The parade will feature large balloon figures representing many familiar storybook characters, said Robert Magee, president of the Lincoln Promotion Council. These are the same gigantic balloons that have received enthusiastic acclaim in the famous parades in New York City and Detroit.

Kearney Plans World Parley

Kearney (UPI) — Kearney State College plans its first annual conference on world affairs April 8-9

Nearly 40 nations have been invited to send representatives.

Conference chairman James Todd, associate professor of history, said that so far acceptances have been received from countries in Europe, Africa, Asia and South America, as well as the U.S. Department of State and the U.S. Information Agency.

Lincoln Dentists Present Papers

Two Lincoln dentists, Dr. William S. Kramer and Dr. Earl Lampshire, will present papers before the 1963 annual meeting of the American Society of Dentistry for Children Oct. 11-13 in Atlantic City, N.J.

Dr. Kramer will cover the subject of "Gold Foil Restorations for Young Permanent Teeth". Dr. Lampshire's subject is "Pre-medication of the Child Patient."

Top Movies

'Lilies of The Field'

Varsity—Starts Tuesday.

Refreshing charm for the family is provided in this amusing story of an ex-GI on the loose who comes upon and assists a company of German immigrant nuns in building a chapel in the heart of the Arizona desert.

Poitier

Stars are Sidney Poitier, Lilia Skala and Stanley Adams.

This film has won special citations from Catholic and Protestant film organizations because its "spirit and idea contribute to the spiritual progress and development of human values" and for its "contribution to the promotion of the Ecumenical idea by its gay and charming description of different faiths and ways of life."

'Love, Desire'

Nebraska—Starts Friday

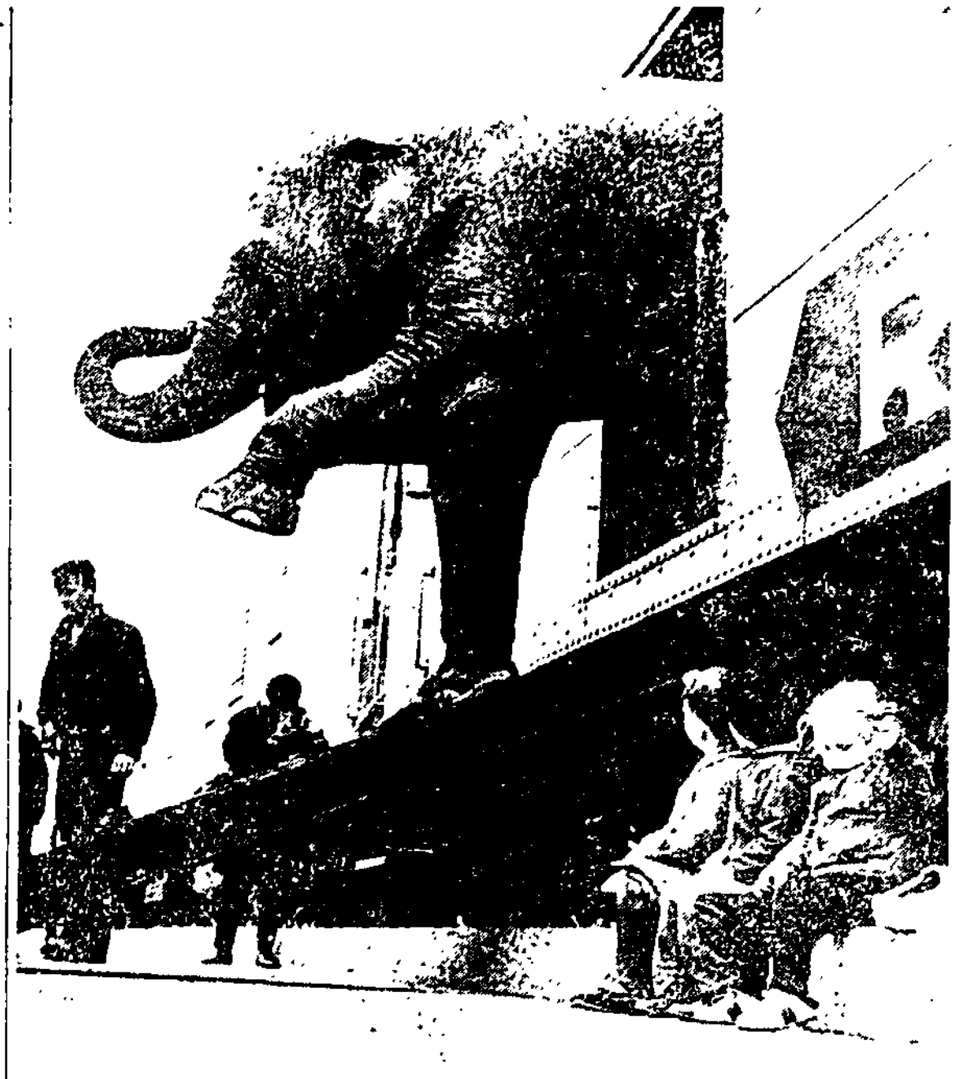
"Erotic passions, controlling the dark recesses of the human mind," run amok in this adult film starring Merle Oberon, Steve Cochran and Curt Jurgens. Miss Oberon plays a joyless seductress.

Remember?

WAY BACK—When Margaret O'Brien (left) was a little girl, many years ago . . . even back when Judy Garland was a rather little girl, many, many years ago . . . they made a delightful movie with Tom Drake called "Meet Me in St. Louis." This Technicolor hit will be at the Stuart for two days, Saturday and Sunday.

'Only Way'

Pianist Peter Duchin, son of the late famed pianist Eddie Duchin, says the "only way to start children in music is to force them to play. That's the way my father did me. That's right, isn't it?"



Keep your eye on—the photographer's head!

Big Circus Is Coming

Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey Circus roars into the Auditorium Oct. 4-6.

Scores of wild animals, 17 performing elephants, daring aerialists, acrobats, clowns, girls and spectacles will be seen.

Among animal acts are ferocious tigers and lions of trainer Trevor Bale, three rings of elephants led by Hugo Schmitt, the King Ranch (Tex.) liberty horses of Charles and Gina Moroski, the Klauser bears and the Hannaford bareback riding troupe.

La Toria, 18, stars in "Debutante Ball," an aerial ballet where she does 100 one-arm body swings 50 feet up.

The show is bringing its own weather. Make-believe rain and snow will fall in the Auditorium as hundred of animals and humans cavort in "Four Seasons."

The famous Zacchinis will shoot two girls out of the mouth of a monster cannon "Through the highest recesses" of the Auditorium.

Civil Air Patrol cadets who can't pilot a plane will be "flying high" anyway on Nov. 9, having scheduled a dance for that Saturday evening at the National Guard Armory.

A Halloween party was cancelled by the volunteer civil organization in favor of the musical event, which will be complete with orchestra, floor show and 200 beautiful—and free — orchids.

One of the best suspense thrillers ever made, "The Great Escape," starring Steve McQueen as Hilts the cooler king and Charles Bronson as the tunnel king, has won the Boxoffice Blue Ribbon Award for August. Great adventure, sparkling with humor, and not "prettied up" with phony romantic scenes.

The Auditorium has those "urban folk singers," Peter, Paul and Mary, scheduled for 8 p.m. Oct. 11, with the University of Nebraska sponsoring. One blond, two beards and a couple guitars.

The Auditorium, bubbling over with enthusiam about the upcoming Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus which starts Friday, and over Peter, Paul and Mary, wishes nevertheless to remind Ice Capades lovers that this glittering show will be at the Auditorium beginning Feb. 10.

As Sammy Pepys once wrote something like, "Sliding with 'skeetes' is a very pretty art."

October in the Capital City

Circus, Football, Halloween Ahead

Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus, a book fair, football, Halloween, bands and the District I Nebraska State Education Assoc. convention share October in Lincoln billing with a special session of the Legislature.

October is a big football month.

The NU Cornhuskers host Iowa State the 5th, Air Force Academy the 12th in a Band Day attraction, and Colorado the 26th in the Nebraska homecoming game.

Nebraska Wesleyan University has three home games, all at night: Northwest Missouri Oct. 4, South Dakota Northern of Aberdeen the 11th and Graceland College the 25th in the Wesleyan homecoming feature.

High School

High school games at Seacrest Field, all at night, in the new month include Lincoln High v. Grand Island the 4th, Northeast v. Beatrice 5th, Lincoln High v. Southeast the 11th, Northeast v. Fairbury the 18th, Southeast v. Beatrice the 19th, Northeast v. Omaha Westside the 24th and Lincoln High v. Omaha Benson the 25th.

Pius X hosts Bellevue Oct. 11 and David City Aquinas Oct. 25 in night games at Vap Stadium.

Each Sunday afternoon, teams in the midget and junior circuits play at Vap Stadium and Muny Center, respectively.

The 1963 Legislature will be called back into special session Oct. 21.

Activities at the University include: faculty recitals Oct. 6, 15 and 24, Audubon Screen Tour Oct. 7, WRA Fall Dance Oct. 18, Homecoming Queen election Oct. 23, Pre-Military Ball Style Show Oct. 28, Music Sorority Concert Oct. 31, and the Corn Cobs Homecoming Dance at Pershing Auditorium Oct. 26.

Band Day

Also at the University on Oct. 12, the annual Band Day celebrations will take place. High school bands from throughout the state will spend the entire day at the University practicing for the half-time football show and the traditional parade through downtown Lincoln.

Lincolnites also will be entertained by a second parade the 17th at 3:30 p.m. when more than 200 riders representing riding clubs from all over the state kickoff the Eastern Nebraska "Trailriders Parade" sponsored by the Lancaster County Sheriff's Posse.

Fine arts events include a Lincoln Symphony Concert at the Stuart Theater Oct. 1 and 2, Book Fair, Oct. 6-11, at Bennett Martin Public Library.

There will be a Liberace concert at Pershing Auditorium Oct. 25.

Other Events

Other events at the Auditorium include the Grand Ole Opry Oct. 3 and 17; Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus Oct. 4-6; Peter, Paul and Mary Concert Oct. 11 and the Fireman's Ball Oct. 12.

The October calendar also calls for a Children's Zoo Benefit Style Show, sponsored by the Women's Division of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, at the Hotel Lincoln, 2:30 p.m., Oct. 13.

The Capital City will also be host to several large conferences and conventions.

Education

The Governor's Conference on Education Oct. 11-12 at the Nebraska Center and the Governor's Conference on Youth Safety at the Center Oct. 19 will draw large crowds.

Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges will speak at the first annual Nebraska Community Betterment Contest awards dinner at the Nebraska Center Oct. 25. Prizes will be awarded to the 12 Nebraska communities that have displayed the greatest progress on community betterment projects.

The annual teachers convention will be Oct. 24-26 at the Hotel Cornhusker and Pershing Auditorium.

The Nebraska Center will host 100 agricultural leaders attending the national conference on International Trade and Foreign Aid Oct. 3-4; a Council on Teacher Education Oct. 11; a Midwest Conference on Asian Affairs Oct. 18-19; EUB Youth Vocations Conference Oct. 24-25; the 20th annual Social Work Institute Oct. 24-25; Regional PTA meeting Oct. 29; and a Teaching Excellence in Nursing Education Oct. 30-Nov. 1.

The Hotel Cornhusker will host a four-day convention of American Council of Independent Laboratories Oct. 1-4; Nebraska State League of Nursing Oct. 10-11; Nebraska Heart Assn. Oct. 11; AGC Building Chapter fall conference Oct. 11-12; Nebraska Hospital Assn. Oct. 17-18; and Nebraska Dieticians Oct. 31.

Harvest Moon Brightens Early October Sky

October is ushered in in fine fashion by the harvest moon which will dominate our sky for a few evenings around the second.

At that time the moon will be full and appear to rise only a few minutes later each evening.

This is not typical, for during most of the year the moon rises an average of 50 minutes or almost one hour later each evening. Thus if it rises at sunset Tuesday, it will rise one hour after sunset Wednesday and two hours after the sun goes down Thursday. However, during harvest moon the moon will only rise about 30 minutes later each evening.

Nearer Horizon

The reason for this variation is that the moon at harvest time is at that point in its orbit that almost parallels the horizon and it moves in a northerly direction, not as far below the horizon as the rest of the year, so, the difference in the time of rising is not as great. The orbital motions of the moon are difficult to watch, but can be seen by noting its position among the background of stars for a few nights.

The motion of the moon which we are all acquainted with, whereby it rises in the east and sets in the west, is not due to the moon moving, but to the Earth spinning. As we ride on the Earth we spin by the moon every day.

The summer triangle still dominates our evening sky right after sundown. The three bright stars of the triangle are high overhead during the early evening and very easy to see.

Brilliance

The brightest star-like object in our sky tonight is not really a star, but a planet. Golden yellow Jupiter is brilliant. It rises in the east at sundown and is visible the rest of the night.

Another planet, Saturn is a pale yellow object almost straight south right after dark. It is not as bright as Jupiter but is the only bright object in that part of the evening sky.

Mercury, the most difficult planet to observe, may be seen as a bright orange object close to the eastern horizon for a few mornings around Oct. 5. Remember that the planets do not twinkle unless very close to the horizon. True stars on the other hand, always twinkle.

Now Sky Show

Jupiter and Saturn are the main subject of a new sky show called "Giants of the Solar System" which starts at the University Museum's Mueller Planetarium Monday. We sometimes get the idea that all the planets are very similar.

Planetarium visitors will see that this is not so.

About the only thing the Earth and Jupiter have in common is the fact that they contain the same chemical elements and go around the same sun. You will also meet the king and queen of the sky and a great winged horse at the Planetarium.

Public Sky Shows are presented at 8 p.m. Wednesdays, 2:45 p.m. Saturdays and 2:30 and 3:45 p.m. Sundays and Holidays. Shows for schools and other organizations may be scheduled at other times by contacting the Planetarium.

Skies for October

Wednesday, 2. The moon is full "Harvest moon."

Thursday, 3. Moon passes four degrees south of Jupiter at 4 a.m.

Friday, 4—Mercury is at the point in its orbit closest to the sun at a distance of 28,600,000 miles. The moon is at the point in its orbit closest to the earth at a distance of 221,500 miles.

Saturday, 5. Mercury is visible low in the east just before sunrise.

Tuesday, 8. The earth passes at close to Jupiter as it will do this year, 367,700,000 miles from the giant planet.

Wednesday, 9. The moon is at last quarter.

Wednesday, 16. The moon passes three degrees north of Mercury at 11 p.m.

Thursday, 17. The moon is new.

Friday, 18. The moon passes four degrees north of Venus at 4 a.m.

Saturday, 19. The moon is at the point in its orbit farthest from the earth at a distance of 252,300 miles. The Moon passes four degrees north of Mars at 10 p.m.

Friday, 25. The moon is at first quarter.

Saturday, 26. The moon passes two degrees south of Saturn at 2 p.m.

The Planets

Wednesday, 30. The moon passes four degrees south of Jupiter at 11 a.m.

Mercury will be visible low in the east just before sunrise for a few days around the 5th. This is the last good look we will get of Mercury this year.

Mars is in Libra. It is too low in the west at sunset to be easily seen.

Jupiter is in Pisces and extremely bright, it rises in the east about sunset and is visible the rest of the night.

Saturn is in Capricornus, it is almost directly south at sunset and sets about midnight.

Life of Swing Era's Golden Girl, Lee Wiley, Being Brought to TV

By MILT FREUDENHEIM
Chicago Daily News Special

New York — The story of singer Lee Wiley, a golden girl of the swing era, will be recounted for the television generation next month.

In her handsome apartment on the fashionable East Side, Miss Wiley recalled how it used to feel to be a radio star and a swing band songstress.

Actress Piper Laurie will play Miss Wylie Oct. 11 for the Bob Hope Chrysler Theatre on NBC-TV.

"I was 15 when I ran away from home in Muskogee, Okla. I came to New York and got a job singing with the Leo Reisman band on the radio.

"Right away, I moved into a $10 hotel room. That was big money in the 1930's. But later, when I was featured on the Kraft (radio) Hour, I lived in a tower suite in the Hotel Pierre."

Favorite of Giants

Miss Wylie became a favorite of the young giants of the swing world, many of them playing in the orchestra accompanying her radio show.

"We had Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Bunny Berrigan, Jack Teagarden in that band," she recalls.

"Everybody who was anybody was in that band. If they weren't anybody, we didn't speak to them. We were very snobbish about it. People took their music seriously in those days."

Crooner Bing Crosby praised Lee as "the greatest girl singer I've ever heard."

Married for a time to pianist Jess Stacy, famed as a Benny Goodman "sideman," she remembers driving with the band from Chicago to Boston to make a playing date. In those pre-turnpike years, it took 48 hours.

Miss Wylie still keeps up with some of her old musical friends, among them impresario Eddie Condon and pianist Joe Bushkin. But she sings rarely, usually among friends at a party.

The personality that used to move male listeners to impetuous thoughts is now devoted to the real estate business.

She turns a jaundiced eye on some of today's younger performers, especially "some of these little guys who are just encouraging delinquency. They don't sing; they cavort."

Admires Streisand

She is an admirer, however, of singer Barbra Streisand, "She could sing any way she wants to, including standing on her head," says Miss Wylie, with professional appreciation.

Always more highly prized by musical insiders than by the mass audience, she herself took a hard-headed, unromantic view of her acclaim.

"I would come into a room and somebody would say, "Here comes the greatest," she recalls. "As far as I was concerned, greatness could be gauged by how much money you've got in the bank from singing.

"So when they said that about me, I used to resent it."

Band Day Parade Put On Special Net Again

Live television coverage of the University of Nebraska Band Day parade will be provided for the fifth consecutive year by a special Nebraska network.

Seven stations in eastern Nebraska will televise the parade at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 12. The program will originate at the University's educational television station, KUON-TV.

Other stations participating are KOLN-TV of Lincoln and KGIN-TV of Grand Island, KHAS-TV of Hastings, KHOL-TV at Holdrege, and KHPL-TV at Hayes Center, and KETV of Omaha.

The 26th annual Band Day Parade features 68 bands from all over the state as well as the University's marching band.

Show Has Nebraska Setting

Sitting Bull Story Friday

Early Nebraska development figures in an upcoming, two-part episode on CBS-TV's American history fall documentary, The Great Adventure.

"The Death of Sitting Bull," at 6:30 p.m. Friday on KOLN-TV and WOW-TV, dramatizes the incidents which brought the famed Sioux war chief from peaceful retirement following the Little Big Horn, to the spectacular end of his career in 1890 in the "Massacre at Wounded Knee Creek" on the South Dakota-Nebraska border.

The Wounded Knee Creek episode, telecast the following Friday, Oct. 11, and starring Joseph Cotton, Lloyd Nolan, James Dunn and Miriam Colon, picks up the story of the massacre, tracing the events through the 1934 Indian Reorganization Act which created tribal loans and educational opportunities for these "first Americans."

New Manager

Holdrege — Robert Brewster, 26, has been named manager of KHOL-TV and its satellite, KHPL-TV of Hayes Center. He is the son of Dr. F. Wayne Brewster, president of the Bi-State Co., station owner. Marlon Milliken has been appointed the station's assistant manager.

Queen for Day Goes to Omaha

Queen for a day, the ABC-TV nework show from Hollywood will originate live for five days from Omaha's Civic Auditorium starting Oct. 7.

Jack Bailey will be master of ceremonies.

Queen for a day will be taped daily from 1 to 1:30 p.m. and released in the Omaha area at 2 p.m. the same day over KETV.

Two Promoted At KFOR

Bill Wood has been named operations manager and Ken Stahl chief announcer of Lincoln radio station KFOR, according to general manager Roger T. Larson. Wood, 36, has been production director. Stahl, 30, came to Lincoln seven months ago from station KSAL in Salina, Kan.

Grown Up

Hollywood (UPI)—Annette Funicello, who got her start in video's "Mickey Mouse Club," has signed a 7-year contract with American International Productions to play grown-up roles now that she is 20 years old and no longer a teen-ager.

Fair Offers Books to Touch, Authors to Talk To

By NANCY SCHWIEDER

Introduce a child to good books and you have introduced him to some of the best friends he will know in life.

Introduce him to the authors of such books and you have personified for him the creative spirit.

With these thoughts in mind, the Lincoln Book Fair Council, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Raymond Kuble, and the Lincoln City Libraries are readying this city's second Book Fair. It opens next Sunday and runs through Oct. 11 at Bennett Martin Public Library.

3,000 Books, 14 Authors

Three thousand new books given by the Children's Book Council, Inc., of New York plus 14 authors of both juvenile and adult books will be on deck for the Fair. Hours are from 3 to 8 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. thereafter.

This is no hands-off show. Books are to be conveniently displayed so that eager hands may thumb through them. Authors will not only speak but . . . perhaps more importantly . . . may be spoken to. The Fair is aimed at being an adventure in the reality of the world of books.

All fourth grade public and parochial school pupils will tour the exhibits which will feature storybook posters made by the children last spring under the direction of Miss Elva McFie, Lincoln Public Schools art coordinator.

In addition, there will be daily puppet shows by Junior League members, volumes of interest to adults, a second-hand book sale and storytelling sessions by Mrs. Robert S. Patterson. PTA members will act as hostessess.

Opening day headliner at the Book Fair will be Sydney Taylor of New York, author, in a round-about way, of the prizewinning "All-of-a-Kind Family." Mrs. Taylor's stories of her childhood in a large family so pleased her daughter that her husband secretly entered them in the Charles W. Follett Award contest. They won, launching Mrs. Taylor as a writer.

Another headliner, Claire Huchet Bishop considers herself more than French, being from Brittany. Granddaughter of the village storyteller, she wrote poetry and spun tales in the first children's library in Paris.

One of the stories, "The Five Chinese Brothers," she set down several years later in New York as the wife of an American. Among her books are "Pancakes-Paris" and "Augussus."

Dad, Mom Included

Yet another visitor, Rebecca Caudill says of her work, "Many children's books are written about orphans who have had to make their way alone. I like to write about families that are intact. I guess I have a soft spot for fathers and mothers."

Born in Harlan County, Ky., she was one of 10 children of schoolteacher parents who made home an informal schoolroom for their brood.

Her first four books, including "Barrie & Daughter," were Junior Literary Guild selections. Miss Caudill is in private life Mrs. James Ayars of Urbana, Ill.

Isabelle Lawrence mixes history with action when writing for boys and girls. A one-time literary and drama critic for the Boston Transcript, she now teaches at the Latin School of Chicago. Among her books are "The Night Watch" and "The Gift of the Cup."

Curator of the Laura Ingalls Wilder Museum at Mansfield, Mo., Mrs. Irene Lichty was a dear friend of the author of the beloved "Little House" books. She will incorporate in her talks pictures, objects of interest and personal touches relating to her friend.

Jerome Cushman, director of the New Orleans Public Library, was formerly librarian at Salina, Kan. His story hour for children at Sa-

Lincoln third graders last spring prepared the decorations.

'Fashion Capital-ized' to Benefit Both Milady and Lincoln General Hospital

Milady's wardrobe undoubtedly will undergo some changes after she sees the "Fashion Capital-ized" extravaganza to be presented the afternoon and evening of Oct. 8 at the Stuart Theater.

The big winner, though, will be Lincoln General Hospital. At least that is the hope of the sponsoring Lincoln General Hospital Auxiliary. They've been working for a year on the super style show as an all-out, one-shot fund raising project.

The musical spectacular will have a cast of 147, lavish stage settings, a song and dance team and showing of a fabulous jewel collection.

"There is something in this production to capture the fancy of everyone," says director Leo Hill, "beautiful women modeling magnificent clothes, elaborate settings, the music and dancing of a Broadway musical, and a cast of children guaranteed to steal the show."

Fashion is a family affair might well describe this "off Broadway" production. Its singing and dancing cast of 147 includes local husband and wife teams, college students and youngsters.

"Fashion Capital-ized" is a story of style with a theme of little girls grown up. It is told in five scenes and corresponding curtain acts. The major downtown department stores are supplying the fashions and costumes. Their display departments are working overtime to outdo each other in creating lavish stage settings.

Charles Sayre will be master of ceremonies, assisted by Mrs. Frank Morrison on the fashion commentary. Singing star will be Lee Schoonover. Don Anderson will dance to the tunes of Johnny Cox's orchestra.

The vignette which threads through the entire production is one of

Lincolnites Look for Fun and Relaxation in Week-end Amusements

LINCOLN DIARY

Monday: Double trouble, but twice as lucky . . . Daryl and Douglas Cyr, identical twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Cyr, have always done things together. Both 9, they share a newspaper route, savings account, a new bike, and parallel grades at Hawthorne School.

This week, Doug burst into the house exclaiming, "Is Daryl ever going to be mad at me — I found a dollar bill on the way home while he had to stay after school!"

You guessed it:

Thirty minutes later, Daryl arrived thinking he had a rare advantage. "Look, Mom," he said excitedly, "Is Doug ever going to be mad at me!" He, too found a dollar bill on the way home.

Tuesday: The wag in one office made this sage observation: "It has been observed that when it comes to hearing little noises on your rooftop at night, you will find very little difference between the sounds of a three-legged squirrel and a wormy crabapple."

• • •

Wednesday: Return of the native . . . Mrs. Jessie Toohey of San Francisco and Menlo Park, Calif., is in town visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kurk. It has been four years since Mrs. Toohey has visited the Capital City, and the home-town has grown, while parents and friends have moved to surburban areas.

The big-city gal was repeatedly lost as she drove around town until she finally bought a detailed map of the city to expedite visiting her friends.

• • •

Thursday: Time is the limit . . . A local teenager went on a Coke date which lasted from 7 to 9 p.m.

Upon his return the younger brother queried: "Just how many Cokes can you drink in two hours?"

Friday: Duchesne College officials will meet in Lincoln Oct. 11 with college alumnae, parents and prospective students. The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Robert J. Easley, 3427 Sheridan Blvd. Mother Constance Campbell, college president, and Mother Mary McQueeny will attend.

Saturday: Pace Woods Jr. is keeping his fingers crossed for sunny skies Sunday. The cornerstone laying ceremony for the Gateway Manor Retirement Apartments, which was rained out last Sunday, is re-scheduled for 3 p.m.

Washable Wools

When you shop for school clothes, look for woolens with new finishes. Hand tags will tell which are the new wash-and-wear finishes. These new finishes make wool clothing easy to care for. The new handtags indicate that medium dryer heat is safe to use for such garments.

Half-shell Ham

Ham salad served in cantaloupe half-shells is a real winner. Cut cooked ham into julienne strips, then toss with sour cream sharpened with dry mustard. Spoon into melon halves; sprinkle with dill weed. Serve with bran muffins or nut bread and a beverage for a satisfying, nutritious meal.

Brinkmeyer Betrothal Told

Seward — Mr. and Mrs. John Brinkmeyer announce the engagement of their daughter, Rolene, to Richard Stillahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Stillahn.

A Dec. 15 wedding is planned.

Club Starts Season

The Thursday morning Lecture Circle will begin the club year when Mrs. William A. Fraser is hostess at a membership coffee to honor old and new members at her home on Thursday.

Hostesses for the coffee include members of the executive and program committee.

The Thursday Morning Lecture Circle, formed in 1904, limits membership to 125.

Fair Offers Books, Storytellers

lina became deservedly famous. Author of "Marvella's Hobby," he will speak on "Atomic Age Storytelling" at the Book Fair.

Dorothy Heiderstadt is descended from pioneers . . . a great-uncle bought horses from Buffalo Bill when he had his ranch near North Platte. Although born at Geneva, Miss Heiderstadt has lived most of her life in Independence, Mo. "It's hard to escape frontier history," she says, "living in a town like ours."

Librarian at Louis George Branch Library in Kansas City, Mo., she has written "Indian Friends and Foes" and "Frontier Leaders and Pioneers."

Another regional writer coming to the Fair is Russell Laman of Manhattan, Kan., whose recently published first novel, "Manifest Destiny," has received nationwide acclaim. Mari Sandoz predicts that Laman's epic of Kansas "will be read for 50 years."

A native of Cloud County, Kan., he teaches narrative writing at Kansas State.

Sports Atmosphere

As the wife of Alex Francis, track coach at Ft. Hays (Kan.) State College, Helen Dannefer Francis has drawn on the sports-oriented atmosphere of her life for stories. Her husband is a brother of Col. Sam and Vike Francis, both of whom won fame as Nebraska football players.

Mrs. Francis' first novel for girls, "Operation Fitness U.S.A.," was inspired by girls who participated in the project's track and field meets directed by her husband.

Ruth Crone is no stranger to Nebraskans. A native of Lincoln, she has been on the staffs of the Beatrice Sun and the New York Times and is now teaching English and journalism at Superior, (Wis.) State College. With Marion Marsh Brown of Omaha she co-authored "The Silent Storm" for teen-agers, a biographical novel of Helen

Laman . . . novelist

More Nebraskans

Robert T. Reilly, director for special resources at Creighton University in Omaha, writes for children with a knowing hand. He is the father of six daughters and three sons. His literary efforts include "Red Hugh, Prince of Donegal," "Massacre at Ash Hollow" and "Rebels in the Shadows" in addition to numerous radio, television and festival scripts.

Union College professor of history Dr. Everett Dick was born in a Kansas sod house and has based a series of the frontier, beginning with "Sod House Frontier," on the heritage of the prairies. He was the 1962 recipient of the Woods Fellowship in Nebraska history.

Mary Frances Shura, known to her young readers for such books as "Simple Spigott," "Garret of Greta McGraw" and "Mary's Marvelous Mouse," is in reality Mrs. Raymond Craig of Plattsmouth, a homemaker with a knack for storytelling.

Another such Nebraska wife to appear at the Book Fair is Mrs. Paula Hendrich of Omaha, whose "Baby in the Schoolroom" and "Trudy's First Day at Camp" are favorites among the young.

Wedding Vows Said

Polk—The Swede Plain Methodist Church was the setting for the 6 p.m. Saturday wedding of Miss Mary Louise Samuelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Samuelson of Stromsburg, to Ronald Ray Katz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Katz of DeWitt.

The bride chose a gown of nylon organza over taffeta with a petal neckline formed by re-embroidered floral appliques, long tapered sleeves, a scalloped waistline and full skirt with chapel train. Her fingertip veil was held by a pearl crown.

Miss Glen Katz of DeWitt was the matron of honor. Miss Rosemary Wagner of Lincon was maid of honor.

Glen Katz of DeWitt served as his brother's best man. Roger Ebbers was groomsman. Ushers were Marvin Schuerman of DeWitt and Paul Samuelson of Pueblo, Colo.

Following the honeymoon the couple will make their home in Beatrice.

Mrs. Ronald Katz (Miss Mary Samuelson) of Beatrice

Neat Idea

Slip a dampened washcloth in a plastic bag and enclose it in a lunchbox. Then a child can conveniently clean his face and hands after eating.

Anchovies

Cut flat drained anchovies fine and add to melted butter to serve over broiled or pan-fried lamb chops. Different and good!

Stitch Strings

To stop draw strings from being pulled through or out of clothes, stitch them into the hood, pants or blouse. The best place for stitches: the center of the draw string.

Scour Saver

To save hours of scouring, boil a solution of one tablespoon of cream of tartar and one quart of water in a blackened aluminum pan.

SINGER
NO MORE BOBBIN WINDING!

All-new Slant-Needle Deluxe with the revolutionary AUTO-REEL system

The amazing AUTO-REEL* thread handling system does away with bobbin winding. It has a reel that fills in seconds at the push of a button. You don't have to touch it. Only SINGER has it.

1 You can wind just the amount of thread you need—quantity is measured right on the reel. Saves thread.

2 Just push the button, start the machine and the reel fills directly from the needle—in seconds.

3 Thread peels off spool spindle horizontally for the smoothest stitching you have ever seen.

4 Exclusive Slant-Needle lets you see better, sew better. Gear-motor drive is "whisper quiet," allows smoother fabric feed. Perfect stitching is assured by pre-set reel tension. Lightweight aluminum body is truly portable.

Slant-Needle Deluxe complete with case only $2.05 a week! Little or no down payment.

Overcall Clue to Right Line of Play to Use

South	West	North	East

4◇	Pass	4♡	Pass
5♣	Pass	5◇	Pass
7♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Heart nine

Although South's point-count was somewhat limited, he had the values to open with a strong two-bid by every other possible test. He could expect to take about 10 or 11 tricks in his own hand, and he had excellent controls for slam purposes.

West overcalled in clubs with a view to a possible sacrifice, and North had a responding problem. As South's heart suit was likely to be at least a five-carder, an immediate raise to three hearts was a distinct possibility; but North decided that it would be more useful to show his diamond suit first and his heart support later. The three-diamond bid proved valuable to South: when he bid the grand slam he expected to be able to discard a possible spade loser on North's diamonds.

South drew trumps and went down quickly by leading his diamond king. He might have given more thought to the play if he had realized that there were two ways to play the diamond suit. With the help of South's diamond seven he can guard against East holding all the missing diamonds by leading to dummy's diamond ace.

Had he foreseen the problem, South might have arrived at the answer. West's club overcall was the clue. South could have played two spade tricks in search of information and would have got it. If West held two hearts, at least two spades, and club length, he could hardly hold four diamonds—but he could be void in the vital diamond suit.

parents talking after the party with their daughter. The on-stage parents are played by Mrs. Roger Dickeson and Carl Leising. Their off-stage voices are supplied by Mrs. Robert Patterson and Thomas Lawrie.

The first scene is of a birthday party at Lincoln Children's Zoo. A cast of 16 school children led by Schoonover sings tunes from Finian's Rainbow (the role which earned him the "Elsie" at the Community Playhouse).

This is followed by a satire of a man's idea of a fashion show, Christmas in Nebraska, Fraternity Party, and Homecoming, featuring the hit song of the season "There Is No Place Like Nebraska."

After intermission the fabulous Peacock jewel collection will be shown with stones so priceless that an armed guard is assigned to protect each model.

Vanity Fair

Another raport for the occasion is Vanity Fair, with a trousseau theme. It is introduced by Miss Marguerite Hight, the leading lingerie designer for the collection. This is followed by Dinner Party, Baby Shower and the grand finale the. Lincoln Symphony Ball.

Music chairman is Mrs. Paul Kern. Co-chairmen for the Ushers Committee are Mmes. Paul Schoor III and Hal Hasselbalch. Mmes. William Lang and Quentin Bradley are in charge of property. Mrs. William Gereke is make-up chairman, with cosmetics and hairstyles contributed by the Lincoln Coiffure Guild.

"Fashion Capital-ized" is the brain child of Mrs. Robert Stein. As special events chairman of the auxiliary she was asked to think of a project on which all of the auxiliary could work to raise a large sum of money in one annual event.

A general plan was presented to the auxiliary by Mmes Clifford Hardin, Frank Morrison, Roy G. Holly and Dr. Harold Morgan. They suggested that the hospital auxiliary with the cooperation of the Lincoln stores sponsor a fashion production using talent from Lincoln and its surrounding area.

This would be a benefit for Lincoln General Hospital as well as promoting Lincoln as a fashion and cultural center. This plan for "Fashion Capital-ized" has been in the making for well over a year.

The auxiliary for Lincoln General Hospital was founded June 13, 1952, by Mrs. George P. Abel who served as its first president. The creation of this auxiliary had long been a goal of Mrs. Abel's to help interpret the hospital to the community, offer volunteer service to the hospital and its patients, and afford new financial resources to the hospital.

The Lincoln General Hospital Auxiliary is composed of both lay and professional women.

This organization has so grown in scope in the past 11 years that its horizons have been out-distanced without losing sight of its original concepts. Mrs. Virgil Falloon, acting auxiliary president, says, "The apparent success of 'Fashion Capital-ized' is due to the hard work of the auxiliary members and the fine cooperation of the merchants and interested persons in the community."

Jerome Hines Sings Here Tuesday Night

Jerome Hines, the celebrated Metropolitan Opera basso will appear with the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Stuart Theater for the first concert of the 1963-64 season.

Hines made worldwide headlines last fall when he sang the title role of Moussorgsky's "Boris Godounov" in Russian before a brilliant Moscow audience less than 24 hours after President Kennedy's dramatic warning on Cuba. He sang the Russians' favorite opera to the audience in their own language, and Premier Khrushchev himself led the tumult of applause after the performance.

Jerome Hines. . .applauded by Khrushchev.

Hines' work in opera has brought him wide recognition. "His voice is one of the best to be heard in opera anywhere" states the New York Times. Arturo Toscanini personally chose him to sing the bass role in the maestro's last performance of Beethoven's' "Missa Solemnis" and later to record the work for RCA Victor.

Hines is that rare American, a handsome 6'6" native of Hollywood, Calif. He has just completed his 15th season with the Metropolitan Opera, and his 14th nationwide concert tour under the direction of impresario, S. Hurok. He plans to continue to combine his appearances with the Met with his concert tours here and abroad. Hines will return to the Metropolitan Oct. 17 t oappear in "Don Carlos". He will also be one of the stars of the Metropolitan's special World's Fair season next April.

In 1952 Hines married the Italian-born soprano, Lucia Evangelista. The couple and their three sons live in South Orange, N.J.

Other concerts on the Lincoln Symphony schedule are Judith Raskin, Nov. 12; Charles Treger, violinist (with orchestra), Jan 21; orchestra in concert, Feb. 18; Luboshutz & Nemenoff, March 24; and the audition winners with orchestra April 14.

Come Home, Mother

The Battle of The Villa Fiorita. By Rumer Godden; Viking Press.

One enchanted evening a most ordinary, middle-aged English housewife peers into the face of a stranger. He is a celebrated movie director on the prowl. Outcome: adultery.

Godden

Fanny Clavering at 43 is the mother of three children, wife of a British royal courier. So busy managing a home, gardening, chauffeuring is she that her identity as a unique individual has become subjugated

She is vulnerable before the film director's attentions. And he, forceful, self-assured, revives a dormant passion, a kind of joy in Fanny. Conventionally, divorce —English style—follows.

But here is where literary effort provides a surprise twist. The Clavering children decide to fight, to return their mother to her connubial obligations. The ensuing battle precludes any happy ending.

Rumer Godden has drawn her children finely. She conveys their immature, dependent love, often selfish in its demands upon the mother.

They plead their case effectively because theirs is an "inside track" to a mother's heart.

Has it not always been thus?

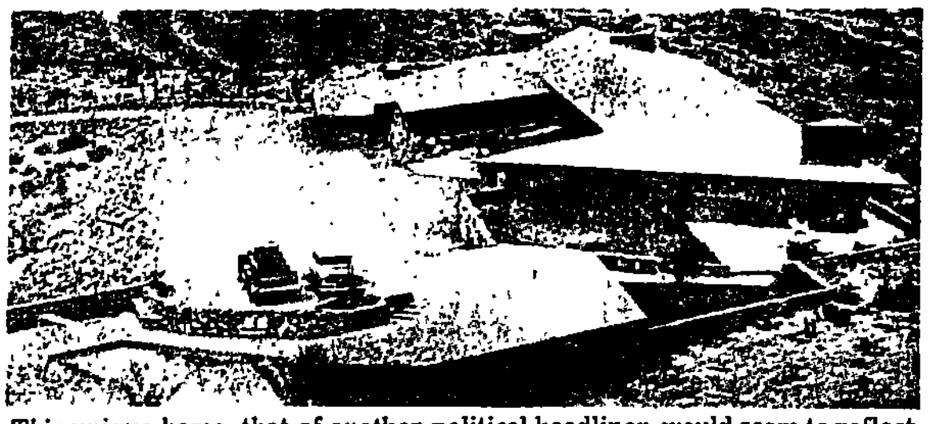
Whose Dream Homes?

This traditional home under construction, harking back to the security of history for inspiration, may well belong to an ultra-conservative man disinclined to stick his neck out, according to the October issue of Horizon. It belongs to a well-known political figure.



This unique home, that of another political headliner, would seem to reflect the philosophies of a trail-blazing, dynamic liberal. In reality, it is the home of Barry Goldwater; the early American home is that of John F. Kennedy.

Book Explains Sioux, Terrain Against Custer

Custer Country. By Ralph E. Scudder; Binfords & Mort.

How could such a disaster occur as that which befell George A. Custer and his troopers at the battle of the Little Big Horn?

Here's a neat picture book that answers the question through the use of aerial photos of the battleground. Inhospitable country it is, too—a place where the bow could shoot an arrow over a hummock that a rifle bullet would not penetrate.

The Sioux had more than numbers and an overconfident enemy working for them. These pictures, plus excellent maps and a brief text, make it so apparent.

JEEPERS CREEPERS JETER'S TOO MUCH

Husker Homer By Claridge KO's Gophers, 14-7

By HAL BROWN

Minneapolis, Minn.—Nebraska found the solution to a stingy Minnesota defense with a home run pass play here Saturday afternoon to score a 14-7 victory over the Gophers in a game marked by tough defensive play by both teams.

After the two teams had scored early touchdowns in the opening quarter, the 61,140 fans, including more than 5,000 from Nebraska, seemed destined to watch a scoreless game the rest of the way.

But then Husker quarterback Dennis Claridge, a native of Robbinsdale, Minn., and sophomore end Tony Jeter got together to bring the nearly-packed stadium out of its mild slumber.

Claridge, unable to pick up any consistent ground yardage against a Minnesota defense that was just as tough Saturday as past Gopher squads, decided to try a different route goalward.

The classy senior quarterback rolled out to his left after taking the snap at the NU 35 and spotted Jeter near the sideline at the Husker bench.

Jeter took the pass at the Gopher 35 and outran three Minnesotans to the end zone with Larry Tomlinson racing in to provide a little interference.

The score came with 12:42 left in the game and the Gophers never threatened. After this play Nebraska's troops found the going a little easier on the ground.

The Huskers got their most consistent drive going shortly after the key touchdown as NU controlled the ball for the final 8:15 and came within a yard of scoring a third touchdown as the final gun sounded.

So strong was the Gopher ground defense that the Huskers had totaled only 92 yards on the ground during the first three and one-half quarters.

The Gophers clearly let down a little after the home run pass of Claridge's and the Scarlet and Cream ground out 82 yards on the final time-consuming march that wrapped up the victory.

But while the Minnesota defense was its typically tough self, the Husker defensive efforts overshadowed the Gophers in their pet department.

The NU forward wall gave up only five rushing yards in the second half as the Husker line depth started to take its toll.

The Minnesotans, making their first start of the season, didn't advance into Husker territory during the second half as the sun came out in full bloom after showers dampened the huge crowd most of the first half.

The farthest upfield Minnesota was able to move the ball in the final two quarters was to its own 45-yard line.

One of the big factors in keeping the Gophers under control were some booming punts by Claridge that kept the Minnesotans deep in their own territory most of the afternoon.

Claridge, who averaged 44 yards per kick on seven punts, booted the ball dead on the Minnesota five-yard line, the 19 with a 65-yard kick, the 15, and the 11.

While the Huskers' play execution left much to be desired on many occasions, Nebraska looked like a finely-tuned machine as it ground out yardage and ate up the clock during the final eight minutes and 15 seconds.

The Gophers had the ball on two occasions after the Huskers scored their winning TD, but the young Minnesota team couldn't put together a goalward journey.

After giving the Minnesotians two shots at launching a march late in the game with the 14-7 lead, coach Bob Devaney's Huskers settled down and put on an 82-yard march that was spiced by a couple of fourth down plays in which NU came out with first downs by inches.

The Gophers Stan Skjei punted the ball dead at the Nebraska 17 with 8:15 remaining and this proved to be the last time Gopher hands touched the pigskin as the Huskers safely tucked away their second win in two games this fall and made it two-for-two for Devaney against Big 10 opposition. The other Devaney win as a Nebraska coach over a Big 10 school came a year ago over Michigan.

Claridge guided the Huskers on their march that was designed to eat up time, but that nearly turned into another touchdown.

By sending Rudy Johnson, Willie Ross and Kent McCloughan through the Gopher forward wall, the Husker quarterback ate up the 8:15 two to five yards at a crack.

And twice when the Huskers were in danger of giving up the ball during this drive, Johnson came through with one yard dives into the line to give the Huskers

MU's Air Attack Surprise Tactic

By CURT MOSHER

Minneapolis, Minn — Nebraska coach Bob Devaney credited rival Murray Warmath with coming up with a game plan that gave the Cornhuskers fits Saturday, but in the end it wasn't so much strategy that won it as it was just plain ole back alley football.

Devaney noted this when he piled praise on his stout-hearted defensive heroes who refused to buckle under the pressure of a surprisingly effective passing game used by the Gophers.

"They surprised us with their passing game," Devaney said. "We didn't think they would play that type of game."

Specifically, the surprise was an avalanche of sideline passes into the flat and quick shots aimed at the halfback just at the line of scrimmage.

That's what presented the problems defensively and forced the Huskers to adjust their defense throughout the afternoon.

"We were playing more of a defense against a running type offense," Devaney said of the first half when the Minnesota passer — Bob Sadek — had a lot of time to get off his tosses. "We were playing a little more cautiously in the first half.

"But we decided to gamble in the second half."

The result put the pressure on Minnesota a little more and took some of the initiative away from the Gophers.

Devaney Says...

"John Kirby did a heck of a job today," Devaney said, amplifying his remarks about the second half defense. "I thought both of our linebackers (Kirby and Bob Brown) did a good job."

Devaney also singled out end Larry Tomlinson for his rush on the passer in the second half.

Offensively, the primary problem for the Huskers was an inability to run to the short side.

"Claridge's first touchdown went that way, but that was about the only time we made any yardage there," Devaney said.

But, as one bystander said, that was a pretty good time for it to go.

What took away the short side attack was the plugging of the linebackers. The linebackers were given an opportunity to plug the holes and not harm the defense because of stunting (shifting of defensive players) just before the snap.

Tony Jeter, who caught the deciding touchdown

Series in Sioux City

Minneapolis, Minn. — The baseball season, the only thing that lasts longer than that freight train that holds you up on your way home from work, is over with at last. At least I assume it's over since the World Series starts Wednesday in New York.

That is it'll be in New York unless the Yankee franchise is moved to Sioux City or some other metropolis that "has its eye on major league baseball,"

I personally don't think the Yankees will move to Sioux City, at least before the series. But you never can tell. After all Milwaukee considered Atlanta and Kansas City owner Charley Finley is taking a long, hard peek at Oakland. Strange things can happen in baseball.

Think about it. Baseball ran Bill Veeck off once. That proves something.

It is Series time. And that's the signal to bury the hatchet, forget about these poor unfortunate owners who think they should get rich for serving a steady diet of Jose Tartabulls and Jesse Gonders.

We should also forget about these disloyal fans who have the guts to demand entertainment for their dollar.

It's easy to get worked up to a fever pitch for the Series this year. Just think about it a minute. The Yankees squeaked through in another of those hell-for-leather, dog-cat-dog struggles in the American League. And that's just the league where dog can eat dog.

And the Dodgers scored run after run — at least three times this year they scored a couple—while nailing down the National League flag.

Probably Not an Expert

Since it is Series time, any self respecting columnist must at least remember it. And, if he has any courage, must take a stand, pick a winner.

It's particularly tough for me to do. I don't qualify as much of an authority on major league type baseball since I didn't see any team play much except the Kansas City Athletics.

But I did see the Athletics play the Yankees a few times. And believe me under those conditions the Yankees will impress you. There weren't many folks in Rome who weren't impressed with the lions.

In fact it was so awesome I have to pick New York in spite of Sandy Koufax and Ron Perranoski and even Leo Durocher.

Great Year for Baseball

And don't you believe it if anyone says I picked the Yankees only because they've won a lousy 28 American League championships and 20 World Series crowns. It won't be easy though. They'll have to use Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle.

No matter who wins, however, it's been another fine year for baseball. Just ask Orlando Pena or Roger Craig.

Some will probably remember this year as the one when Bo Belinsky officially welcomed Hawaii into the United States.

But I think I'll remember it as the year baseball traded Stan Musial for a herd of sheep and a shepherd. That's probably the only deal in history not designed to help both clubs. And it sure won't help the grand ole game. But who cares. It's Series time.

By LARRY DENNIS

Ames, Iowa—Virginia Military Institute had just finished throwing a king-sized scare into 15,000 Iowa State fans when the Cyclones Tom Vaughn produced his own personal brand of nerve-relaxer and booted the Big Eight entry to a 21-6 football victory here Saturday.

Iowa State was still on the long end of a 7-6 count late in the second quarter, thanks to a pass for two points which went awry after VMI had pushed across the evening touchdown. But the Band Day throng at the Cyclones' home opener was edgy.

Vaughn, a quick - stepping fullback who is stepping in as the logical successor to a long line of Cyclone backfield stars, eased the pain in a hurry. He hauled in the ensuing kickoff on the 10, veered through a hole in the middle of the field and outlegged all pursuit down the left sideline for a 90-yard runback that, for all practical purposes, put the game on ice.

It wasn't that the Keydets played dead. They outdowned Iowa State, 16-14, and gained 228 yards to the Cyclones' 203. Iowa State had a 174-128 rushing edge, but VMI pitched 26 passes that accounted for 100 yards. The Cyclones threw just four times, hitting two for 29 yards and one touchdown.

The defending Southern Conference champions raised havoc with Iowa State's defenses all afternoon, unleashing a series of devastating sweeps to either side that kept the Cyclones in a turmoil.

But the Keydets couldn't sustain their running attack deep in Iowa State territory, primarily because of rugged defensive work by Cyclone guard Tim Brown and end Randy Kidd, who was spectacular at times. A wind which gusted up to 35 miles an hour during the game hampered the visitors' passing offense to the point where quarterbacks Butch Nunnally and Charlie Snead could click on only nine of their throws.

The Iowa State star scored the first touchdown on a two-yard buck in the middle of the second quarter, but Williams was the driving force in that march. On a 60-yard drive which required 11 plays, Williams carried the ball five times and picked VMI, struck right back traveling 71 yards in 12 plays for the matching six-pointer. A 29-yard pass play from Snead to end Dan Phlegar which took the Keydets to Iowa State's 31 was the big one. Alternate shots by reserve backs Mike Patterson and Butch Whitt got VMI to the 9.

From there, Nunnally whipped a pass to end Eric Hart cutting across the middle and the big end fell over the goal. Nunnally's try for the go-ahead points was knocked down, however, and Vaughn's sparkler followed to further chill VMI's ambitions.

He carried it back to the 13. From there it took two plays, tailback Dave Hoover rolling left on an option play from the 11 and pitching a strike to Limerick that finished the touchdown-making.

It was the Plainsmen's third straight win of the year and their second Great Plains Association triumph.

An anticipated passing duel between the two teams never materialized. NWU's Mike Slatinsky could complete only three of 22 attempts and Terry Discoe and Bill Stephenson could combine for only four of 14 for Doane.

Senior defender John Kerrey pirated a Discoe toss on the Plainsmen 32-yead line late in the third quarter and returned it down the sidelines for the second NWU score.

The march began on the Plainsmen 48-yard line and threatened quickly to stall at the Tiger 44. On a third and 14 situation, end Boyd Fankey made a lunging catch of a Slatinsky pass and carried it to the 20.

With Slatinsky and speedy fullback Dave Newlon handling most of the ball carrying chores, NWU used seven more plays to gain a touchdown. Newlon's two-yard plunge with 7:45 left in the first period capped the drive and Willis Wiesbrook's kick made it 7-0.

Fullback Stan Mullin of Valentine led the way for a Tiger drive that moved to the NSU 13 before being killed by three straight incomplete passes.

A clipping penalty late in the fourth quarter wiped out Wiesbrook's bid for a third Plainsmen tally. The Auburn native rambled 51 yards to the end zone in vain.

McCook Defeats Cameron

McCook, Neb., (AP) — McCook Junior College opened up a barrage of screen and flat passes early in the game and rolled on to down Cameron Junior College of Lawton, Okla., 41-13 Saturday night.

With Tony Dellaglio firing, McCook completed four out of four passes in the first period to lead 13-6 and held Cameron scoreless until the final period when Cameron's Tonny Bell raced 22 yards to score.

Spartans Smack K-State

San Jose St. Tops Wildcats By 16-0 Score

San Jose, Calif., (UPI)—San Jose State came on strong in the second half, scoring 13 points, to defeat Kansas State Saturday night, 16-0.

Spartan quarterbacks Ken Berry and Rand Carter passed to Bill Holland and Cass Jackson for the touchdowns, and kicking specialist Dick Tatley added a field goal and a conversion to give the Spartans their first home victory since Nov. 4, 1961, when they downed Arizona State.

San Jose State outplayed the Wildcats throughout but couldn't register a touchdown until one second before the end of the third quarter. Then a 13-yard pass from Berry to Holland scored and Tatley booted the extra point.

Kearney Blanks Peru, 35-0

Peru (AP) — Kearney took command with the opening kickoff and never let up Saturday night as it took a 35-0 Nebraska College Conference football victory from Peru.

Bill Backes and Dick Butolph shared honors for the winners. Butolph completed 9 of 12 passes for 117 yards, two of them for touchdowns, and kicked all five extra points.

Backes gained 120 yards rushing and scored two TDs.

Peru's only scoring threat came in the first quarter when its attack faltered after reaching the Kearney 10.

Hastings Air Game Hits Wayne

Hastings (AP) — Hastings' Jerry Fisher fired two touchdown passes Saturday night as his team defeated Wayne 18-14 in a Nebraska College Conference football clash.

The game matched the powerful Hastings air attack against the hard-hitting Wayne ground plays. Hastings had 269 yards via the airways compared to Wayne's 17 while on the ground it was Wayne 300 to Hastings' 87.

Scottsbuff Dumped, 13-0, By Norfolk JC

Norfolk (AP) — Norfolk JC scored in the second and fourth quarters Saturday night to nail down a 13-0 victory over Scottsbluff Junior College.

Norfolk scored its first tally when quarterback Al Boelter plunged from the one to climax a 58 yard march. Ralph Pichota's 22-yard run in the final stanza added the second TD.

Willie Battle returned a punt 85 yards for a Scottsbluff score in the first quarter but the TD was nullified by a Scottsbluff offside penalty.

Recognition For Linemen

Linemen have been, and in many cases still are, regarded as big, dumb monsters who have to be guided to the classroom. They are players who are on the field with the greatest of dedication and who attract little notice unless they get in the way of a speedy teammate. Then everyone asks, "Whose side is he on?"

Their names are seldom recorded for posterity and for every time you read the name of a lineman in a post-game football story, you can spot a back's name a dozen or more times.

This lack of recognition for linemen is still present, but it is changing slowly. Many universities are now keeping track of tackles made as well as each offensive pass or run.

And it has been pro football that has started people talking about linemen as well as halfbacks. Much has been written about the fierce battles that go on in the line between pro football's mammoth monsters.

Game Balls To Linemen

Now the NFL has gone a step further in recognizing its linemen.

A week ago, the game ball, a prized possession that goes to a member of the winning team, went to an offensive lineman. This is a break from tradition, which nearly always has seen the ball go to a back or an end, sometimes to a defensive lineman, but rarely ever to an offensive lineman.

Last Sunday, however, two blocking interior linemen came in for the award and both are on the same team, the Cleveland Browns, who beat the Dallas Cowboys, 41-24. The game ball went jointly to tackles Dick Schafrath and John Brown.

Then in another switch at Los Angeles, the game ball from Washington's 37-14 victory over the Rams was given to a spectator, Gene Brito, the ex-Redskin and ex-Los Angeles defensive end who is confined to a wheel chair by illness.

Bob Toneff, the Redskins' offensive captain, went to Washington coach Bill McPeak about five minutes before the end of the game and suggested giving the ball to Gene.

Portland, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State found Colorado defenders over-anxious to rush the line and lofted passes over their heads for a 41-6 football victory Saturday night.

Passes from OSU quarterback Gordon Queen accounted for the first four touchdowns. Three of them went to 6-foot, 5-inch end Vern Burke, who last year caught more passes for more yards than any previous player in collegiate history.

Colorado did not even threaten in the first half and did not get on the scoreboard until five minutes remained. The visitors trailed 35-0 at that point. Then they drove 75 yards for their first touchdown of the season. Halfback Bill Harris scored it, taking a seven-yard pass from quarterback Frank Cesarek.

Queen's other scoring pass went six yards to end Len Frketich in the first quarter.

By halftime Oregon State was in front 22-0, and reserves played much of the second half.

Midand Slaps Yankton, 40-0

Fremont (AP) — Midland College switched to a ground game Saturday night after scoring every touchdown so far this season on aerials, and converted the tactical switch to a 40-0 victory over Yankton.

It was Midland's second Tri-State Conference win and Yankton's first loss in the loop.

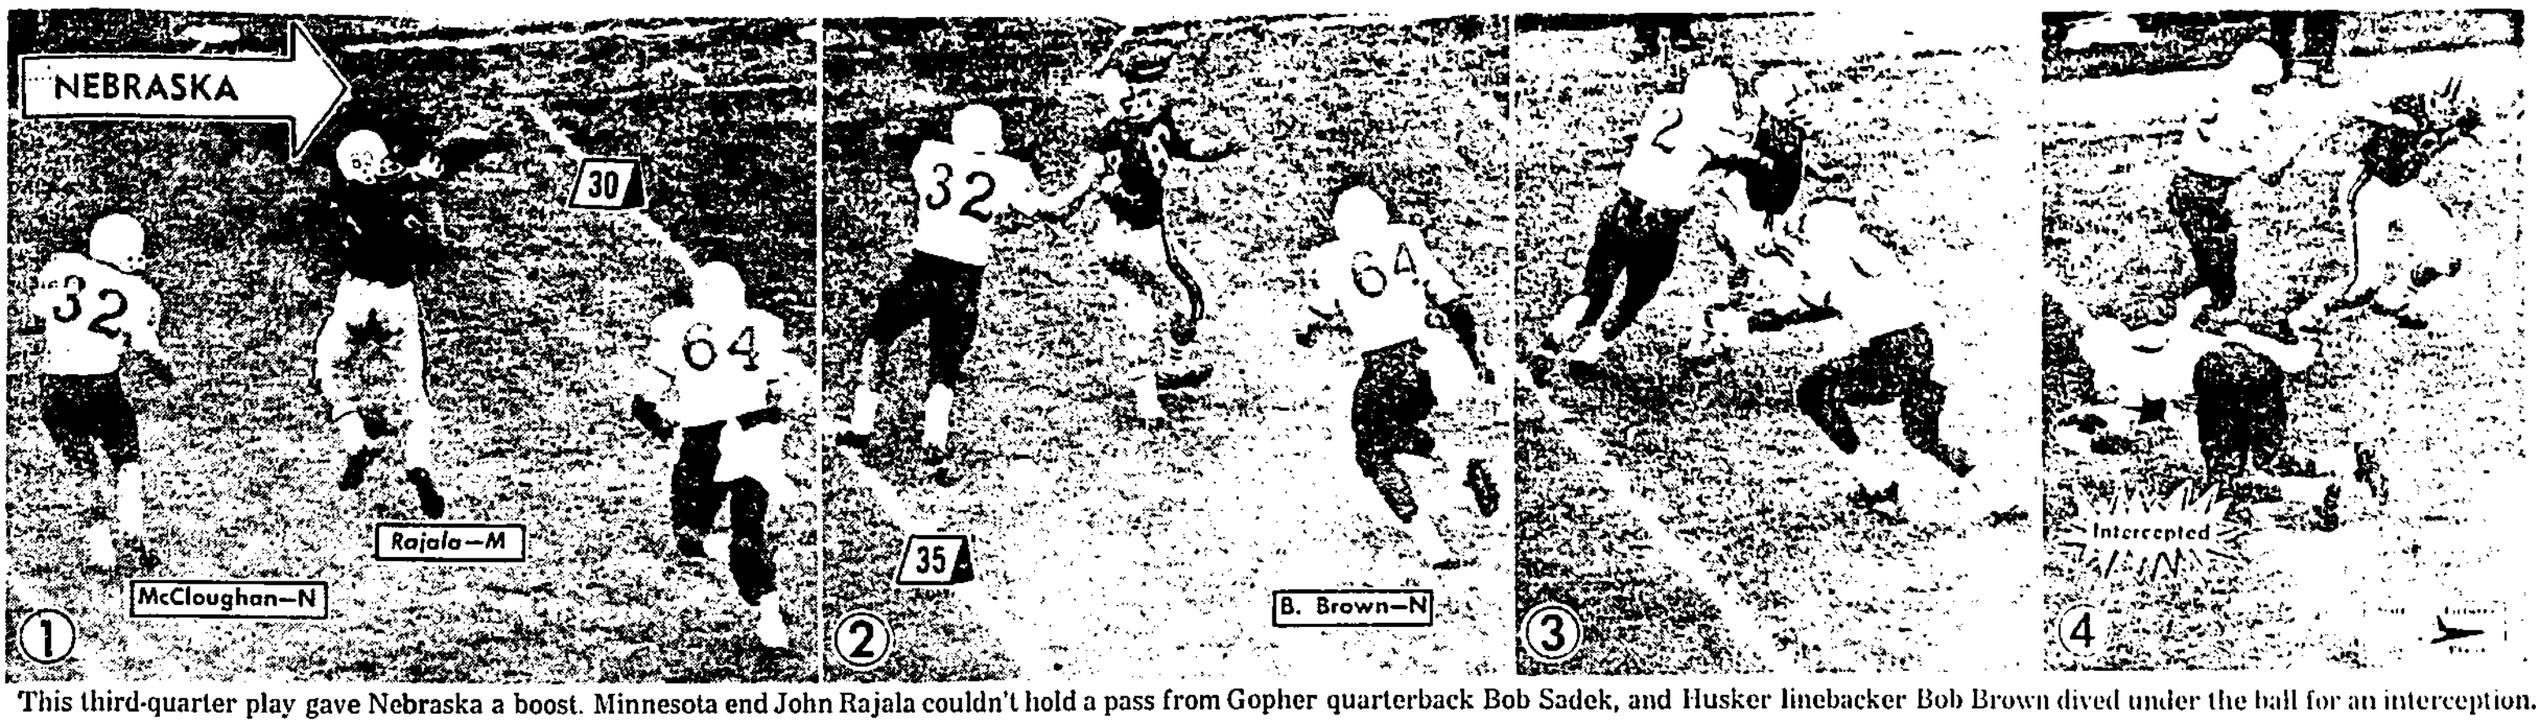
Nebraska's Bob Brown Pounces on a Minnesota Miscue



This third-quarter play gave Nebraska a boost. Minnesota end John Rajala couldn't hold a pass from Gopher quarterback Bob Sadek, and Husker linebacker Bob Brown dived under the ball for an interception.

MINNESOTA NATIVE STARS

Quarterback Claridge Cool Under Gopher Pressure

Minneapolis, Minn. — Nebraska quarterback Dennis Claridge does a lot of things well. His passing, running and punting exploits are a matter of record.

But, the thing he does perhaps even better than the other three is remain cool under fire. Nebraska won a football game because of it here Saturday.

With the score tied, 7-7, and everyone, including the Cornhusker coaching staff realizing that a break might decide it, Claridge came up with the big play in a tight situation.

The Minnesota native who returned home to haunt his old friends in Memorial Stadium called a pass play. The primary target was end Larry Tomlinson going deep and the other end trailing the play coming across the field.

"I always look for the deep man," Claridge said, pointing out at the time it was a bad habit. "I saw the deep end (Tomlinson) and he looked covered. I didn't know whether to run or not, but I looked across the field and saw (Tony) Jeter. He looked fairly open."

Husker DRESSING ROOM

Jeter was open. He bagged it on the Gopher 35 and went the distance untouched on a play that covered 65 yards in all and the Huskers had their first BIG victory of the campaign.

There were a lot of reasons for not figuring a Claridge to Jeter pass would decide this game. One, Jeter doesn't play a lot of offense and Husker coach Bob Devaney pointed out that NU doesn't normally throw to that particular receiver.

It was a bit ironic that the play paid off. Claridge tried a pass play that he had in mind as a knockout blow earlier and it backfired completely. It was intercepted at the goal line.

"I thought I had it all the way."

Jeter, an end in high school also, said he hadn't caught too many touchdown passes in his time, but that the experience wasn't entirely new to him.

"I always did like to play offense," Jeter said, "but "but I like defense just as well."

Brown had a good method of getting ready for the meeting with Eller. He put his picture on the mirror and looked at it every morning.

Halfback Willie Ross, who pulled something of a boo-boo by catching a punt near the Husker goal and getting nailed on the Husker two, made up for it with a headlong dive for a first down a couple of plays later.

Willie explained that he takes note of the necessary yardage. In a situation like that and when he sees he can dive for the first down he does it.

Claridge admitted that the Minnesota team gave him a good ribbing during the game, but he said it didn't bother him.

"The only time I was worried was for the first five minutes of the game. I was nervous and scared because I wanted to do well and I wasn't."

Golden Gophers Utilize Wide Open-Passing Attack

Nebraska had fourth and one situations twice in a row with a little over four minutes to play and the Husker fullback came through with just the needed yardage. Measurements were needed both times and both times the nose of the ball was all that was beyond the chain stick.

These key plays kept the ball in Husker possession and stifled any last-second victory hopes the Gophers may have envisioned.

And at the conclusion of the 82-yard drive and the eight minutes and 15 seconds, Ross nearly came up with his first TD of the young season.

But twistin' Willie was denied once more. Stopped just short of the end zone a couple of times last week against South Dakota State, Ross took a handoff from Claridge just as the game ended and came within inches of making it.

But probably no one but Willie really cared and it didn't really matter to Willie as the more than 5,000 Husker fans eyed the scoreboard, then headed for various rendezvous here Saturday night.

Nebraska fans learned early what their head coach had been talking about all week in expecting the Gophers to abandon their usual linebusting football for a wide-open running and passing game.

Minnesota consistently used wide running plays and passes from quarterback Bob Sadek to his speedy halfbacks Dick Harren and Jerry Pelletier in the flat that threatened on several occasions to go all the way.

The Gophers clearly shied away from running anything into the huge Nebraska line where huge Huskers such as Lloyd Voss, Larry Kramer, Bob Brown, John Kirby, Monte Kiffin, Bob Jones, Duncan Drum, John Dervin and Ron Michka were tending the store.

But while the NU line was able to contain the Gopher running game, they didn't give Minnesota quarterback Sadek many worries with a rush. Only on a few occasions did the Husker forwards penetrate the Minnesota line in pursuit of Sadek.

Sadek completed nine of 23 passes, but many of the misses were more a result of loose hands on the part of Gopher receiver or from Husker backs who kept fairly close track of Minnesotans who wandered among their midst looking for passes.

Minnesota took a Claridge punt on its own 29 and in four plays moved to the Husker 45. At this point Sadek sent Pelletier downfield in search of open territory and the speedy Gopher halfback was successful.

He managed to get behind Dick Callahan and Sadek lofted a long pass into his hands at the 15-yard line. Callahan recovered in time to catch Pelletier at the one, but two plays later Sadek sneaked in for the score.

When Mike Reid added the extra point, the Gophers had a 7-0 lead with 7:10 left in the opening quarter. And moments later the rain, that had stopped shortly before game time, started again.

It was in this rainy atmosphere that the Huskers brightened what loomed as a dark day for Nebraska fans with the tying touchdown.

The Huskers went 36 yards in six plays for the tying tally after Dave Thelsen made a fair catch of a short Minnesota punt to the Gopher 36.

Ross ripped right end for seven, then bolted into the line for another yard. Fullback Bruce Smith then took over the chores as the Huskers' alternate line opened holes on the right side of the Gopher line where all-America candidate Carl Eller and teammates Larry Hartse and John Rajal were positioned.

Claridge then skirted left end for the TD with 1:11 remaining in the first quarter. Johnson booted the first of two PAT kicks to end the scoring until the home run play that Claridge and Jeter brewed up.

The Huskers, who compiled a 176-75 rushing yardage advantage, but trailed in passing yardage, 107-89, will undoubtedly spend the coming week trying to work out offensive mistakes that cropped up Saturday.

Minneapolis, Minn. — One of the happiest Nebraskans was Mick Tingleloff, former Husker footballer and now center for the Minnesota Vikings.

Bulletin Board Had Clippings

Minneapolis, Minn. —The bulletin board in the Minnesota dressing room here Saturday was filled with clippings on the Nebraska football team.

Included among the clippings was the colorphoto that ran two weeks ago in the Sunday Journal and Star showing Willie Ross taking a handoff from Dennis Claridge while Lloyd Voss and Bob Brown provided protection

Other clippings were feature stories on Claridge and the opening of the Huskers fall camp.

Loss Surprises Warmath

Minneapolis, Minn — Nebraska's gridders pulled one surprise play on Minnesota Saturday, Gopher coach Murray Warmath explained after the Huskers' 14-7 victory.

"The only thing they did that we didn't expect was they beat us," said Warmath in answer to a question from a writer.

"We felt we could beat them and I have nothing but admiration for Nebraska's team," he added. "We were beaten by a very good football team."

Warmath, obviously unhappy after the defeat, said he was reasonably satisfied with the play of his gridders "But I am far from satisfied with the score," he noted.

The Gopher coach lauded Nebraska's backs, saying, "Our guys were hitting them real hard out there, but they just kept going and managed to pick up a little extra."

Punting was one of the keys to the Husker victory, Warmath observed. "Their punting kept us in a hole all afternoon," he said. Noticeably lacking from his comments about both the backs and punting was any mention by name of Dennis Claridge, NU quarterback who is a native of Minnesota.

Gopher DRESSING ROOM

Another factor in the Huskers' favor, according to Warmath, was the experienced depth in the NU line. "I couldn't tell much difference between the two lines," he noted.

The Gophers' all-American tackle candidate Carl Eller agreed with his coach in discussing the relative strength of the two Husker lines.

"The only difference I could tell between the two lines Nebraska had was that they had different numbers on their jerseys," Eller said.

"Nebraska's line is big and strong and they have eight or nine backs who can go and they don't stop when you hit them," he said.

Gopher quarterback Bob Sadek praised the play of his forward wall in providing pass protection, but noted that one of the reasons Nebraska's line didn't get much of a rush on him was because of their pass plays.

"Many of our passes were real quick and this doesn't give linemen a chance to put much of a rush on you," Sadek said.

Sadek noted that he was unable to detect any letdown among the Husker team after the Gophers' early touchdown. "They (Nebraska) stayed right in there," he observed.

Flat Passing One Minnesota Move Giving NU Trouble

pass has been praised in the past by Devaney primarily for his defensive play That he was in on offense in the critical time in the game was by no means shocking, but at least a little surprising.

Devaney explained that the reason Jeter hadn't played more offense was not because he wasn't capable, but because he was used on defense so much and needed a little rest.

One other player who was used a surprising amount on offense was Bruce Smith, who had a good day running, a fact Devaney noted.

That it was the kind of a game it was, certainly wasn't a surprise to Devaney.

Devaney said he felt the Gophers had a good passing game, regardless of how it was defensed.

"If Murray comes up with a running game to go with his passing, they (the Gophers) can cause trouble."

Lawrence, Kan. (UPI) — Halfback Gale Sayers scored the only touchdown and set up a field goal Saturday to lead Kansas to a 10-0 victory over Syracuse.

Sayers, the Big Eight Conference's leading rusher last season, scampered 26 yards for the game's lone touchdown in the third period and caught a 30-yard pass from sophomore quarterback Steve Renko that set up Gary Duff's 28-yard field goal in the second period.

Kansas, outweighted 22 pounds per man by burly Syracuse, used Sayers for the big plays in its first victory of the season. The fleet junior gained 122 yards on 17 carries.

Syracuse threatened only twice after Sayers' touchdown. The visitors launched a sustained drive from their own 32-yard line and in six plays moved to the Jayhawk two. But the drive ended there when William Shoonover fumbled and Jay Roberts recovered for Kansas.

Syracuse moved inside the Kansas 10 again in the final minutes of the game, but the Jayhawks held on downs.

Fumbles hurt Kansas in the first half when Syracuse recovered two of the three Kansas bobbles. The most costly occurred late in the second period after KU had gained possession on the Syracuse seven.

Two plays later, fullback Armand Baughman carried the ball into the end zone for Kansas but fumbled the ball into the arms of John Snider. Snider ran it out to the one-yard line, depriving the Jays of a touchdown.

The earlier lost fumble snuffed out Kansas' first-period drive on the Syracuse 40. Sayers had raced 21 yards to the Syracuse 44, but he fumbled on the next play and guard John Salerno recovered.

Kansas gained 209 yards rushing, compared with 164 for Syracuse. Kansas, in keeping its attack primarily on the ground, added 36 yards by completing two of four passes.

Syracuse completed three of 13 aerials for 20 yards.

Fumble Produces Miami Win

Miami, Fla. (AP) — Miami pounced on a Purdue fumble with less than four minutes to go, turned the break into a 24-yard field goal by Don Cifra, and defeated Purdue 3-0 Saturday night in a tough defensive football battle.

It was fullback Gene Donaldson's fumble, the second by a Purdue player in a crucial situation, that set up Miami's victory. Tony Saladino pounced on it at the Boilermaker 28.

South Carolina Rallies to Win

Columbia, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina mustered its ground forces for two touchdowns in the third period and came from behind to defeat Maryland 21-13 in a rain-plagued Atlantic Coast Conference football game Saturday night.

Soph quarterback Jim Rogers, subbing for injured Dan Reeves, steered the Gamecocks to both touchdowns, utilizing the running power of fullback Carl Huggins.

Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—Sophomore quarterback Gary Lane sparked Missouri's Tigers with a 70-yard third quarter touchdown drive for a 7-6 football victory over eighth-ranked Arkansas Saturday night. Fullback Gus Otto scored Missouri's tally from the two.

Lane and sophomore halfback Monroe Phelps sparked an awakened Missouri offense in the second half and the Tigers' big experienced line stopped Arkansas cold. Lane set up the touchdown with a 25-yard pass to end Bud Abell to the Arkansas two.

The Razorbacks grabbed a touchdown the first time they got the ball on an 80-yard drive directed by junior quarterback Bill Gray. Gray heaved a 26-yard pass to tailback Jim Lindsey for the score.

Tom McKnelly's kick for extra point was short, and that was Arkansas' downfall. Missouri's Bill Leistritz kicked his extra point for the win.

Lane, who bootlegged and pitched out with the finesse of a senior, gained 48 yards rushing and 55 passing on four completions in eight tries. Phelps and Lindsey tied for ground gaining honors with 63 yards each.

Los Angeles (AP) — The powerful Sooners of Oklahoma defeated the national champions of the University of Southern California 17-12 Saturday with a magnificent and versatile attack which wrecked the Trojan defenses for most of the game.

The defeat was registered in 105-degree heat before 39,345 sweltering fans in Memorial Coliseum. It ended a 12-game winning streak for Trojans, dating back to the final game of the 1961 season.

All of the Sooner scoring came in the first half, and they held off an exciting but belated Trojan challenge in the final quarter to one touchdown.

It was the first meeting in history between these two college powers — Southern Cal, the No. 1 rated team in the country, and Oklahoma, rated No. 3 in last week's Associated Press poll.

Quarterback Bobby Page and the aggressive Sooners took over on their own one after a Trojan punt in the first quarter. They traveled 99 yards — interrupted by an exchange of fumbles on successive plays at the Sooner 35 — and went on to score the opening touchdown.

The Trojan fumble in this series was one of two that gave the ball to Oklahoma. The Sooners displayed a magnificent exhibition of ball control throughout the afternoon.

Southern Cal came back in the first quarter with a 67-yard thrust engineered by quarterback Pete Beathard, with fullback Ernie Pye plunging one yard for the six points. A bad pass from center cost them the extra point and the Trojans trailed 7-6.

Sophomore quarterback Mike Ringer took the Oklahoma controls and the Sooners went 52 yards in 10 plays. The drive was highlighted by one complex reverse which netted Looney 19 yards on a pass to set up the score.

A fumble by Beathard was turned into a 43-yard field goal by the efficient Jarman, and the Sooners left the field at half time leading 17-6.

The third quarter was scoreless, although Oklahoma marched 79 yards to the Trojan one. A penalty set the ball back to the six and Jarman's field goal attempt was blocked by Hal Bedsole.

Beathard and his two fine halfbacks, Willie Brown and Mike Garrett, kept the Trojan hopes alive with a dazzling exhibition that carried the ball 93 yards and touchdown. Brown went over from the one but a pass attempt for a two-point conversion was unsuccessful.

Southern Cal had the ball once more but surrendered possession deep in its own territory when three straight passes were dropped.

S.D. State Recovers To Romp

Brookings, S.D. (UPI)—Led by a three touchdown output by sophomore halfback Reed Sanderson South Dakota State smashed visiting Colorado State College 54-14 before a crowd of 3,000 wind blown fans.

South Dakota State's Jackrabbits scored once in the first quarter, three times in the second and third quarter and then climaxed the game with a touchdown with 43 seconds left in the game.

Colorado's only touchdowns came in the fourth quarter after halfback Steve Morgan scoring from 10 yards out with little over 12 minutes to play. The bears' second touchdown came seven minutes later on a pass from Jerry Colgate to Bill Burns from 15 yards out.

State out-played the Bears, racking up 23 first downs to 12 for Colorado. The Jacks gained 231 yards on the ground compared to 111 yards for the Bears.

This was the second victory of the season for the Jacks, who are recovering from a 58-7 loss at the hands of Nebraska last weekend. The Bears dropped their second straight contest of the season.

Concordia Hits Westmar

Le Mars, Iowa (AP) — Concordia Teachers of Seward defeated Westmar 13-3 Saturday night in a Tri-State Conference football game.

Westmar scored first on a 14-yard field goal by Tom Wiltgen in the first period and was shut out the rest of the way.

Shark Highlights Angling

Bahama Fishing Rated Tops

By PETE CZURA

West End, Bahama Islands — For five tortured minutes Charles Mack sweated under the hot Bahama sun as he tried to land a stubborn grouper.

He marched up and down the starboard side of the J. Orange, a 40-foot fishing boat skippered by Capt. Steve Hollingsworth.

"Dammit," grumbled Mack, our host from Mercury motors.

"I wanted to keep our string of different fishes going and this busted our record," he said.

During a span of 30 minutes we had hauled up a pilot fish, trigger fish, resplendent in colors, Nassau grouper, strawberry grouper, and several ugly barracuda's.

So far the yellowtails had avoid our hooks but Hollingsworth said he would take us to a new hot spot.

But before he started the engine, we asked him to let us try one more time in this hole, about 14 miles from the Grand Bahama Island.

A sailing vessel drifted by, and a squadron of gulls shot overhead, as I dropped my offering into the cobalt blue waters of the Atlantic.

I had made about two jigs with my offering when something evil hit my hooks and shot away like its hind end had been turpentined.

Hollingsworth grinned and said, "You got a shark, Mr. Pete."

I tried to shove the butt end of my rod into my flabby stomach, so I could have some place to pump my rod up and down.

At first it hurt the soft tummy. But I gritted my teeth and for about 25 minutes we slugged it out with the killer fish of the ocean.

We panted and pranced around the deck of the J. Orange like a tango dancer. Once we felt the reel and, it was so hot from the terrific line-taking of the shark it burned my fingers.

Finally, the shark began to come in and we felt we were winning the battle. Then it showed up atop the water about 100 feet to the stern of the boat.

It was slate-gray and its evil mouth was agape, revealing a row of razor-sharp teeth which could sever a man's leg or arm as clean as a scalpel.

Our legs could hardly hold us up as we cranked the evil shark near the stern.

I groaned with despair. But after thinking it over, I'm glad we didn't try to get the assassin in the boat.

It would have been murder —for us — and a slippery shark belongs where it roams —in the water — not in a boat!

We managed to catch yellowtails later, but that one tussle with the shark pooped us out!

Know Your Ducks

Before going after ducks this fall, the U.S. Department of Interior urges every waterfowler to equip himself with the know-how of ducks and geese sought.

Once again game enforcement officials are stressing the need to recognize the quarry before pulling the trigger.

This booklet shows fall migration colors of ducks and geese, and portrays waterfowl as hunters see them in the wild.

Good Insurance

The puddle ducks are mallard, black duck, widgeon, gadwall, shoveller, blue-winged teal, green-wings, pintails, connamon teal, and wood duck.

Diving ducks are canvasback, redheads (both are protected again this year), common goldeneye, bufflehead, lesser scaup, ring-necked duck, greater scaup, ruddy, merganser group — common, red-breasted and hooded.

Copies can be obtained from Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, for 25 cents.

This is a good investment and insurance from getting you into trouble when the ducks swoop down over your blocks. Knowing which ducks you can take can prevent the embarrassment of being pinched for taking protected birds, too.

Railroads Taboo

With the approach of hunting season, a reminder is given here that railroads prohibit hunting along their right-of-ways.

The ban is strictly enforced by all railroads in order to protect sportsmen and to prevent damage to railroad property from careless use of firearms.

Reckless use of firearms can disrupt signals and could precipitate a major disaster.

Most sportsmen observe the "no tresspassing" signs along railroad right-of-ways. But to those who are tempted to try a swing along some tracks for game, don't do it.

The fine and penalty is not worth it. Neither is the bad name you acquire from such a venture.

Waterfowl Outlook Is Good

Sportsmen can look forward to plenty of good shooting during the waterfowl season, which opens for geese on Oct. 2, according to M. O. Steen, Game Commission director.

There are large quantities of waterfowl in the state at the present time, Commission technicians report, and barring any drastic changes in conditions, there should be good hunting ahead.

Only the goose season opens Oct. 2 and will close on Dec. 15. Daily bag limit is five and possession limit is five. Limits may not include more than two Canada geese, or one Canada and its subspecies, or one white-fronted goose, or one Ross's goose.

Opening day for all other legal waterfowl is Oct. 5. Canvasbacks and redheads are protected and are not legal game. The entire state is open for waterfowl hunting.

The season on ducks, mergansers, and coots is split. Dates for these species are Oct. 5 through Oct. 13 and Nov. 16 through Dec. 8. Shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset, except from noon on both opening days. Shooting hours for all other species are from sunrise to sunset.

Lad Fined for Wanton Waste

The arrest of Duane Leibhart, 19, Broken Bow, for wanton waste was included in the latest report of arrests by Game Commission conservation officers.

Another Shift Coming

Gering, Scottsbluff, Alliance and Sidney formed as close a knit group as one could ask for in the wide open spaces where travel is the most perplexing problem facing high school athletics.

The enrolment shift gives the Nebraska School Activities Assn. directors another task of revising basketball tournament assignments.

The arrival of Omaha Beveridge and Blair in Class A and the shift of Gering and Lexington to Class B will prompt a wholesale revision of the Class A basketball setup.

The Lincoln district, which includes Lincoln High, Northeast, Southeast and Pius X, may be the only one to escape without revision.

South Still Biggest

Twenty-eight of the 32 Class A schools showed increases in boy enrollment according to the unofficial early report made to the NSAA.

Only schools showing losses were Grand Island (-55), Hastings (-3), Omaha Bishop Ryan (-24) and South Sioux City (-4).

Omaha South, with a gain of 277 boys, now has an enrollment of 1,837, nearly 300 more than runnerup Lincoln High's 1,553.

All dividing lines between classes are higher this year. Last year's divisions were: Class A, 230 and up; Class B, 99-229; Class C, 47-98 and Class D, up to 47. This year's divisions are: Class A, 258 and up; Class B, 103-246; Class C, 51-102 and Class D, up to 51.

Where Are They Now?

Backs Wayne Weber of Hastings, Larry Wachholtz of North Platte and Kaye Carstens of Fairbury and end Tom Smith of Hastings are on the Husker freshman squad. Gering's Pete Johnson is at Nebraska, but not playing football.

Omaha University landed Morrie Bantner of Omaha Benson and Don Loftus of Omaha South.

Migrating out of the state were Dan Miller of Omaha North (Minnesota) and Bob Thomas of North Platte (Air Force Academy).

Grand Island's Dick Luebbe is attending Kearney State, but not playing football, and LeRoy Kobza of David City Aquinas did not enroll in college.

Pittsburgh (AP) — Junior quarterback Fred Mazurek scored one touchdown, passed for another and made two clutch defensive plays in the fourth period to lead unbeaten Pitt to a 13-6 victory Saturday over a stubborn Washington team.

His 14-yard pass to Joe Kuzneski in the fourth period insured Pitt its victory, but without Mazurek's sterling defensive efforts in the clutch the 10th ranked Panthers would not have won their second game of the season.

Mazurek's first game-saving effort came right after Washington scored its touchdown on Dave Kopay's two-yard plunge.

With the score 7-6 in Pitt's favor, Washington fullback Charlie Browning took a pitch-out to the left in a gamble for two points, but Mazurek, coming up fast from his defensive halfback slot, smeared Browning for a loss.

After Pitt had scored following the ensuing on-side kick, Steve Bramwell's 70-yard return put the Huskies in scoring position again on the Panther 27.

But four plays later, Mazurek intercepted Bill Doublas' pass on the Pitt two to end the Washington threat.

Pitt sewed up the game after the interception by driving 86 yards, eating up most of the four minutes remaining before Washington recovered Mazurek's fumble on the one-yard line.

Might Be Year's Top Tilt

Boys Town, Ryan Set to Battle

What may well be one of the year's top high school football contests is scheduled this week as Boys Town closes out the Nebraska portion of its schedule.

Omaha Bishop Ryan, unbeaten in three starts and carrying the No. 2 rating in Class A ranks, invades the Boys Town field Friday night.

Other major non-conference showdowns in the Class A division this week are the Grand Island at Lincoln High, Lincoln Southeast at Bellevue and Fremont at Benson games.

Interest in Class B is centered on the Minden-Broken Bow, Ord-Central City and York-Crete contests.

Columbus, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State threw away its "three yards and a cloud of dust offense" Saturday, turned loose its halfbacks for the first time in several seasons and defeated Texas A&M, 17-0, in the Buckeyes' season opener before 81,241 fans.

The visiting Aggies, 14-6 losers to LSU a week ago, were held to a single first down in the first three quarters, and made their only spurt late in the game as Ohio State's third stringers took the field.

Coach Woody Hayes, who has featured a fullback-up-the-middle and a quarterback-rollout offense, sent his scurrying halfbacks on 38 of the 58 rushes and they gained 183 of the 220 yards the Buckeyes rolled up on the ground.

Fullback Matt Snell carried 13 times for 29 yards, but his big efforts came on plunges for both Buckeye touchdowns. He went a foot for one in the first period, and a yard for the other in the third.

Paul Arfield gained 85 yards in 18 tries to lead the Buckeye assault, and Tyrone Barnett, his halfback running mate, made 69 in 14 tries. The entire Aggie team gained only 111 yards, 70 rushing and 41 through the air.

Most of the Texas gains came in the final period but three drives were halted by a fumble, a pass interception and a loss on downs deep in Ohio State territory.

South Bend, Ind. (AP)—Wisconsin's battering Badgers, behind all the way, scored with 67 seconds left on fullback Ralph Kurek's one-yard smash to whip stubborn Notre Dame 14-9 in the fighting Irish football opener Saturday.

Notre Dame, under new coach Hugh Devore, came out scrapping and stormed to a 9-0 lead before the Badgers, and particularly new quarterback Harold Brandt, had warmed up to the form that swept them to the Big Ten title last season.

Southpaw Brandt, under great pressure as the heir apparent to graduated Ron VanderKelen, not only took complete charge of Wisconsin's closing 80-yard payoff drive but also found a target reminiscent of Pat Richter in rubber-legged end Jimmy Jones.

Jones, 6-foot-2, 187-pound junior from Washington, D.C., grabbed six passes for 100 yards, including a four-yard shot for Wisconsin's first touchdown in the second period and a one-handed circus catch of a 16-yarder on a key play in the Badgers' desperate closing march.

That catch put the ball on Notre Dame's 15. Then, the cagey Brandt, who had passed on five of the previous seven plays, faked beautifully and sent Kurek darting on a quick one-yer 14 yards to the Irish one.

On the next play, Kurek, a bull for the Badgers with 21 carries, clawed into the end zone for the decisive touchdown with 1:07 left.

Evanston, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern surrendered the ball to Indiana six times on fumbles and pass interceptions Saturday and then came from behind on a 91-yard touchdown kickoff return by Willie Stinson and a 34-yard field goal by Pete Stamison to pull out a 34-21 Big Ten football victory.

The heavily favored Wildcats found themselves trailing Indiana and senior halfback Mary Woodson 21-14 early in the third quarter, when Indiana's sophomore passing combination of Frank Starvroff to Bill Malinchak clicked on an eight-yard touchdown pass.

Stinson took the ensuing kickoff and raced 91 yards for the game - tying touchdown, and Stamison booted his tough angled field goal with 8:23 left in the game. Northwestern then added an insurance touchdown in the final two minutes.

Until Stinson broke loose with his electrifying run, the seventh-ranked Wildcats appeared headed for defeat, although they twice had led by seven points.

Tommy Myers, Northwestern's passing ace, had three of his passes intercepted. Nevertheless, he had a hand in each of Northwestern's scores except Stinson's kickoff return.

Myers set up the Wildcat's first touchdown with a 54-yard pass to George Burman, who was brought down from behind by Woodson. Northwestern eventually scored for a 7-0 lead. But early in the second period, Indiana, after intercepting a pass, went 33 yards for a score. Woodson went in from the two-yard line.

Myers hit Gary Crum with a 55-yard touchdown pass for a 14-7 lead. But Woodson set up the tying score with a 58-yard kickoff return, and a 14-14 halftime tie.

After Woodson hauled down Dick McCauley from behind on the end of a 65-yard run, Indiana gained control of the ball and marched 80 yards for a touchdown and a 21-14 lead.

Then Stinson came up with his tying sprint, and Northwestern put on a last-quarter spurt, which included Stamison's field goal, a three-yard touchdown run by Steve Murphy, and a safety in the final seconds for its second consecutive victory this season.

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—Michigan, held scoreless in the first quarter, scored three touchdowns in the second period and went on to post a 27-16 victory over Southern Methodist in an intersectional football game Saturday.

The Wolverines, led by substitute quarterback Frosty Evashevski, went 92 yards after center Brian Patchen recovered an SMU fumble on the Michigan two yard line. Junior halfback Dick Rindfuss capped the drive with a twisting, 19-yard gallop off left tackle rolled to a commanding 21-0 lead at halftime.

Michigan's second touchdown came on a 50-yard run by guard O'Donnell. O'Donnell went back in punt formation, but instead of kicking tucked the ball under his arm and went in to score.

Michigan's line, which outweighed the Mustangs' by about 17 pounds per man, thwarted the next SMU drive and the visitors punted out on the Michigan 24. Evashevski took command again and marched the Wolverines 76 yards in 10 plays for a third touchdown.

The score came on a soft, five-yard toss to Bill Laskey. A 32-yard aerial from Evashevski to Laskey was the longest gainer in the march and put the ball on the five.

Southern Methodist didn't get rolling until the fourth period when the Michigan line-up was sprinkled with reserves. Then the Mustangs managed to score twice.

Halfback Billy Gannon sliced in from the three for the first touchdown and quarterback Danny Thomas bulled his way in from a yard out for the second.

The second drive started when SMU covered an on-side kick on the 50. The first SMU march covered 87 yards and featured long passes by Thomas.

Iowa City, Iowa, (UPI) — Clutch passing Dave Mathieson and fleet Clarence Williams lifted injury-ridden Washington State from a two-touchdown deficit to forge a 14-14 tie with the favored Iowa Hawkeyes Saturday.

The Cougars, down 14-0 at the half, scored on a three-yard pass from Mathieson to end Clete Baltes in the third period and then tied the game on a 23-yard run by Williams with only 6:15 left in the game. The sure-footed Baltes added both vital points after.

Iowa, a two-touchdown favorite, barged 78 yards for a touchdown on its first series of downs, scoring on a 3-yard pass from quarterback Fred Riddle to halfback Paul Krause.

The Hawks added another TD in the second period on a one-yard sneak by Riddle.

But the bright sun gave way to flying dust and gray skies and the Hawkeye hopes faded with the weather.

The Cougars, operating without the fulltime services of ailing star center Dean Kalahar, fleet fullback Herm McKee and workhorse halfback Ken Graham, ignored the absence of their mainstays and opened the second half by marching 80 yards to a touchdown.

Iowa's defense, which had held State to only 2 yards rushing in the first half, folded before the slashing running of Williams, who carried the Cougars to their first score practically single handedly.

The Iowa defense dug in and appeared to have halted State's rejuvenated attack, but Mathieson fooled everyone in the stadium with a fourth down 2-yard pass to Baltes for the score.

In the final period, the Cougars bolted quickly from their own 36-yard line to the tying touchdown. Halfback John Browne found a hole at right guard and scampered 40 yards to the Iowa 23, and Williams rocketed the rest of the way on the next play.

The Cougars almost pulled it out when they knifed to the Iowa 25-yard line in the last 42 seconds of play but Mathieson was nailed for a 12-yard loss.

Spartan signal-caller Steve Juday, starting his first varsity game, directed his team in a 73-yard touchdown drive as soon as Michigan State got the ball at the kickoff.

The scoring sequence was a spectacular one. Juday passed from the North Carolina 20 complete to end Tom Krezemienski on the eight. The big end saw he was bottled up and flipped a lateral to left halfback Sherm Lewis, who went in for the score.

Lou Bobich, kicking soccer style, made the extra point.

Guard John Karpinski set up the Michigan State three-pointer when he intercepted a pass by North Carolina's Junior Edge on the Tar Heel 35. Bobich kicked the 35-yard field goal in the second period.

Karpinski put Michigan State in position for a third period touchdown when he recovered a fumble on the North Carolina 26. Fullback Roger Lopes ground out the big yardage in the drive to the goal line.

Lopes ran 76 yards through the middle of the North Carolina defense for a fourth quarter touchdown that put the game away and Bobich again connected for the extra point.

North Carolina, stopped by a bigger line when rushing and unable to make its long pass tries pay off, never seriously threatened. The Tar Heels missed on a 4-yard field goal try in the second period.

Champaign, Ill. (AP) — Sophomore Sam Price of Toledo, Ohio cracked nine yards for a third period touchdown to break a scoreless deadlock and launched Illinois' football season with a 10-0 victory over California.

Another rookie, quarterback Fred Custardo of Melrose Park, Ill., set up a field goal with his passes in the last quarter. His two aerials to Dave Mueller were good for 21 yards, and he hit Jim Warren for 15 more.

Twice the alert Illini thwarted the Golden Bears' aerial attack in the scoreless first half by stealing Craig Morton's passes. Mike Dundy filched one on the Illini 13 to end a threatening 37-yard drive in the opening quarter.

After California took over the ball on the Illini 28 in the second quarter, following a fizzled punt by Mike Taliaferro, another intercepted pass killed off what threat there was.

Morton also was victimized constantly attempting to pass by the charging of such linemen as Bill Kasko, Dick Butkus, Don Hansen and Archie Button. He was spilled for big losses just at times when it looked as if the Golden Bears were getting started.

Late in the fourth period, Dundy stole another pass—this one by Jim Hunt. He returned it 26 yards to the California 10, but that was as far as the Illini could get.

Price, Al Wheatland and Warren alternated hitting the line in a 70-yard Illini drive at the start of the third. But California held for downs on the five and took over. On the first play, Tom Blanchfield's fumble was recovered by George Donnelly on the 13. On the second down, Price slanted through tackle from the nine and plopped across the goal line. Plankenhorn booted the extra point.

Late TDs Boost Omaha U

Omaha (UPI) — Omaha University erupted for two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to top Idaho State, 19-6 in a game played on a windy gridiron here Saturday.

The players were hampered throughout the game by northerly winds 35 miles per hour, gusting at times to around 40 miles per hour.

The Indians began to come to life in the third period when Wayne Backes punched over from one yard out for the first score. Backes also scored the second touchdown for the home team, this one on a two-yard thrust.

The Indians scored 74 yards on three completed passes and Idaho State gained 54 yards on four successful passes. Backes garnered 102 yards in 15 carries for the winners and Shaw gained a total of 58 yards in 18 carries.

Each team had 14 first downs.

Duke Breezes

Charlottesville, Va. (AP) — Duke's versatile Blue Devils took the wind out of Virginia's defensive sails with Jay Wilkinson's 64-yard touchdown run in the second period Saturday and rolled to a 30-8 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory over the penalty-plagued Cavaliers.

Stanford Tops Oregon 36-7

Stanford, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Bob Berry passed for the first two touchdowns and ran for the third Saturday in leading Oregon to a 36-7 triumph over a Stanford team that couldn't hang on to the football.

The visitors recovered six Indian fumbles and intercepted two passes enroute to their highest score in the series history dating back to 1900.

Rebels Smash Kentucky, 31-7

Lexington, Ky. (AP) — Mississippi's powerful Rebels, gunning for a place among the nation's top ten, crushed Kentucky 31-7 Saturday night in the Southeastern Conference football opener for both schools.

The Rebels, who lost their No. 2 pre-season ranking last Saturday when they were held to a scoreless tie by Memphis State, threw everything they had at Kentucky and completely dominated the contest.

CAN YOU HANDLE RED TAPE?

Buying or selling a piece of real estate is not only one of the most IMPORTANT transactions you're likely to make, but it's one of the most COMPLICATED, too!

Did you ever stop to think of the mountain of complicated "red tape" . . . the negotiations and financial details . . . that must be expertly handled if the transaction is to be worked out smoothly and with the least possibility of error? Involved matters of title, deeds, taxes, insurance and financing . . . to name only a few . . . are over the head of the average layman and should be handled by a fully qualified specialist in Real Estate.
